Tax assessment dispute causes walkout at court

BENTON — An outburst during Thursday's Scott County Court meeting, caused County Assessor Bill Ferrell to walk out of the courtroom as a result of a disagreement with Sam Drusch of Cape Girardeau, an attorney for the Tanksley Trucking Co., over the 1974 tax assessment on the firm's equipment.

The trucking company is located on Nash Road two miles north of Scott City in the northern extremity of Scott County.

Ferrell, walked out after being interrupted twice by Drusch while explaining the problem he is having with the Tanksley assessment to members of the County Court.

At one point, when Ferrell placed his hand on the table to emphasize the point he was making, Drusch slammed his hand down on the table.

Ferrell said he wrote a letter to Drusch in February requesting a list of the equipmeht the Tanklsey firm owns. "In the letter I mentioned that I would be glad to discuss this matter with him," Ferrell said.

He said he received the material from Drusch in April. "I telephoned Drusch last Friday after I had examined the list and asked him if we could have a meeting to discuss this matter ... and he refused," Ferrell remarked.

Ferrell said the attorney told him the 1974 assessment for Tanksley was going to remain the same and if there was going to be any meeting, it would have to be in the presence of the County Court.

Drusch told the court members a different story.

During a telephone conversation, he said Ferrell told him he was the new assessor and that things were going to be done in a different way from now on.

Drusch also asked Presiding Judge Les Lankford if he remembered a telephone conversation a few weeks ago in which he said the assessment would remain the same as it had been for the past two years.

Lankford denied making the statement and said the court could not make a decision on the amount of taxes Tanksley would pay until the firm appeared before the Board of Equalization.

"It's up to Ferrell to place an assessment on the equipment. He may be new, but he is being fair and doing a good job," Lankford remarked.

Drusch said the Tanksley firm has received a fair break on taxes in the past. "The tractors have not been assessed ... only the trailers," he remarked.

If Ferrell adds the tractors to the assessment list, Drusch said, the firm will have to pay a lot more money.

"In the past the trucking company has only paid approximately $20,000 in taxes, but this could bring it up to at least $60,000," he said.

First District Associate Judge Eldon Ziegenhorn said that if the tractors were not on the books someone would have to assess them.

Ferrell said Drusch has never asked him how much the taxes for Tanksley would amount to. "I will treat Tanksley the same as any other business," he remarked.

"I intend to assess a farmer, private individual or business from the same schedule on their vehicles," Ferrell said.

In other business before the court, Oscar Woods, mayor of Haywood City, appeared before the court and asked if his town could receive assistance to build a new community building.

The court members told Woods to talk to Phil Shelton, director of the Bootheel Economic Development Council at Malden.

The court also announced that it has accepted a bid of $7,497 from Superior Business Machines of Sikeston for remodeling the circuit clerk's vault.

The court rejected a low bid of $3,661 from Elkins Swyers Co. of Springfield.

Lankford said the lower bid was not a complete bid. "The bid we accepted is for twice as much material and the work will last for approximately 50 years."

Unemployment rate drops for second straight month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate edged down from 5.1 per cent to 5 per cent of the work force in April, the government said today.

It was the second consecutive month that the unemployment rate had dropped.

Labor Department analysts considered the two-month decline significant but said it was too early to determine whether it was the beginning of a trend.

Unemployment jumped from a 3½-year low of 4.6 per cent in October to 5.2 per cent in January, reflecting the downturn in the economy and the spreading effects of the fuel shortage.

It remained 5.2 per cent in February before dipping to 5.1 per cent in March.

Despite the recent decline, the Nixon administration has said it expects some increases in the unemployment rate later this year, particularly during the summer as more teen-agers enter the work force.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, about 4.5 million Americans were without jobs in April. That was about 200,000 fewer than in January and February but still 430,000 higher than in October at the start of the oil embargo.

Total employment stood at 85.8 million last month, about the same as in March.

After rising rapidly during the previous two years, employment has shown very little growth since October, reflecting the lack of growth of jobs in the blue collar and service occupations, the government said.

There also has been little growth in the civilian labor force, which was seasonally adjusted 90.3 million persons in April, about the same as in March. The labor force includes both employed and unemployed persons.

The government said the recall of auto workers laid off during the Arab oil embargo helped manufacturing employment to rebound in April. The transportation equipment industry added 60,000 workers to its payrolls last month following three months of heavy job losses.

But in construction, there was a drop of 70,000 jobs.

The unemployment rate for adult men jumped sharply in April from 3 per cent to 3.6 per cent, while the rate for adult women remained at 4.9 per cent, about the level of the past four months.

A large number of teen-agers leaving the labor force in April prompted a decline in the jobless rate for youth, from 15 per cent to 13.8 per cent.

The jobless rates for household heads and married men, both of which had risen substantially since last fall, were mostly unchanged in April.

For Vietnam-era veterans, aged 20 to 34, the jobless rate held at 5.1 per cent last month, about the same as in the previous three months but sharply higher than the rate for the last quarter of 1973. For younger veterans, aged 20 to 24, the unemployment rate was 9.2 per cent.

The jobless rate for blacks dipped from 9.4 to 8.7 per cent in April, close to the average level for 1973. The rate for whites, 4.5 per cent, did not change during the month.

The average work week of production workers continued to decline in April, dropping by 12 minutes to 36.6 hours. Average overtime in manufacturing was off 48 minutes.

Average hourly earnings of production workers rose two-tenths of one per cent last month but the reduced work week caused average weekly earnings to drop by threetenths of one per cent.

Weekly earnings averaged $147.74 in April, a drop of 86 cents from March but were still $6.41 higher than a year ago.

Can rain be far behind?

Thursday's heavy cloud cover, seen here from South Frisco Street, looking north, may have been a forewarning of Bootheel weather today. Heavy thunderstorms and high winds ranged over Dunklin County this morning, and thundershowers were predicted for the Sikeston area by afternoon. An estimated 1,700 Boy and Girls Scouts should have sunny weather by Saturday for their respective weekend camporees near Malden and Oran.

Kennett pedestrian is 27th fatality

A Kennett pedestrian was killed and three persons were injured in three traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Thursday, according to a highway patrol spokesman who reported that the fatality was the 27th on Southeast Missouri roads this year, compared with 35 traffic deaths at the same time last year.

John L. Williams, 52, of Kennett Route One was killed at 8:45 p.m. on Route Z one and a half miles southeast of Kennett when he was struck by a 20-foot bedder attached to a farm tractor driven by Oliver Harrell, 62, of Kennett.

The patrol said Williams was standing on the shoulder on the west side of the road, about nine feet from the pavement, when he was struck by the machine being pulled by the tractor.

Williams' body was taken to McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

Lila Beeson, 49, of East Prairie was seriously injured in an accident at 12:25 p.m. about four miles east of Kewanee on Route P when her car struck the side of a road grader driven by George Baker, 63, of Risco as the grader was backing onto the road from a side road.

Mrs. Beeson was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

A one-vehicle accident at 10:50 p.m. on Highway 61 at the St. Francis River bridge at Fisk resulted in minor injuries to two persons.

Ricky Eugene Clark, 17, of Fisk received minor injuries when his westbound pickup truck struck the north bridge railing, knocking out about 65 feet of railing. The truck ran off the bridge into the river.

A passenger, Randy Clark, 16, of Fisk, also received minor injuries.

Both were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Vote on marshal set for June 4

LILBOURN-- The City Council Thursday night scheduled a special election on June 4 to elect a city marshal to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Roe.

Roe, who was elected to a two- year term April 2, has agreed to continue in the office until a new marshal is elected.

Candidates may file until noon May 24, according to Alderman Larry Joe Holtzhouser, acting city clerk.

In other business, the council agreed to provide matching funds up to the amount of $3,000, with the city park board paying the remainder for construction of a concrete, regulation size, double tennis court in the city park.

Bids are being accepted on construction of the court and all equipment.

Choral concert Sunday

The Sikeston High School concert choirs and Moderne Chorale will present their final public concert of the year Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the high school cafetorium. The concert will be a festival of popular music under the direction of Gordon Beaver, director of school choral activities.

Senior choir accompanists will be Lee Clayton, Melodie Powell and Marsha Entrekin. Junior accompanists will be Andrea Harber and Sandy Hei.

During the concert, Terry Teachout and Bryan Crites will provide string bass and percussion accompaniment for most of the numbers performed by both choirs and the chorale.

Solos will be sung by seniors Steve Skalsky and Marsha Cothern during the folk song, "Near in Mountains", by Abner Grender. Miss Cothern will also sing the solo "Swing Chariot", which will be presented by the Moderne Chorale.

Other instrumental accompaniment will be presented by Julie Masterson and John Leible during "And I Remember," which will be sung by Concert Choir VII.

Concert Choir VI will begin the concert with "The Wind Of Life," "Near In Mountains", "With Everything Changing", followed by a novelty, "In The Good Old Summertime", "Let It Be Me", "Happy Together" and will end with a spiritual, "Ride The Chariot".

The Moderne Chorale will

Port authority bill could mean millions to Bootheel

A bill authorizing any county or city bordering the Mississippi River to form a port authority could mean millions of dollars to the Bootheel in terms of jobs and lower prices, according to State Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D- Cape Girardeau.

Spradling was a co-sponsor of the bill which is awaiting Gov. Christopher Bond's signature. The law would take effect Sept. 1.

Port authority bills have been introduced into the legislature in the past, but all have failed to pass. All bills in the past have been for the benefit of St. Louis, which has been reluctant to include the rest of the state in the bill, Spradling said.

"This bill goes farther than any other," he said, "in that it allows the Environmental Improvement Authority to issue revenue bonds to construct warehousing and port improvement."

The revenue to pay for the bonds would come from warehouse rental and dock fees, Spradling said.

The bill allows counties, cities or any combination of counties to form a port authority and apply for federal funding to dredge out a deep water port for year-around operation. The port authority must purchase the port land on its own, and then may apply for dredging.

Spradling said he has been told there is an excellent location for a deepwater port just south of Cape Girardeau, east of Interstate 55 near Cape Girardeau Municipal Airport.

He suggested that Cape Girardeau and Scott County might combine to form a joint port authority.

Spradling called the port authority bill the best thing Southeast Missouri has ever seen to help boost industry in the area.

The bill could create employment and lower prices, Spradling said. He pointed out that a barge can carry the equivalent of 250 to 300 railroad cars worth of goods and that barge shipping is the least expensive form of transportation.

Spradling said a tremendous amount of interest in the bill is being shown in New Madrid. However, Sam Hunter Jr., a member of the New Madrid Port Authority, said no definite plans have been made to utilize provisions of the bill.

Graham seeking prosecutor's post

CHARLESTON-- Edward C. "Eddie" Graham, a Charleston attorney, announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the office of prosecuting attorney of Mississippi County in the Aug. 6 primary election.

Graham is presently engaged in the practice of law at 105 E. Court St. He was associated with the late Roderic R. Ashby in law practice until Ashby's death last December.

A 1964 graduate of Charleston High School, Graham received his bachelor's degree from Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., in 1968 and his juris doctorate (law) degree from University of Missouri- Columbia in 1971.

He was employed for two years on the legal staff of Kansas City Life Insurance Co. in Kansas City before returning to Charleston to practice law.

Graham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Graham of Charleston. He is 28 years old and he and his wife Dolores have two children- Shannon, 5, and Tiffany, 2. The Grahams live at 1410 Warde Road.

He is a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Edward C. Graham

In announcing his candidacy, Graham issued the following statement:

"The prosecuting attorney represents the state and the people of this county in the courts against those who violate the laws of the state in this county. Besides being a competent lawyer, the prosecuting attorney should be a person who understands and can deal with the variety of people in the county.

"I believe I have these necessary qualities and if elected, pledge myself to be fair and to uphold the law to the best of my ability."

THE AMERICAN LEGION SPEAKS OUT

The perennial issue of the U. S. defense budget is heating up in Washington. One voice that we think should be heard from on the issue is that of the American Legion, a group that has represented American servicemen from World War I through the War in Vietnam.

In an interview with Philip C. Clarke of the American Security Council, broadcast recently on the Mutual Radio Network, the Legion's director of National Security and Foreign Relations, James Wilson, came down strongly on the side of a stronger U. S. defense effort.

"We saw what the price of unpreparedness was," said Wilson. "It was paid for by the blood, sweat, and tears in World War I and later. We saw this same lesson repeated after World War I, after World War II, after Korea, and now we're seeing it happen again after Vietnam. Now, why the people that advocate unilateral disarmament gain such an upper hand, I have no way of knowing."

Wilson continued: "We must maintain a viable negotiating position, militarily from which we can seek the grounds for a continuing and lasting peace with the Soviet Union, which is the principal protaganist in the international community. We know, and we hope the general public knows, that the Soviet Union, despite SALT I, has continued to develop new weapons systems in practically every area, both strategic and the conventional systems.

"The United States must at least keep within reasonable distance. We, as an organization, would urge military superiority."

We find the American Legion's position persuasive. History teaches sorry lessons about the awful price of being militarily unprepared. The United States will indeed be treading on dangerous soil if we don't, in Wilson's words, keep within "reasonable distance" of the Soviet Union.

THE SILENT 50 PER CENT?

One journalist seems to have hit the "Watergate" nail squarely on the head.

A certain number of Americans — perhaps 25 per cent — will not believe anything bad about the President, notes Cleveland Press columnist Julian Krawcheck.

On the other hand, another 25 per cent will not believe anything good about him.

Thus the only reason for pursuing the various investigations of the President's conduct in office and his personal finances is to compile overwhelming evidence, for or against Mr. Nixon, that might convince the 50 per cent of Americans who are still open to persuasion.

BUGGING SHOWROOMS

WASHINGTON-- It was reported in the press that certain car dealers have been bugging their automobile showrooms so that they can hear what people are saying when they're out of earshot of the salesman. This, of course, makes it easier for the salesman to know what the prospective buyers are thinking, and therefore he can make a better pitch to sell a car.

Let's go into one of these showrooms. The couple has been looking at the cars on the floor alone for about 20 minutes. The salesman comes out of the back office and says:

'Well, Fanny, how do you like our new Mark II Panda?"

The woman looks startled. "How did you know my name was Fanny?"

The salesman gulps. "Your husband McKinley told me."

The husband says, "I never told you her name was Fanny. And how did you know my first name was McKinley?"

The salesman says, "Well, honestly, I didn't know, but I took a wild guess. You (ital) look (unital) like a Fanny and a McKinley. Now let's talk about the car. You're in the market for a hardtop in maroon with brown leather seats."

Fanny and McKinley look at each other in astonishment.

"We are looking for that color," Fanny says. "You must be a mind reader."

"After you've been in this business as long as I have, you get to know that certain people like certain colors. Now we do have a four- door Panda in Maroon with bucket seats. I'm sorry it doesn't come with a stick shift, McKinley, but you know Fanny doesn't like a stick shift, and I think you should bow to her wishes."

"I know Fanny doesn't like a stick shift and she knows she doesn't like a stick shift, but how the hell do you know she doesn't like a stick shift?"

The salesman laughs nervously. "By the way she's carrying her handbag."

'Let's get out of here," Fanny says to McKinley.

"Wait," the salesman says. "I want to be very honest with you. You two don't think you can afford a Panda, what with the orthodontist's bill for Nicky's teeth, and your daughter Frieda going off to Oberlin next fall, and Fanny's mother having to have that operation. Well, let me tell you. With a trade- in on your 1969 Ford Mustang, the Panda will still cost you less than $5,000."

McKinley asks the salesman, "Has someone told you about us?"

"Of course not. You're perfect strangers. This is the first time I've seen you. Show me a Fanny and a McKinley who don't have a son named Nicky and a daughter named Frieda going to Oberlin in the fall!"

McKinley asks, "Can I talk to my wife alone?"

"Of course," the salesman replies and retires to the back office.

"This is a real weird place, Fanny. He knows more about us than our next- door neighbors do."

'I know," Fanny whispers. "Let's tell him we'll think it over and be back next Tuesday."

The salesman rushes out of the back office and yells, "Could you make it Wednesday? I don't work on Tuesday, and I'd hate to lose the sale."

POPULAR WITH AVERAGE INCOME PERSON

Legislation that would reduce the Social Security rate from 5.85% to 3.9% has been introduced by Congressman Hungate. It would save the average working family making $9,000 a year around $175 annually in Social Security taxes, without any reduction in benefits.

To offset the loss from lowering the rate, Hungate would raise the ceiling on earnings subject to the tax from $13,200 to $25,000. The plan would also divide the Social Security tax three ways - between the employer, the employee and the federal government.

Thus, the lower income millions would benefit, while those most able to do so, would pay.

It sounds fine to Monroe Countians.

SOME FAVOR

The President has graciously offered to campaign for any Republican candidate for Congress who will ask him. Who will be the first one to call for help? From what we read, most Republicans consider him a liability and while maybe he didn't defeat that man in Michigan by personally going there to help him, the record he has in Washington has put a burden on all Republican candidates which a lot of them do not deserve. Read the "50 Years Ago" part of "Files from the Past," last week, where our illustrious predecessor, the late W. O. L. Jewett said, "President Harding certainly chose the worst cabinet of any chief magistrate in our history. Fall, a bribe taker, according to the evidence; Denby, at best, incompetent and a violator of the law; Daugherty, to whom the evidence points as not only a breaker of moral and human laws, but also a grafter." That was half a century ago. President Harding died and many writers say he committed suicide. We don't want any more Presidents to do that, but when conditions get as they are at the head of our government, we'd like to see a resignation before any more scandal weakens our relationship with other nations.

ST. LOUIS ONLY ONE AGIN' IT

Hearings by the Missouri State Highway Commission on the proposed Interstate across North Missouri have been held at Hannibal, Macon, Independence and Quincy.

Without exception the large numbers of delegations that attended wanted the road, their only difference of opinions being in just where it shall be located. That's natural, as most everyone wants a new highway to run at their door.

But, also without exception, all of these delegations want that highway across the area, regardless of where it is finally located.

The St. Louis county group is the only standout opposing it. Apparently, as one news commentator said last week, St. Louis doesn't want any highways built unless they detour and come through St. Louis.

With Interstate 80 far to the north of this section, in Iowa, and Interstate 70 far to the south, it is the widest stretch of prosperous country in the nation that does not have an east-west Interstate.

One look at the highway map of the nation is enough to convince anyone that here is one of the most needed travel arteries in our country, and one that will undoubtedly aid in building this area and in saving millions of dollars and millions of gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel.

Let's hurry it along.

HOW TO REDUCT TAXES? CUT OUT GOVERNMENT WASTE

While April 15 has just passed, we believe a lot of tax-conscious Americans now share a vagrant thought; What if I had in hand all that money taxes take from my pocket each year?

Furthermore, this is an election year when many candidates for Congress especially, will be asking for our votes so we in turn should ask them to take a stand on a tax cut.

If the average worker had only the amounts withheld for his or her Federal taxes in the last 10 years, that taxpayer might well be tempted to take a year off. Because over the past decade Federal withholding taxes alone add up to more than a year's pay for a typical employe.

For example, take a family of four with one breadwinner who had the median family income -- estimated at $11,894 in 1973 -- and also a median income in the previous nine years. Federal income and Social Security taxes for that family in the 1964- 1973 period total $12,395, or $501 more than the worker earned last year.

In addition to those direct Federal taxes, the same family has probably paid almost as much in other Federal taxes. There are other obvious Federal taxes like those on gasoline and telephone bills, and then there are hidden taxes, the taxes collected from business but actually paid, at least in part, by consumers. The share of the Social Security tax paid by employers and corporation income taxes, for example, fall in the category of hidden taxes.

The Tax Foundation calculates that all Federal taxes will take about 22 per cent of the average family income this year. At the same time, state and local taxes, although they vary widely across the nation and among families, will take an average of another 11 per cent of the family income, a total tax bite of 33 per cent.

The figures below show how Federal withholding taxes alone have taken more than a year's pay from the median income family in the last 10 years:

Year 1964 — Median Income was $6,569, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $766. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $5,803.

1965 — Median Income was $6,957, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $770. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $6,187.

1966 — Median Income was $7,500, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $963. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $6,537.

1967 — Median Income was $7,974, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $1,058. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $6,916.

1968 — Median Income was $8,632, Direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $1,289. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $7,343.

1969 — Median Income was $9,433, Direct Federal Taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,493. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $7,940.

1970 — Median Income was $9,867, Direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,473. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $8,394.

1971 — Median Income was $10,285, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,353. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $8,932.

1972 — Median Income was $11,116, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $1,473. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $9,643.

1973 — Median Income was $11,894 est. Direct Fed. Taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,757. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $10,137.

REPLACING NATURE'S VIOLENCE

A mere choice of words can sometimes influence the resolution of highly important issues. A brief pamphlet published by the National Forest Products Association shows how the word "clearcutting" has had an incalculable impact on the important issue of national forest management policy.

As the pamphlet points out, "clearcutting" is a forest management practice that has quite an opposite effect from what many people believe. The practice could more accurately be termed "even-aged management" or "regeneration cut". For clearcutting is essential to the perpetuation of some of the nation's most important shade intolerant tree species such as Douglas fir, lodgepole pine, Southern pine and many hardwoods. Long before man began harvesting trees, nature practiced the most ruthless forms of clearcutting – windstorms, fires and other natural catastrophes. Had it not done so, there would have been no room for the birth of new forests. Well-managed clearcutting simply assures that there will be a continuing rotation of prime forest crops. Clearcutting, as practiced by man, preserves these resources and protects the environment. The pamphlet points out: "... the by-products of nature's 'clearcutting' had neither economic nor environmental value, and in many cases proved catastrophic. For example, a natural 'clearcut' created by the Peshtigo forest fire a century ago in Wisconsin killed some 1,500 people, consumed a town, and destroyed 1,278,000 acres of timber."

Clearcutting as practiced by today's forest industry, speeds the regeneration process and protects resources and wildlife at the same time. It is ironic that many environmentalists misunderstand the meaning of the word.

An ardent golfer was on the putting green when suddenly a woman came running up the fairway dressed in a wedding gown.

"How could you do this to me?" she cried.

"Listen," he said, never taking his eye off the ball, "I told you, only if it rained."

There was another big withdrawl in June. Tricia moved out of the White House.

REBUTTING JOURNALIST "ADVOCATES"

Only a decade or two ago all cities and most large towns had at least two competing newspapers. During the rapid growth of this nation, especially the last half of the nineteenth century and the first half of the twenteith, almost anybody could start a newspaper with a minimum of capital. Irresponsible newspapers faded and folded under those conditions, while those with the greatest integrity prospered. A few "yellow journals" thrived on scandal, crime and sex, but they were recognized for what they were and had no influence on public policy.

So- called "advocacy journalism" has come to the fore during the past decade and some newspapers, especially some formerly of high repute which have turned liberal, have managed to slip into some of the same type of irresponsibility exemplified by the old "yellow journals." No charge seems too irresponsible or far- fetched to receive front-page headlines, especially a charge against a constructive person or business.

Once upon a time editors had to be more careful about false charges. Libel suits made such charges very expensive for editors, not to mention the tendency for men to take such things more personally in those days and come looking for the editor with a horsewhip or a gun. This has changed.

The U. S. Supreme Court is now considering a case in which the Florida Supreme Court upheld a 1913 law requiring newspapers to give equal space to replies from persons attacked. Sen. John McClellan (D- Ark) has said that if it is upheld, a national law along the same lines might be considered. Such a law, requiring equal space and placement for replies, might slow down the worst cases of irresponsible journalism which can destroy a person's reputation no matter how innocent he may be. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Angela Davis Stars: UN Soviet- Bloc Ambassadors Rip U. S. At Huge Communist 'Friendship' Gala in New York

NEW YORK– It might have been the grand hall of the Kremlin. It wasn't. It was the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria at a mammoth "friendship" luncheon the other Sunday. United Nations Communist ambassadors, just a few streets from their posh apartments ($1,000 to $1,500 a month maintenance), members of the Communist Party USA Central Committee, the UN mission chief from non- recognized Cuba and envoys from Mongolian People's Republic, East Germany, and other Soviet satellite "nations" had a ball ripping "imperialist" U. S. to shreds.

This was their entente cordiale-- their concept of world fraternity and "peace."

Joining them-- amid the cheers of some 1,200 lunchers-- were some American labor leaders, one of whom sat on the dais with some of the most brutal assailants of world freedom and democratic trade unions.

Not the least of the heroines of Communist peace present was Angela Davis-- now a member of the American Communist Party Central Committee. She berated the U. S., criticized (to put it mildly) internal American politics, charged political oppression inside the U. S. A., described the Wounded Knee affair as though it were the equivalent of Nazi gas chambers; said something incomprehensible about government error in North Carolina, and praised the Communist world for backing her during her California trial on gun- running charges. (She was acquitted.)

Then she ripped the American press for praising that "czarist" Alexander Solzhenitsyn. Why, she asked, has the press ignored what happened in Chile and "the intensified political repression in the U. S." Cheers. Lots of cheers.

On the dais with her and such Communist ambassadors as the Soviet UN chief, Yakov Malik, ambassador from the Mongolian People's Republic, Tsevegzhavyn Puntsagnorov, and Henry Winston, Communist Party (USA) national chairman was none other than Amalgamated Meat Cutters union international vice president Abe Feinglass. His praise of the Soviet Union and the assembled friends of peace was given an ovation. More cheers when he quoted his national union secretary-treasurer Pat Gorman.

Also adding just the right touch for the overflow crowd was the German Democratic Republic's (GDR, meaning East Germany) UN Ambassador Peter Florin. Coming out from behind the Berlin wall for the first time, he lashed at the U. S. and somehow forgot to mention that Simon Wiesenthal, director of the Documentary Center in Vienna, has a long list of ex- Nazi officials now holding important posts in the GDR government. Also that the GDR has refused to cooperate with free nations in turning these Hitlerites over for war crime trials. But Herr Florin was cheered, indeed.

The piece de resistance, however, was Cuba's UN Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon de Quesada who equates Castro's beard with Marx's. Senor Alarcon, who has no rights in the U. S. outside the United Nations, really got to the crowd. He spoke glowingly of the Soviet Union and how it saved the Communist island from "the war plans of U. S. imperialism." There's a friendship note for you.

Said the Cuban: Tovarich Malik has been the only voice of peace and progress in the UN. He made no mention of the $2 million ransom still held by Castro, paid by Southern Airlines in cash for one of its planes hijacked by three gunmen in Birmingham (Ala.), November 1972.

Officially this friendship gathering was sponsored by the New World Review and "a committee of trade unionists." Apparently the sponsors overlooked American press freedom. They were mighty selective. They told American newsmen to stay out and admitted Communist "journalists."

Obviously this gathering of the clan is prelude to a series of rallies. For what purpose, we'll know soon enough. But I do believe nothing happens without Soviet approval. There is the statement by FBI director Clarence Kelley that "leaders of the (U. S. Communist) party frequently confer with Soviet leaders to receive policy guidance."

Further, Director Kelley, as objective a counterintelligence chief as one can find, says, "On Feb. 1, 1974, there were 943 Soviet officials assigned in the U. S., 142 more than a year earlier and over 240 more than four years ago.

"We have identified a substantial proportion of the 943 as being intelligence operatives...Intelligence assignments are also carried out by Soviet nationals assigned to the U. S. as newsmen, participants in exchange programs, commercial representatives, employes of the UN and others."

Now there's friendship for you.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Prelude To Watergate

WASHINGTON– While the big guns concentrate their fire on the Watergate coverup, a House subcommittee is quietly looking into the earlier ITT coverup. For the Watergate crimes were but an elaboration of the basic approach used during the ITT preliminaries.

Ex- White House counsel John Dean was the stage manager for the ITT coverup, just as he was for the later Watergate coverup. Last year, he was called behind closed doors to testify about his ITT role.

We have now obtained a transcript of his secret testimony. He calmly related to the Special Subcommittee on Investigations how his office had collected for safekeeping all White House documents dealing with ITT.

"One of the things they had done was collect-- I didn't do it personally, another member of my staff did-- all the documents in the White House, any documents dealing with ITT," testified Dean.

"To the best of my recollection and knowledge," he added, "those documents are still in a file in my former office. There were sensitive documents among those..."

"What kind of politically sensitive documents are you referring to?" asked chief counsel Daniel Manelli.

"Just names of individuals at the White House having correspondence with various people at ITT," replied Dean. "I can't specifically tell you of any one document right now, but I can recall during the hearings the man in the office who did collect them, Fred Fielding, saying, 'Boy, you ought to see the one we caught today,' and him relating what it was."

Not until long after the Senate ITT hearings had ended did we learn that suppressed documents linked former Vice President Spiro Agnew, Treasury Secretary John Connally, Attorney General John Mitchell and even President Nixon himself to the controversial ITT settlement.

Manelli questioned Dean about this. "There was a column by Jack Anderson some time back saying...Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Connally and, I believe, Vice President Agnew were involved in the politically sensitive files. Does that at all refresh your recollection?" asked Manelli.

"It doesn't," said Dean who was unable to recall any specific documents.

In dozens of particulars-- from the shredding of incriminating documents to the perjured testimony-- the tactics used by the White House crowd to wriggle out of Watergate had been fully rehearsed during the ITT siege.

This is significant, for it shows that the conduct of the presidency in Watergate was not the spontaneous, makeshift reaction of otherwise honorable men trapped in a dilemma, but rather a standard operating procedure developed and used with growing success until cautious confidence became heedless arrogance.

Even the cast of characters was the same: John Dean, Charles Colson, E. Howard Hunt, G. Gordon Liddy and James McCord, not to mention other faceless White House aides. Dean directed the ITT coverup, taking his instructions from H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, who remained behind the White House scenes.

The dirty work was left to Liddy and Hunt. According to the sworn testimony, Liddy spirited ITT star witness Dita Beard out of Washington before she could be subpoeaned to testify. When the FBI located her in Denver, Hunt rushed off to the Rockies to tell her what to say. He wore a preposterous CIA wig as a disguise.

Rep. Jake Pickle, D- Tex., tried to question Dean about this. "I have a copy of...a UPI story, which reported that you were responsible for sending Mr. E. Howard Hunt to Denver to meet with Dita Beard," recounted Pickle. "It was suggested that the purpose of this trip was to develop a second Dita Beard memo which would contradict the memo published by Jack Anderson..."

"I can tell you that statement of my sending Howard Hunt to see Dita Beard is totally inaccurate," said Dean.

"Did you send Mr. Liddy?" asked Pickle.

"Nobody," said Dean.

"Do you know whether anyone was sent to Denver?"

"Yes, I do," Dean replied. But he refused to testify about the incident, because it might jeopardize his legal rights before the grand jury.

Chairman Harley Staggers, D- W. Va., extracted testimony from Dean that former SEC Chairman William Casey had kept politically sensitive ITT documents away from the subcommittee by delivering them to the Justice Department.

"Did Mr. Casey suggest to you that the documents should be kept away from the subcommittee until after the election?" demanded Staggers.

"That was the general gist...," acknowledged Dean. "That was the way it came up, if they go to a committee of Congress, it is likely they will go into the public domain from there."

"Then, you gathered, they should be kept away from us until after the election?" asked Staggers.

"That is correct...," agreed Dean.

"Whose idea was it," pressed Staggers, "that these files should be sent over to the Justice Department?"

"I believe it was Mr. Casey who came to me...," Dean testified.

Other sworn testimony also identified Casey as the official whose backstage maneuvering kept the enlightening ITT documents out of congressional hands. Subsequently, Casey was rewarded with a promotion to be undersecretary of state.

Ann Landers

God has purpose for all things

Dear Ann Landers: My brother, age 21, was murdered three months ago. It is very hard to accept death, especially when it happens to a young and beautiful person. But if death comes as the result of an illness or an accident, one can say to himself, "It was God's will. He had a reason." But death by murder? How can a person accept such a horrible thing?

I know I am not alone. This sort of tragedy has occurred in many other families. Every time you pick up a newspaper you read of a murder someplace. But until it happens to one of your own, you can't imagine what it means.

I have talked to our minister. He has done his best to comfort me, but he has no answers. I am no closer to acceptance now than I was the night that terrible thing happened. Can you say something to help me?- Still Mourning

Dear Friend: There are many questions for which there are no answers, only more questions, such as "Why him? Why would a good God allow such a thing to happen?" The list is long and I'm sure you know the questions better than I.

You must accept death when it comes to a loved one, no matter how. Why? Because you have no choice. You must believe that God in His infinite wisdom had a reason-- not known to you now, but it is there.

Your brother would be very unhappy if he knew how tortured you are. For his sake you must get over your grief. I suggest therapy for a few months. Good talking sessions on a regular basis can be immensely helpful. Please go.

Dear Ann Landers: I gotcha this time. I've been waiting for you to give some wrong advice and you did it. I refer to your counsel to the secretary who had to buy a birthday gift in a hurry. She stopped in a drugstore and purchased a bottle of bubble bath. They didn't gift- wrap, and the sack looked awful, so she threw it away and brought the bottle "naked."

You said it was a pretty tacky way to present a gift but it was no crime. Then you added, "Had you gone to the party naked you could have been arrested for indecent exposure, but this is no big deal, forget it."

Apparently, Ann Landers, you haven't been to any parties in Sausalito lately, or Palm Beach. Midnight swims, (skinny- dipping of course, sometimes coeducational) are not uncommon. And sometimes the guests "forget" to put on their clothes. This is not considered illegal, dear. Nobody can get arrested for what goes on in the privacy of their homes. So, eat your words, baby.-- Last Laugh

Dear Last: Sorry, the words are still on the plate. . .for YOU to eat. You can get arrested for having a quiet little poker game fully clothed in certain cities where gambling is illegal. I am not saying I support such interference by the gendarmes, but it's the law nevertheless. A person might take off his clothes at a party and NOT get arrested in some cities, but I know of no city where you can GO to a party naked. Nudity in public is illegal in every city of the U. S.

Dear Ann: My husband's parents live near us and they resent it because my front door isn't open for them. Sometimes they come over twice a day. My husband says they are right. Are they?-- Just Me

Dear You: Anyone who leaves a front door open today is lucky if he gets nothing worse than pesky in- laws. Keep all doors locked, woman, and don't open up unless you know who's on the other side.

Book deals with early Missouri river towns

PORTAGEVILLE — New books at New Madrid County Library include "The Missouri River".

"The Missouri River" is a compendium of true stories and tall tales of steamboat captains, river ruffians, shady ladies, dreamers, slaves and fortune hunters. Thee 96-page hardbound volume tells how river towns and landmarks got their names — how Whirling Jones Bend memorializes the boatman who swore with dying breath to roll over in his grave if his widow should be untrue.

It is a story of upstart towns that grabbed for greatness and died forgotten, of railroads snaking along the valley, of leviathan catfish nudging islands upstream, of steamboat boiler explosions that catapulted corpses like cordwood and made kindling of the floating palaces.

One hears about the unlucky young L'Abaddie, who watched his father follow a wounded bear into a cave — and waited and waited and waited; of Ben Halladay, who financed the Pony Express — selling dollar- a- barrel whisky for a dollar a shot to thirsty rivermen; of the frontier magistrate who grabbed lawbook and gavel and dived out the courtroom window when the donnybrook began.

They're all accounted for — in Arrow Rock, Gasconade, Lupus, Malta Bend, Rocheport, White Cloud and Chamois — the pioneers, both saints and scoundrels, along the wide, wild Missouri.

Psychic space explained

By SHAREN K. HUNT
Area Home Economist

BENTON — Out of psychic space? This is when you feel like all the "should's" and "have to's" are closing in on you and you get angry or upset at yourself and others involved.

At this stage, most people react by fighting or running, neither creative nor helpful. An example of fighting would be if you snap back at others or say you can't do their errand.

You know though, we're less likely to snap at neighbors because we usually express our feeling more freely to our families than to friends. When you fight and snap back, you lessen the other's psychic space and thus magnify both of your problems.

The running reaction is when you go ahead and do errand or favor, while wishing all the time you had said no. This puts you in a bad mood, then you take it out on someone else. Keeping it bottled up makes you nervous, irritable, and resentful.

Both responses are less than desirable, because you're not facing the problem or even looking for alternative solutions. Relax and think through problems in the proper perspective. Maybe you don't have to do everything before your meeting, and maybe you should say no occasionally.

Observe before you speak (or as my father often said, "Put brain in gear before operating mouth."). This will probably give you a clue from the tone of voice and non- verbal behavior just how important this errand is to them. You can then decide whether or not you dare suggest someone else or another possibility.

Either way you show concern for the other without ignoring your own personal feelings.

One way of reducing a person's Psychic Space, and thus your own, is letting him feel he's no good or inadequate. This can be via criticism, sarcasm, or ignoring. Piling on more work than they can possibly do also reduces psychic space.

Organizing your activities and counting your blessings can help gain you more psychic space. Take an objective look at yourself and what you're accomplishing. If you feel snowed by too many clubs and services and errands, drop those that mean little or make you feel exploited.

Realizing that all people behave according to how much psychic space they already have and/or how much space they're given can help us to recognize, analyze, and solve problems that seem to trap us into fight or run circle.

Of course, we can't always control things so we won't ever be out of psychic space. But we may be able to relieve a situation by giving the other fellow more psychic space.

When you get out of psychic space, you get uptight and that's a contagious ailment.

CAREER SALES OPPORTUNITY

Would you like to earn $10,000 to $40,000 a year as a Salesman? You can do it right here in beautiful Southeast Missouri. We offer a comprehensive two year training program with excellent fringe benefits at the end of the training period. There are opportunities for advancement.

Of the 17 men in the 10 Bootheel Counties of Region F, 2 earn between $25,000 and $40,000 a year, 5 between $10,000 and $20,000 a year, 4 between $8,000 and $10,000 a year and the rest are new men who will earn in excess of $8,000 during the first year. In recent years, our top Salesmen have qualified for many expense paid trips. The most recent being a trip to Switzerland, won by 5 of our Agents.

We give you monthly guarantee to meet your budgetary needs while you are learning the business. It is possiblefor a new man to earn up to $15,000- plus the first year. We can prove this has been done. A sales background and Highschool or better is desirable but certainly not essential. We have successful men who have attended college, but most are only highschool graduates. We have successful men under 25 years of age. Others are Grandfathers. We have no particular requirements. We are looking for honest, hardworking men (and possibly women) who meet people well and will work hard and follow our proven sales procedure exactly.

Take a few minutes to investigate this satisfying and rewarding career. Call 314- 748-2537 on Friday between 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. or Saturday morning between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon. Ask for Mr. Rhodes.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean and grain futures prices were relatively strong in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, soybeans were 1½ to 7½ cents a bushel higher, May 5.55; Chicago wheat was unchanged to 3 higher, May 3.72; Gulf hard red did not trade; corn was unchanged to 2¼ higher, May 2.72 and oats were ½ to 1 higher, May .27.

Greek and Roman doctors often persuaded their patients to drink bitter prescriptions by smearing the rims of cups with honey, a practice that persists today in sugar-coated pills.

Miner church to host missionaries

The Rev. and Mrs. Carl Etheridge, missionaries to Central America, will be at Miner Baptist Church, Route H at Highway 62 East, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. for a special Bible conference on prophecy.

The Rev. Mr. Etheridge is founder and director of the Nicaraguan Bible Institute in the capital city of Managua. In 1972 when the earthquake destroyed Managua, his school was not touched or damaged at all. One of his messages on prophecy concerns the earthquakes of the Bible.

As a result of the mission and school work of the Etheridges, many new churches have been established throughout Central America and Mexico.

The Rev. Mr. Etheridge began preaching at age 14. He attended Oklahoma Baptist University at Shawnee, Okla., and Dallas (Tex.) Theological Seminary before going to Central America as a missionary.

Rev. and Mrs. Etheridge

He has established churches in Honduras, Panama and Nicaragua, in addition to the Bible institute in Nicaragua.

He is a brother of the Miner Baptist pastor, the Rev. Grady Etheridge.

Miller named courier

BOLIVAR---- Beatty Miller, a member of First Baptist Church in Sikeston, has been appointed a courier for Southwest Baptist College.

As courier, Miller will serve as a public relations contact for the college in his church. The courier will also have information about SWBC for any person who may wish to know more about the school.

SWBC trustees have also made available several scholarships to be awarded through the couriers program. Applications for the scholarships may be obtained from Miller.

Southwest Baptist is a four- year liberal arts college with 16 major fields, and is fully accredited by the North Central Accrediting Association.

Teen group featured in rally

CANALOU-- A Teen Challenge Rally Sunday at the Canalou Assembly of God Church Sunday will feature the New Creations, the official choir at Mid-America Teen Challenge Training Center in Cape Girardeau, at morning and afternoon services.

The New Creations will sing under the direction of the Rev. Philip Breithaupt, regional representative of Mid- America Teen Challenge, and will share in music and testimony how members of the choir have found physical and mental cure from drug addiction through a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

The morning services will begin at 10 o'clock and the afternoon service at 1:30, according to the Rev. T. G. Perry, pastor, who said other singing groups also will participate in the afternoon program.

Gospel singing program slated

ESSEX-- Castor River General Baptist Church, formerly known as Original Clines Island General Baptist Church, will host a first Saturday night gospel singing program at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

All- day services are scheduled Sunday, featuring dinner at the church and a footwashing service in the afternoon, according to the Rev. Henry Smith, pastor.

Son of Malden woman ordained

MEMPHIS, Tenn.— Gordon Matlock was ordained as deacon Sunday evening at Hickory Hills Baptist Church in Memphis.

The Rev. Sisney Waits, pastor, preached the ordination sermon, "The High Cost of Being a Deacon." Haskell Luke, chairman of deacons, presented each candidate an ordination certificate and a book. Weldon Fortner prayed the ordination prayer.

Matlock, the son of Mrs. Vera Matlock of Malden, Mo., is married to the former Martha Fortner, who teaches in Whitehaven Baptist School.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Fortner and Mrs. Matlock were guests at the service.

The Lord has sworn by the pride of Jacob: "Surely I will never forget any of their deeds." — Amos 8:7.

We may elevate ourselves but we should never reach so high that we would ever forget those who helped us get there. — Will Rogers, American humorist.

McDonoughs lead new congregation

After pastoring the First Assembly of God Church in Sikeston for 8 1/2 years, the Rev. and Mrs. T. A. McDonough have assumed the pastoral duties of a recently formed charismatic congregation to be known as Calvary Assembly Of God.

The district executive committee of the Southern Missouri District Council of the Assemblies of God has granted recognition to the new church, which is meeting temporarily in a building owned and formerly occupied by First Church of the Nazarene at the corner of Scott and Trotter streets in Sikeston.

The schedule of services includes: Sunday School at 9:30 a.m.; morning worship service, 10:30 a.m.; Christ's Ambassadors (youth), 6 p.m.; Sunday night service, 7; and midweek service on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Free transportation to the services is provided for those who will phone the church office 471- 7590, or the pastor's home, 471- 4595.

The Rev. Mr. McDonough said the goal of this church is to reach and win to the Lord Jesus Christ all people who do not now attend church and Sunday school.

Rev. and Mrs. McDonough

"Calvary Assembly of God, Sikeston's newest charismatic congregation, is happy to join the other many fine churches to make Sikeston a better place to live, work and raise our families," he added.

Seminary appointments postponed indefinitely

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lutheran seminary students were not notified of ministerial appointments Wednesday as the traditional "Call Day" ceremonies were indefinitely postponed by the District Council of Presidents of the Lutheran Church -Missouri Synod.

"Call Day," traditionally May 1, is the day in which graduating seminary students are notified of their "calls" or appointments to be ministers at particular churches. Twenty seven students are graduating from the Concordia Seminary here, and another 60 have finished work at Concordia in Springfield, Ill.

The Council of Presidents has been meeting here to determine whether or not students from the so-called "Seminary in Exile (Seminex) should be given posts within the three million member church.

Seminex was established at two St. Louis area religious schools by dissident student and faculty members who walked off the Concordia campus here after the suspension of Rev. John Tietjen, Concordia president.

About 125 Seminex students are scheduled to graduate.

A synod spokesman said no new date has been set for "Call Day."

First Assembly groups earn district honors

At the 60th Southern Missouri District Council of the Assemblies of God in Springfield last week, the Sikeston First Assembly of God Church received many honors.

The Christ Ambassadors received an engraved plaque from the national Christ Ambassador Department for giving over $4,000 to Speed-the- Light, the youth missionary program in 1973. This was first place in the Southern Missouri District, comprised of more than 400 churches.

The Women's Missionary Council received a first place plaque for giving items valued at over $6,000 to the Treasure Chest. The items are for missionaries and needy organizations. They group placed third in total cash offerings for campground needs.

The Boys and Girls Missionary Crusade also received an honor plaque for their giving to help the missionaries in the Far East. This is the missionary program for children in the nursery through junior departments of the Sunday School.

Debbie Hunt, representing Sikeston First Assembly and also the Cape Girardeau section, competed in the Teen Talent Contest on Tuesday. She played "The Holy City" on her violin and was accompanied by Mrs. Brenda Ballard on the piano. She also had the honor of singing with a teen choir and the national revivaltime choir Tuesday night.

Mrs. Milton Bixler represented First Assembly as a voting delegate during the business sessions on Wednesday and Thursday.

Others from First Assembly attending the Council were Mr. Opal Newman, Mrs. June Hunt, Mrs. Geneva Page and Brenda Hunt.

Church split lands in court

ESSEX— A dispute between two groups of one church organization in Stoddard County has developed into a Circuit Court case, with one group charging that the other has caused "malicious damages" to the initial congregation.

The case evolves around the "Cline's Island General Baptist Church", which is located on Route AB approximately one- half mile east of the Castor River bridge on Essex Route Two and has been in existence since 1924.

The controversy began in June of last year when the pastor of the church, the Rev. Ronnie Ledbetter, wrote a letter to New Liberty State Association, in which the church had been a member for several years, informing the association that a quorum of members voted, by a majority affirmative vote (34 to 7 or 82 per cent), for Cline's Island General Baptist Church to discontinue association with New Liberty State Association of General Baptists.

Following the notice of this letter on June 9, 1973, several members of the church, now defendents in the case, found themselves in disagreement with the church's action and declared their intentions to function as the "Minority Group of the Cline's Island General Baptist Church." The same group declared that they retain their membership in the association by reporting to it by letter and delegates, as usual. The minority group decided to meet regularly in the homes of members for the purpose of maintaining their identity.

Now, the minority group occupies a church building which was moved onto a vacant lot about one mile west of the original church (which is still used by original church members and remains under the pastorship of the Rev. Mr. Ledbetter).

The defendants in the case (the minority group) claim ownership of the building in which they now hold services and activities.

It has been almost a year since the split and much confusion and more controversy has developed between the two groups.

In the formal petition for injunction, the plantiff, Cline's Island General Baptist Church, Inc., places numerous charges on the minority group, which, in the petition, is comprised of E. E. McGarity, Robert Lizenbee, Marvin Wyman, Willis H. Worth, Ilene E. Worth, Jesse Neal, Ira Avery Jr., Mable Neal, Sandra Wyman, Barbara McGarity, Mae Lizenbee, Ralph McGarity, Marceda Wyman, Elizabeth Payne, Nancy Menley, Madge Eaton, Fred Eaton, Ruth Avery, Etta Wyman, Farrell Menley, Jean Avery, Imogene Chism, Michael B. Avery, Ed McGarity and Randy McGarity.

The use of the original church name by the minority group is said to be "misleading and confusing, having caused permanent damage to the plaintiff."

The original group claims that church mail is "constantly mixed up", that their bank account is being charged with debts of the minority group, that the Stoddard County records office is experiencing much confusion as to real estate records, and that at one time when a fire broke out at the original church, there was confusion as to where the fire department should report.

It has been charged that the public has been repeatedly confused by announcements and advertisements regarding the church activities and that the minority's use of the original name has caused a "marked decrease in attendance at church activities due to fear of reprisal of those who would otherwise attend said activities and services."

One charge alleges that the "confusion and similarity has led to malicious gossip regarding the alleged handling of plaintiff's funds by plaintiff's pastor and has created an emotional situation manifested by implied threats of bodily harm by defendants against said pastor (Ledbetter)."

As yet, no answer has been filed in Stoddard County Magistrate Court by the defendants.

Due to the zealous preaching of ministers in the 1890s against "sucking soda" through a straw, the ice cream soda was outlawed in several states. Ice cream parlors concocted a "soda-less soda" and sarcastically called it the Sunday. Today, it's spelled sundae.

Bible reading record claimed

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)— A group of Kansas youths claim a new record for reading the Bible from cover to cover.

The 20 young people, members of Fairlawn Church of the Nazarene, began reading the Bible aloud at 10 a.m. last Friday and concluded the reading at 12:40 p.m. Sunday, a total of 50 hours and 40 minutes.

The youths claim their time beats the previous record set by a church in Pennsylvania last year by about eight hours.

Church parking intruders beware

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP)— If you're going to use the Southside Christian Church's parking lot you'd better be prepared to join the congregation.

THE BIBLE

133. God Selects David

When Samuel learned of the Lord's displeasure with Saul, Samuel mourned for him and did not go near the doomed king. Then the Lord commanded Samuel to go to Bethlehem and seek out Jesse, for the Lord had chosen one of his sons to be the new king. Samuel feared to go, for Saul would surely kill him, but the Lord told him to take a heifer and sacrifice it so that God could reveal the chosen son of Jesse.

Samuel did as he was commanded, for the Lord had told him that during the sacrifice Jesse's son, who was to be king, would be identified. After the sacrifice, seven of Jesse's sons were presented, but all were rejected. When Samuel discovered that the youngest son was tending sheep in the fields, he sent for him at once, and he brought him in.

"...Now he was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the Lord said, Arise, anoint him: for this is he. Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his bretheren; and the Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward..." (I Samuel 16:12-13)

Police officer spends 8 months in dope ring

DETROIT (AP) — During his eight months in the dope racket, Vincent Mazzara was known to his drug friends as a fast wheeler-dealer who spent thousands of dollars on heroin and cocaine.

That image was shattered when federal and local authorities broke a dope ring and confiscated an estimated $6 million in drugs on information supplied by Mazzara—a Detroit police officer.

Mazzara's role in the recovery of 13½ pounds of heroin and four pounds of cocaine— largest in the city's history —was told Thursday by The Detroit News.

"It's hard to think that it's over," Mazzara, 24, said of an undercover life during which he was threatened with death several times. He refused to carry a gun because it might have revealed his true role.

"I wanted to stay as far removed from being identified as a police officer as I possibly could," he said.

Mazzara, on the Detroit force just three years, said he learned to change his character roles and attitudes as he rapidly moved up in the drug world during his assignment.

He first pretended to be a hippie, sporting a woolly hairdo and a pierced ear. Then to show his drug associates he was improving his life style, he traded in his faded jeans and earring for expensive clothes, styled coiffure, trimmed mustache and flashy sports car.

His ruse was so convincing that one dealer Mazzara worked with cried in disbelief when he was arrested during a roundup of suspects Tuesday night, the newspaper said.

Mazzara said he had himself arrested last August during a raid on a drug hangout and then began to work his way up the ladder as a drug dealer. He said he increased his drug buys from $200 a shot to $1,000 and once flashed $50,000 in cash to make a $6,000 purchase.

He said that at one point, a contact told him: "You're moving too fast now, man. I wouldn't give you a nickel that you'll live six months."

However, Mazzara said he continued to make bigger and bigger buys and eventually became a close associate of some of Detroit's principal dope dealers.

Mazzara's deals and wiretaps of the top peddlers also led federal agents to major dealers in New York and Texas, law enforcement officers said.

Asked why he took the assignment, Mazzara said, "I guess it's just a lot of ambition. I wanted to be the best."

WE SELL YOU GOOD TIRES, AND THEN TAKE CARE OF THEM.

NO-COST BALANCING. We don't understand why a tire store would sell you a tire and then charge you to make it work right on your car. So, as a participating Sunoco dealer, we balance every tire we sell. No charge.

CONTINUOUS CHECK. When you buy a set of our tires, we have a chance to look them over when you come in for service. That way, we can help you take care of them. If we find signs of poor alignment, improper balance or an imperfection, we can recommend what should be done to correct it.

BACKED BY TWO COMPANIES. When you buy tires from a Sunoco dealer, you're backed by the dealer himself, by Sunoco and by Firestone or Goodyear. If there's something wrong with the tire you bought from us, and the dealer doesn't make it right, you've got two companies to look to. Not just one. See for yourself. We can be very friendly.

CREDIT TERMS. When you buy tires from us, you can use your Sunoco credit card. In fact, you can get extended payment terms so that you don't have to pay all at once.

Goodyear or Firestone tires are sold by participating independent service station dealers displaying the Sunoco sign. Tire prices and services offered, including balancing of tires, may vary. Tire guarantee terms are disclosed in writing at the time of purchase.

Social Services director likes business approach

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's new director of the Social Services Department says he considers himself a "professional administrator" who likes to take a "business approach" to welfare problems.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond introduced the director, Lawrence "Cap" Graham, 51, at a news conference Thursday.

Graham, director of the Nebraska Department of Public Welfare, will take over June 1. His department will be formed July 1 under state government reorganization.

Graham becomes the fourth department director nominated by Bond under reorganization. The department directors must be confirmed by the state Senate.

The others are Alfred Sikes, director of consumer affairs, regulation and licensing, James L. Wilson, director of natural resources, and John G. Brawley, an airline official and chairman of the Bi-State Development Agency, as director of transportation.

Wilson now is parks director and Sikes is director of community affairs.

"Under his direction Nebraska was the first state to develop a computerized system to show how tax dollars are being spent for social services," Bond said. "He developed a quality control system which federal authorities say is responsible for the lowest eligibility rate in the Midwest region."

When Graham took over as Nebraska welfare chief in 1972, Nebraska had the highest error rate in the nation. Now it is the seventh lowest. Missouri ranks 21.

A former school superintendent in Nebraska, Graham was in charge of public school finance in the Nebraska Department of Education from 1967-71.

He also served as chief of personnel and training for the Nebraska Welfare Department from 1962-66. He holds a bachelor's degree in education and accounting from Wayne State College, and a master's in school administration from the University of Northern Colorado. He is married and has two children.

Graham, who will receive $30,000 a year compared with $18,500 as head of the Nebraska Welfare Agency, said he considered himself a "professional administrator."

Graham's new department will encompass the divisions of Health, Family Services (welfare), Youth Services (former the state board of training schools) and Board of Probation and Parole.

Asked if he would take a "hardnosed approach" to meeting problems in the Missouri Division of Welfare, Graham said he would take a "business approach."

He said he believed in good data processing systems and will establish a surveillance crew to supplement the quality control teams who check for overpayments, underpayments and payments to ineligible recipients.

Bond said a nationwide search was conducted before Graham was selected, and he was recommended by officials of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Funeral services for James L. Love, 80 years old, who died at his farm residence, north and east of Miner Switch Tuesday, were held Wednesday. He had been in poor health since last October, when he fell from the porch of his home. Later he sustained a broken hip from a second fall, from which he never recovered.

The high school seniors were honored Tuesday with a tea given by students of the home economics department.

The third grade pupils, of which Miss Jewell Mouser is teacher, entertained their parents and friends Wednesday with a musical program at the grade school. The following were soloists: Don Phillips, Alice Van Horne, Joy Mae Edwards, Mary Lewis, Phyllis Harrison, Ed Dan Renner, Billy Anderson, Evelyn Klein, Patsy Ruth Gentle, Tommy Roberts, Carolyn Weltecke, Joe Dye, Elizabeth Ann Baker, Sue Tanner, and Mary Jane Cummins.

Sikeston golfers treated their Charleston guests rather roughly in their match tournament held on the local club grounds Sunday. The final score was 50 to 2. Lumsden and Lee, Sikeston's junior golf flashes, played the local course in one stroke over par, which is unusually good golf for this early in the season.

New UHF TV station could show 30% sports

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent NBC estimate says sports programming by the three networks now peaks in the fall at about 15 per cent of everything the networks air in a given week.

This is indeed impressive, but it's pee-wee league stuff compared to the sports program plans Earl L. Boyles has for a new UHF television station he recently opened in Orlando, Fla.

Boyles, president and board chairman of station WSWB, says he expects that by midJuly, his sports programming could run as high as 30 per cent of everything his station shows in a week.

He said his $3.6 million facility, which began transmitting March 31, now only carries Atlanta Braves baseball games, weekend golf and tennis shows and one half-hour of midget car racing on one night.

But he said this summer he also plans to broadcast, in prime evening time, televised games of not one but two pro football leagues—the Canadian Football League and the new World Football League.

Excluding the two leagues' championship games, that'd work out to 43 football games on summer and fall nights, according to schedules already announced by the companies televising the games.

"We're trying to go heavy for sports," Boyles understates, acknowledging that his planned peak percentage of that kind of programming necessarily will tail off as the baseball, WFL and CFL seasons tail off in September and November.

However, he said he hopes to pick up some of the slack with pro basketball, pro ice hockey — if he gets local rights to the latter — and some of the network sports attractions local network affiliates may decide not to air.

Boyles, who said his station isn't a network affiliate, was asked why he's decided to emphasize the sports world on TV instead of loading up with syndicated and reruns of old network shows.

What's the law?

The case of the coaxing husband

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Mrs. Katz and Mrs. Wolff got into an argument, Mr. Katz anticipated that unless he broke it up, the fur would be flying. Mr. Wolff, however, urged him to stay out of it and to let the girls fight it out like men. And, so he did. The fight, however, lasted only a few minutes when Mrs. Wolff landed an uppercut that exploded on Mrs. Katz's jaw like an H- bomb.

When the "mushroom" finally dissipated, Mrs. Katz sued Mr. Wolff for assault and battery.

"She must have taken more of a beating than I thought," responded Mr. Wolff in court. "She's off her rocker. I didn't hit her. It was my wife who did."

"While he may not have done the actual swinging," retorted Mrs. Katz, "he's still the one to blame. He kept coaxing his wife to let me have it and she sure did. I've been hearing birdies ever since."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the coaxing Mr. Wolff liable for assault and battery?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a person need not actually participate to be responsible for an assault and battery. Any person who encourages or incites an assault by words, gestures, looks or signs, or whom by any means approves of the assault and battery, is in law deemed to be an aider and abettor and liable as a principal. In this case, concluded the judge, Mr. Wolff could have sent his wife home but, instead, encouraged her to stay and do battle.

Fast processing of tax returns saves state money

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Speedy processing of state income tax returns has not only made the state $100,000 but could go a long way in enabling the Revenue Department to meet its June 15 target date for return of refunds.

State Revenue Director James R. Spradling said Wednesday the fast processing of the heavy influx of tax returns after the April 15 deadline permitted the department to make deposits of the funds by April 25, a week earlier than last year and possibly the earliest deposits of tax return money have been made in the history of the department.

Deposit of the funds within 10 days after the return deadline will net the state an estimated $100,000 extra in interest, Spradling said.

"With this out of the way, we can once again concentrate all our efforts on the refunds to Missouri's taxpayers," he commented. "We are still hopeful that our June 15 target date will be met."

4 arrested in 'Zebra' murders are released

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four of seven men arrested in connection with a wave of "Zebra" murders here have been freed for lack of evidence, police say.

Police Sgt. William Kearny identified those freed Thursday night as Thomas Manney, 31, a star football player at San Francisco State University in the early 1960s; Clarence Jamerson, 37; Dwight Stallings, 28; and Edgar Burton, 22.

They had been booked for investigation of conspiracy to commit murder.

Kearny said the four were released because it became evident "during the course of the investigation that no further procedures against them are feasible at this time."

He said Chief of Inspectors Charles Barca planned a news conference on the matter today.

But formal murder and other charges had been filed against the three other men still in custody—Larry C. Green, 22; J.C. Simon, 29; and Manuel Moore, 29, police said. They are to appear Monday before a county grand jury.

The new developments were disclosed as Mayor Joseph L. Alioto was en route to Washington, D.C., to consult with U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe on his theory that an organization called "Death Angels" was linked to some 80 killings in California.

Alioto says those 80 killings include 12 murders in a six-month period here in a case San Francisco police have code-named "Zebra" after a communications channel. Six other persons were wounded.

All of the "Zebra" victims were white. They were shot down in apparent unprovoked attacks by young blacks, police say.

Green was charged in connection with a case not listed by police as part of the "Zebra" file, the Oct. 20 kidnaping and decapitation of Mrs. Quita Hague, 28. Also charged in that case was Jesse Lee Cooks, now serving a life sentence for murder.

Green and Cooks are charged with conspiracy to commit murder, murder, kidnaping, armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon, Chief Asst. District Atty. Walter Giubbini said.

Police say Mrs. Hague was beheaded with a machete-like weapon and her husband, Richard, 30, savagely beaten and slashed in the attack. They were forced into a white van as they walked near their Telegraph Hill home, police said.

Moore and Simon are accused of shooting down Jane Holley on Jan. 28 as she removed clothes from a washer at a downtown laundromat and slaying Alario Bertuccio, 81, with gunfire as he walked home from work on Dec. 20.

Moore also is charged with shooting Terry White, 15, and Ward Anderson, 18, at a San Francisco bus stop on April 14. Both teen-agers survived.

Police had listed all four victims as targets of "Zebra" attacks.

Police said a white Dodge van seized in a raid Wednesday at the Black Self-Help Co., a moving and storage business, appeared to be a key piece of evidence in the case.

Alioto said an informer, possibly enticed by a $30,000 reward, provided the major break in the case. He said the "Death Angels" dress neatly and purport to live according to a "puritanical code of moral conduct," but teach their young men the "techniques of killing and incapacitating."

Transcripts only act 2 of Watergate

WASHINGTON — The Nixon transcripts now on the public stage are only the second act of the three-act drama of Watergate as seen from the Oval Office.

It's a defect that such critics as the House Judiciary Committee and special prosecutor Leon Jaworski are pointing out.

The story of Watergate as told in the transcripts doesn't begin until Sept. 15, 1972, three months after the June 17 breakin at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Still hidden from public view are those scenes that followed immediately after the break-in, including the June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H.R. Haldeman—the tape which had an 18½-minute buzz.

Also, the edited transcripts fail to include any of the conversations that took place in the White House after the Watergate hearings began May 17, 1973.

Missing is the President's reaction to the testimony of such witnesses as James W. McCord Jr., the ex-CIA agent turned informer; Jown W. Dean III, White House counsel turned presidential accuser, and formr Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, once one of the President's closest advisers.

The fat volume of transcripts also tells nothing of what was discussed while the President drew up his early Watergate statements.

According to White House sources, the transcripts also covered eight conversations for which the House Judiciary Committee already had tapes.

Of the 27 other conversations in the blue-bound book, six were extras, not sought by the committee. However, 11 of the conversations included in the committee's subpoena were not turned over. An undetermined number of those do not exist.

KC camp closes

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — "It's unfortunate that the academy concept cost too much," says Branch Rickey III, assistant director of the Kansas City Royals' Baseball Academy in Sarasota which was curtailed in a cost-saving move this week.

"The philosophy of run-and-throw baseball taught by my father and grandfather to the St. Louis Cardinals in the '30s and '40s and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the late '40s and early '50s is very comparable to what the Royals had here," said Rickey.

The American League team's four-year-old Academy went a step further than just training young prospects for the game.

It also required them to study at nearby Mantee Junior College.

The college requirement and the full-time baseball workouts ended Wednesday when nine staff members, including Rickey and director Carlton Keller, were dismissed. Three coaches were retained to conduct a reduced training program.

"Unfortunately, I feel this decision spells the end of the academy concept," said Harold Claassen, 68, the Academy's public relations director.

Claassen had taken over the Academy duties after retiring as executive sports editor of The Associated Press.

The facility will also be used to house minor league players in spring training next year.

"Something had to give," said Lou Gorman, vice president of procurement and development for the Royals. "The Royals have not shown a profit in six major league seasons.

"Last year, we drew 1,345,000 fans and the baseball program lost $1.1 million. The cuts had to come some place," said Gorman.

Netmen lose in district

KENNETT — Coach John Heacox's Sikeston Bulldog tennis team had their season come to an end here Wednesday afternoon in the sub-district tournament as Caruthersville took first place with 13 points to qualify for the district playoffs in Cape Girardeau Friday. Poplar Bluff was second with seven points and Sikeston took third with 5½ points.

"If we had been in the other division we might have won", commented coach Heacox. There were ten teams entered in the tournament. Sikeston finished second last year but had won the tournament the two previous years.

"We had only one senior on the squad and one junior, so we have a real young team and should be back in the drivers seat next year," he said. "We have 15 sophomores that are good tennis players to build on", coach Heacox continued.

Sikeston ended their season with an 8-5 mark after ending last season with a 9-1-1 slate.

Rick Gubin and Bob Spencer of Caruthersville won the singles matches to advance and Steve Catron and Rick Garman of Poplar Bluff teamed to take the doubles championship.

Matt Matthews and Chuck Medelberg split sets 7-6, 6-7, and lost 6-4. Jeff Robey and Craig Vogels lost to Crysler and Smith of Caruthersville 4-6, 6-4, 4-6.

Clayton honored

Don Clayton, a well known Southeast Missouri athlete from Malden, will be honored by his homefolk May 13 at a special "Don Clayton Night, sponsored by the Malden Rotary Club.

Clayton terrorized MHS Greenwave opponents with his dazzling speed on the gridiron and led Malden to a second place in the state tournament in 1970.

The 5-foot- 11 speedsters latest accomplishments has been on the campus of Murray State University at Murray, Ky., where he has earned All- American status on the Kodak All-America College Division I football team.

Clayton was the nation's second leading grounding gainer in 1973 with 1,403 yards.

Mules runaway with KHS title

KENNETT — The Poplar Bluff Mules' track team had an easy time capturing the Invitational meet held here Tuesday afternoon as their nearest opponent, the host KHS Indians were some 44 points in second place. The Mules garnered 93 total points. Jackson was a distant third with 38. Charleston took fourth with 34. Dexter was fifth with 23. Caruthersville was sixth with 20. The Sikeston Bulldogs camy in seventh with only 10 points and Malden was last with a total of five.

Poplar Bluff took nine of the 17 events, winning the shot, long jump, discus, high jump, both hurdle races, 100 yard dash, 200 yard run, and the mile relay.

Sikeston did not take a first in any event but did place in five.

John Farris took third in the discus. The Bulldogs two mile relay team finished fourth. Martin was fifth in the 100 yard dash. Sikeston's 880 relay team finished fifth Shane Wagoner was third in the pole vault.

The next meet for the Bulldogs will be Friday at Public Schools Stadium in the conference meet at 5:00.

32-team tourney field proposed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thirty-two teams may compete in the 1975 championship basketball tournament of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The NCAA executive committee, meeting in Kansas City, said Thursday it will request the Division I basketball committee to investigate the possibility of enlarging the championship field to 32 teams from the present 25.

To do this, a spokesman said, some runnersup in collegiate conferences throughout the country would be selected to compete. The basketball committee would not be obligated to fill the bracket if it felt there were not enough good teams available.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, May 3, the 123rd day of 1974. There are 242 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1802, Washington, D.C., was incorporated.

On this date:

In 1494, Christopher Columbus discovered the island of Jamaica.

In 1814, King Louis XVIII returned to Paris after allied forces had defeated Napoleon.

In 1892, the British financier, Cecil Rhodes, became premier of the Cape Colony, South Africa.

In 1919, airplane passenger service was inaugurated when Robert Hewitt flew two women from New York to Atlantic City, N.J.

In 1923, Navy Lt. Oakley Kelly and John MacReady made the first non-stop transcontinental flight, landing at Coronado Beach, Calif.

In 1944, synthetic quinine was produced in a Harvard University laboratory.

Ten years ago: In Saigon several persons were wounded when a terrorist bomb was thrown into a crowd of Americans gathering to look at a U.S. ship which had been sunk by explosive charges.

Five years ago: India's first Moslem president, Zakir Husain, died at 72 after a heart attack.

One year ago: Henry A. Kissinger said the situation had improved in Cambodia, and negotiations might begin in the near future to end the fighting in the Indochina country.

Today's birthdays: Israeli Premier Golda Meir is 76 years old. Playwright William Inge is 61.

Thought for today: One may smile and smile and be a villain still — William Shakespeare, 1564-1616.

From top to bottom above are three of the most popular plants for flower beds — tall, tapering snapdragons, semi-dwarf American marigolds, and dainty white alyssum creating a dense edging. Snapdragons especially are favorite bedding plants because it takes eight weeks to grow a flowering-size plant from seed. After flowering in spring and early summer the snapdragons can be cut back to flower again during cool weather of fall, while the marigolds and alyssum will survive summer's heat quite well.

Charleston man fined for supplying liquor to minors

CHARLESTON — In a Magistrate Court trial Thursday, Kenneth Wayne Farrell of Charleston was found guilty of supplying liquor to minors and was assessed a $50 fine by Judge T. J. Brown Jr., who gave Farrell until May 9 to pay the fine and $22 in court costs.

Gloria Swift of Wyatt was sentenced to 10 days in the Mississippi County jail on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Felony charges of burlary and larceny against Dale McMillian, Ronnie McMillian and Lloyd Dean of Charleston was continued, and bond was set at $1,000 each. They are accused of breaking into a barn located near Highway 77, owned by W. S. Babb, and stealing a five- gallon can of farm chemical on April 20.

A felony charge of possession of a controlled substance (marijuana) against Monty Linden Thurman of Charleston was continued to May 9. Thurman, who is free on $5,000 bond, was arrested April 26 on North Main Road in Charleston when about two pounds of marijuana were found on the front seat of his car.

Sammy Dale Morgan of Charleston pleaded not guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and underage possession of beer. The charges were continued to May 9 to allow Morgan time to employ an attorney.

Fines of $66 each were paid by Richard Earl Pickett of Charleston and Timothy Don Hutcheson of East Prairie on charges of underage possession of beer.

Fined on traffic violations were:

James Harlen Cossey of Charleston, impproper registration, $21; Relna Hall of East Prairie, speeding, $26; Velda E. Blasingain of East Prairie, no vehicle license, $26; Forrest C. Stevens of Charleston, speeding, $49.

Finis S. McAlister of Oran, commercial motor vehicle following less than 300 feet, $21; Larry Gene Smith of Wyatt, operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license, $26; and Eric Theodore Smith of Wyatt, operating a motorcycle without a helmet, $21.

Charges of driving while intoxicated and driving while license is revoked against William Louis Presley of Cape Girardeau were continued to May 16.

Twenty-two persons appeared in Magistrate Court earlier this week and paid the following fines on speeding charges:

Winford Ray Parson, $39; Johnnie O. Roberson, $33 Anton Schnaufer $31; Vernon Bernard Tompkins, $31; Richard Jounor Watson, $35; Jerry D. McDowell, $31; Charles Ray Ulmer, $26; Joe Bob Galemore, $26; James Orville Britt Jr., $27; and Edward G. Ziegler, $28.50.

James Harold Busby was fined $21 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving by failure to stop at a stop sign, and Walter Cleon Ray was fined $26 for not having a copy of Missouri special fuel user's permit in truck.

A charge of driving while intoxicated brought a $123 fine to William Orville Blue. William Raymond Byrd paid a $26 fine for operating a vehicle overheight by one foot and four inches, and a $26 fine was paid by James David Conn for operating a motorcycle without a helmet.

In civil suits, a judgment of $354.39, plus $11 costs, was awarded to Kalimar, Inc., in an account suit against C. H. Randall Jr., doing business as Bootheel LP Gas Co.

Judgment of $1,594.70, plus interest and $13 costs, was awarded Apparel Corp. of America in an account and interest suit brought against Leonard Braden, doing business as Braden's Department Store.

Charleston Jaycees install new officers

CHARLESTON— Jim DeMann was installed as president of the Charleston Jaycees April 25, at the organization's regular meeting at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Other officers were also installed by retiring president Jack Whiteside, who also presented awards to Jaycees and friends of the club who have assisted with its work during the year.

Other officers for 1974-75 include: internal vice president, Dennis Poe; external vice president, Dennis Rolwing; secretary, Gordon Brownfield; treasurer, Norris Grissom; internal director, David Williams; external director Jake Donaldson; and state director, Danny Gier.

Ralph Smith was the recipient of a plaque naming him the Jaycee of the Year for 1973-74.

Others selected for awards by the membership included Joe Carman, whose committee for the Christmas toy drive was voted the outstanding nonfund raising project committee of the year, and Smith, who was chairman of the Fall Festival Committee, voted the outstanding fund- raising project committee.

Friends of the chapter who received awards were: Art Wallhausen Jr., representing the Enterprise-Courier; Mrs. Charles Stark, who assists the Jaycees with secretarial work; and Mrs. John Suver and Edgar Barnhill, who assisted with a horse show project this year.

Receiving the chapter Spoke Awards were Ray Baudendistel, John Bledsoe, Jim DeMann, Dennis Rolwing, Ralph Smith, Jackie Whiteside, Michael Williams, Bob Stallings, Junior Malugen, Ronald Chambers and Bill O'Guin.

Gordon Brownfield was presented the Sparkplug Award.

Speak- Up Awards went to Whiteside, DeMann, Rolwing, Dennis Poe, O'Guin, Norris Grissom, Dick Stanley, Williams, Smith, Baudendistel, David Manker, Guffrie Malugen, Ronnie Chambers, Billy Finley and Brownfield.

The leadership- in- action awards, for completion of a six- hour study course, went to Rolwing, Manker, Poe, Danny Gier, DeMann and Whiteside.

DeMann presented membership recruitment awards to Bob Stallings, who recruited five new members, and Jack Whiteside, who recruited 25 new members.

East Prairie sets baccalaureate service

EAST PRAIRIE-- The baccalaureate service for the 1974 graduating class at East Prairie High School has been scheduled at 7:45 p.m. May 26 in the school gymnasium.

The Rev. Glen Lashley, pastor of Nelson Memorial United Methodist Church, will deliver the address to the 94 graduates.

The Rev. Ray Barber, pastor of First General Baptist Church, will offer the invocation, and the benediction will be given by the Rev. Bill Porter, pastor of First Church of God.

The high school choir, under the direction of Mrs. Weldon Bird, will present the musical program.

Alan LaPlant of Houston, Tex., a 1959 graduate of East Prairie High School, will be the featured speaker at commencement exercises at 7:45 p.m. May 27 in the gymnasium.

LaPlant, son of Cecil LaPlant of East Prairie and the late Mrs. LaPlant, is a civil engineering graduate of University of Missouri- Rolla and is affiliated with Continental Oil Co. in Houston.

Opening remarks and the introduction of platform guests will be given by Supt. Gerald McElrath. The 1974 graduates will be introduced by LaWayne Law, high school principal. Donald Dick, president of the R- 2 district board of education, will present the diplomas.

Invocation and benediction will be delivered by the valedictorian and salutatorian.

World news in Brief

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee, in investigating impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, has apparently linking his 1971 decision to raise milk price supports to a $2 million campaign pledge, the Post-Dispatch reported in its editions today.

The newspaper, in a story from its Washington bureau, said documents it obtained show an alleged conspiracy involving the President, his staff and officers of American Milk Producers, Inc., was outlined by the committee staff.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel called for a cease-fire on the Golan Heights and reported no progress toward a disengagement agreement with Syria as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger prepared to shuttle on to Damascus today. As Kissinger met for eight hours with Israeli leaders Thursday, Israel escalated the fighting on the northern front. The Israeli command said its artillery landed shells within nine miles of Damascus and its planes attacked bases of the Palestine guerrillas on the Lebanese side of Mt. Hermon. The Israelis denied a Syrian claim that Syrian missiles shot down two Israeli jet fighters. A high-ranking Syrian official in Damascus said his government was confident Kissinger was carrying a significant Israeli concession that could pave the way for disengagement negotiations.

Bernie man waives hearing; bound over

BLOOMFIELD— Mike Becker of Bernie has been bound over to Circuit Court after waiving a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer. Becker is charged with stealing a wallet containing $300.

Charges of careless and imprudent driving and driving while his license is suspended were continued against Ronald Leroy Franklin of Puxico, following testimony in a trial before the court.

The attorney for the defense maintained that the state's witness, Trooper Gaylon Collier of the highway patrol, was not at the scene of the accident and had ordered the tickets issued by another patrolman at the hospital where Franklin had been taken following the accident.

The attorney further stated that the basis for the charges were taken from statements made by the ambulance drivers, who were not in court to testify and asked that the charges be dismissed. Judge Blomeyer ruled to continue the case until May 16, so the two ambulance drivers can be subpoened for testimony.

Franklin was involved in a one- car accident on Highway 53 near Puxico after his car struck an embankment and overturned.

Connie L. Parris of Puxico was formally arraigned on charges of possession of an apparatus to administer marijuana and possession of over 35 grams of marijuana. An attorney will be appointed to represent her and she was ordered to return to court May 9.

Charges of driving while intoxicated and causing an accident were continued to May 9 against Kenneth Ray Kennedy of Advance to allow him time to obtain counsel.

Donald Ray Edwards of Cape Girardeau was fined $100 and given a 60- day suspended jail sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, second offense.

Jake Shepard pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. Trial was set for May 16.

Charles Everett Sexton of Commerce pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, first offense, and was fined $100 and ordered to surrender his operator's license.

Robert L. Hanner of Bloomfield was fined $10 for failure to transfer vehicle license.

Wappapello releases reduced

MEMPHIS, TENN.— The Memphis District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, has announced that maximum releases from Wappapello Lake in Butler County are being reduced for the 1974 crop season. The anticipated maximum release for May, June, and July will be held at 4,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) to keep the St. Francis River within its banks.

For the months of August through November, the anticipated maximum release will be held to 3,000 cfs. These releases represent normal operating conditions for the reservoir during crop season.

The Corps cautioned, however, that in the event of abnormal storm conditions, releases greater than the planned discharges could occur.

GASOLINE THIS SUMMER.

Smart motorists are getting the most from every gallon of gasoline. By reducing their usual speed. Avoiding jackrabbit starts and prolonged idling. Checking for proper tire pressure. Keeping their cars in tune. If every driver played it smart and saved just one gallon of gasoline each week, it would save millions of gallons of gasoline. And that's what much of this section is all about.

Japan's Thousands of New Drivers Must Keep Cars Safe

Inspection Required Every Two Years Means Proper Maintenance is a Must

By EIZO IKEDA

Japanese passenger car ownership has increased ten-fold during the past ten years. More than half of the enormously enlarged number of drivers are first time car owners, short on experience. Compared to other countries the background of the average Japanese car owner is unusual.

The older driver here, also his fellows abroad, has a deep mechanical knowledge, gained from past experience. He knows how to care for his car and keep her running in a trouble free manner.

For the inexperienced driver, car maintenance presents a problem. He has to have someone keeping his car in shape for him.

Inexperienced drivers tend to buy new cars to avoid mechanical problems.

The average private car runs about 1,000 miles per month, say 11,000 miles per year. Therefore little trouble should be expected during the first two years of ownership. New cars have the advantage that if, and when, they give trouble, it is only necessary to call for the dealer's mobile service unit. So, as a piece of general advice to the mechanically innocent — "Buy a new car and have fewer problems."

There are strict regulations in force concerning the safety maintenance of cars. As a condition of registration, all vehicles in Japan must pass an inspection every two years (one year for trucks).

To pass this test, every car, even one which has been driven only 20,000 miles in 2 years must be serviced completely.

Thanks to this obligatory system, vehicles in Japan are kept in a reasonably safe state. Suspension, brakes, lighting, windshield wipers and non-standard modifications are checked for safety.

It is advisable for owners to get more frequent maintenance for their cars, such as taking them to the dealer's service facility periodically. However, if this is not possible, the driver should ask for a quick "check-through" when he stops at the gasoline station.

Service stations are capable of simple engine tuning and, of course, they check oil, water, tires and spark plugs.

Japan is a small country and the average driving distance is short. So the private owner is unlikely to wear his car out. Because of this, he gets by on infrequent maintenance.

There are very few enthusiasts who service their own cars. I was surprised to find how few people even washed and waxed their cars themselves. In this respect it is advisable for the car owner to learn to detect problems early and turn his car over to the experts.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Eizo Ikeda, who contributes this report from Japan, is presently both Vice President of the Automobile Journalists Association of Japan and Director of the Traffic Journalists Association of his native country.

Ikeda

As one of the leading test drivers of new cars, his reports appear regularly in Japanese and also English language magazines.

Mr. Ikeda was born in Tokyo in 1934 and was graduated from Waseda University in 1957. He has owned and driven automobiles for 23 years.

Improper Carburetor Wastes Gasoline

Virtually any malfunction in the carburetion and ignition systems contributes to gasoline wastage. If the carburetor is improperly adjusted, one of two conditions may exist. Either there is too much or too little gasoline in the fuel/air mixture.

If there is too much gasoline, the excess fuel will not be converted to power but will eventually escape from the engine in a raw state. This not only wastes the fuel but contributes to air pollution. In some cases, a too-rich carburetor setting will cause engine flooding and an even greater waste of fuel.

With a too-lean carburetor setting and with too little gasoline in the fuel/air mix, you hamper engine performance. Thus, you must step on the accelerator harder to get sufficient power to operate. So, more gasoline is wasted.

Other carburetor-related defects that waste fuel include malfunctioning automatic choke and dirty air cleaner. If the choke is stuck, you'll be getting too much gasoline in the air/fuel mixture. If the air cleaner is dirty, then the air supply will be restricted, again creating a too-rich mix. In either case, you're dumping excess raw gas into the engine.

• Champion tests showed the following increase in passing performance following an overdue tune-up. There was an average 8.6 per cent increase in engine power which would allow the car to pass another vehicle in 8.0 per cent less distance.

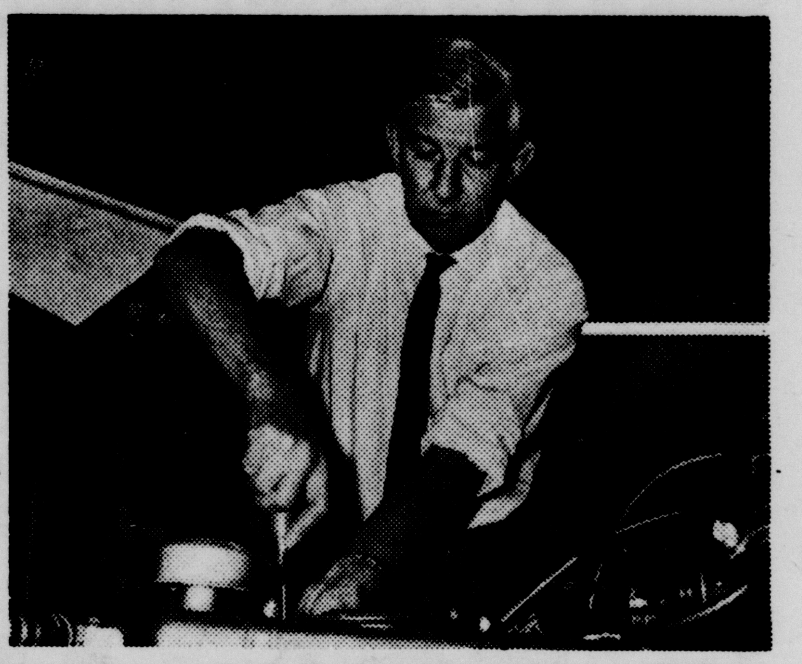
How They Care for Their Cars Abroad

Checking more than a million cars in the 37 top pollution centers is the goal of the U.S. Jaycees this year. About 2,000 Jaycee chapters will conduct emissions tests in the 37 cities identified by the Environmental Protection Agency as clean air problem communities. Program Director Bernie Brand points out the same engine problems creating high emissions are the same ones that waste gasoline.

Automobile Maintenance Matter Of Personal Pride in Britain

CONTRIBUTING THIS ARTICLE IS DOUG MITCHELL, Editor of "Popular Motoring," a monthly journal for British motorists, many of whom like to service and repair their own cars.



Obviously Doug Mitchell, author of the accompanying article, is uniquely fitted to write for his considerable readership of British car owners who like to service and repair their own cars, because he practices what he preaches, witness the above photo of him at work on his own. But he does not hesitate to recommend the services of professionals when maintenance problems require facilities and skills beyond the reach or capacity of the do-it-yourselfer.

By DOUG MITCHELL

Any dry Saturday or Sunday in the residential streets of British towns you will see them. Legs sticking out from under a time expired heap, a torso bent over an engine compartment, or maybe a young couple adding a final gleam to shining bodywork.

The typical British motorist is tending his pride and joy. Old or young, they all have one thing in common — they love their cars.

And in many ways they are right to do so. A car, any car, given the attention it needs will respond like a healthy dog and run well. Neglected, it will become dull and lifeless.

We are very economy minded in Britain, and especially boast about the number of miles we can squeeze from each gallon of fuel, and economy begins with a well tuned engine.

Probably the most important thing in tuning is to make sure that the ignition system is working properly. Some people will leave things to themselves until, one day, the engine refuses to start, but long before that happens fuel is being wasted by not being fully burned.

Plug Check Advised

Spark plugs are supposed to have a working life of around 10,000 miles but it is quite possible that they will be "off-song" well before that.

An electronic engine diagnosis is not expensive and if carried out every 5,000 miles, any weak spots can be located and rectified before they develop. Contact breaker points in the distributor are usually changed at 5,000 mile intervals but I prefer to change mine every 3,000. They cost little and the benefits are sure starting and better combustion.

A simple thing which will cause an over-rich carburetor mixture and, therefore, high fuel consumption, is a dirty air cleaner. This will restrict the air intake so that excessive fuel is drawn into the combustion chambers and, in addition to high consumption, performance will be down and engine wear up due to dilution of the sump oil.

An engine which reaches its full running temperature quickly is better all round. To encourage this, I recommend fitting an adjustable radiator blind, especially for winter driving. If you do, I also recommend fitting a temperature gauge if you haven't one already to avoid over-cooking it!

Right Tyre Pressure

Another very simple maintenance job which repays handsomely, is keeping the right tyre pressures. If they are too high or too low the treads will wear more rapidly and, believe it or not, the extra drag from soft tyres will increase fuel consumption.

But without doubt, the biggest factor in keeping down gas bills is your right foot. It has been proved over many Economy Events that light acceleration coupled with good traffic anticipation will result in savings of 25 per cent and more. So treat the gas pedal as if it had an egg on it!

One thing you must do — or have done — regularly is an engine oil change. The usual interval is 6,000 miles, but if a car is used mainly for short runs about town, I would halve that period.

Nibble at Vitals

On short trips the engine never really gets warmed up, and by-products of combustion collect in the sump instead of being boiled away through the exhaust. Acids form and nibble away at the vitals severely reducing engine life.

It isn't possible in a short article like this to cover more than a few main points of car care, so I have concentrated mainly on the fuel economy aspect. The things which I have mentioned are all easy to do yourself, and if you do even just one of them, you will reap a benefit.

WATCH YOUR BATTERY

Hot, dry summer days are particularly hard on batteries since fluids evaporate more quickly. Be sure to check your battery often.

Stopping for . . .

Pre-Vacation Car Check Major Step to Safe Trip

No one would think of mailing a valuable package without making sure it was wrapped carefully and completely protected. Yet if statistics are correct, most people aren't as careful when sending their most precious possession on a long journey.

If that invaluable cargo is a family and the carelessly prepared container is a car, then odds are almost even that there is at least one serious defect in that vehicle. The odds are based on reports from official vehicle inspection agencies showing approximately one out of every two cars cannot pass simple safety checks.

To help make certain you and your loved ones have a safe and breakdown-free trip, here's a list of items to check with your favorite service outlet before you depart.

* * *

BRAKES, TIRES AND WHEELS: Have brake linings inspected, check fluid levels and seals and adjust brakes. Check tires for excessive wear or visible signs of damage. If needed, rotate the tires. Also, check wheel alignment and balance and make sure your shock absorbers are not worn out or damaged.

VISION: Check windshield wipers, headlights, turn signals, back-up and brake lights to make sure they are in good condition. Make sure washer reservoirs are filled and that all glass and mirrors are clean.

* * *

COOLING SYSTEM: Clean out and flush the cooling system and refill with new coolant, and rust inhibitor if needed. Check the thermostat, fan belt and water pump. Inspect all belts and hoses and condition of the radiator cap.

* * *

LUBRICATION: If needed, change the oil and oil filter. As part of an overall chassis lubrication, check transmission and differential fluids, front wheel bearings, locks and hinges.

* * *

TUNE-UP: If it has been more than 10,000 miles since your last tune-up, have one performed. As part of the tune-up check compression, coil output, charging rate of generator or alternator, install new spark plugs, inspect plug wires and boots, service and replace distributor components, service carburetor, check emission system and replace air cleaner. Also check battery and cables, cranking, starting and operating voltages and electrical wiring.

HELP ! ! !

If your car should break down on a busy highway, the Ontario Traffic Safety ministry suggests you take the following actions to summon help and create the least possible hazard to yourself and other motorists:

- Pull completely off the road onto the shoulder.
- Use your four-way emergency flashers.
- Lift up the hood of your car and tie a white handkerchief to the radio antenna or door handle.
- Use flares if you have them.

For accurate tire pressure readings, be sure to check yours before you've driven too many miles. Constant, high speed travel will generally increase air pressure.

Inefficient Cooling Systems Can Cut Gasoline Mileage

No one pours gasoline in his radiator, but a car's cooling system can be responsible for reducing gasoline mileage. So can other car parts that seemingly have no connection with fuel consumption.

Since the condition of the cooling system affects engine performance, abnormalities in cooling temperatures curtail gasoline mileage. A faulty thermostat, causing an engine to run too cool, creates a condition where more gas is needed to maintain power. An overheating engine also hampers efficient combustion of fuel.

Inside the engine, a stuck heat riser valve also wastes gas. When this valve is not operating as it should, fuel is not vaporized efficiently and excess raw gas escapes into the exhaust.

As for the exhaust system itself, if there is any obstruction in it, fuel economy suffers.

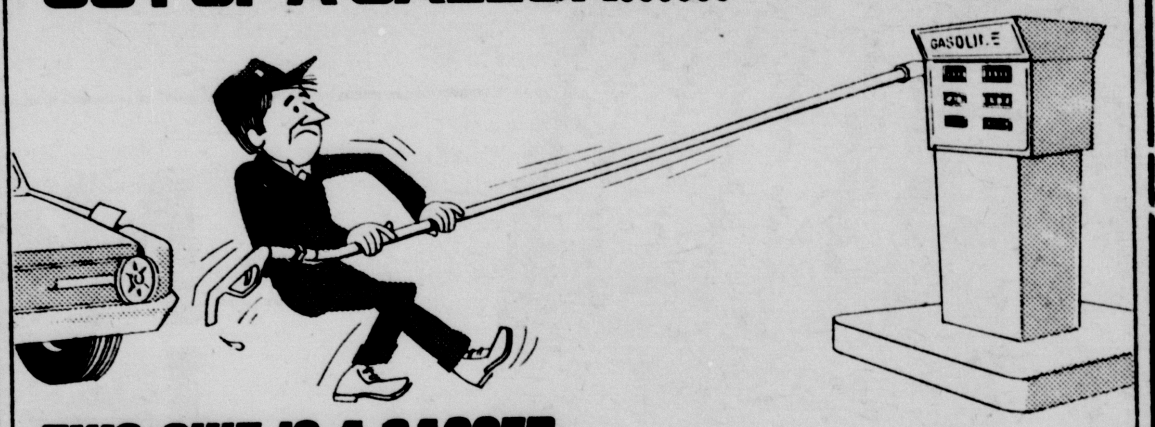
KNOW HOW TO GET MORE MILES OUT OF A GALLON.....



THIS QUIZ IS A GASSER:

What does the expression 'Mind Your P's and Q's' mean? According to some theories it was an English bartender's admonition to mind the Pints and Quarts he was dispensing. Today, the watchword is more appropriately, 'Mind your G's' or gallons.

This quiz is intended to help motorists prove how much they know about operating and maintaining a car to get the best possible gasoline mileage.

Knowing the right answers will do more than gratify your ego. It can also save you money in this time of rising prices and dwindling gasoline supply:

1. A freshly tuned engine can save you this much gas compared to one in need of tune-up.
   A. There's no measurable difference.
   B. About a gallon per tankful.
   C. Nearly two gallons per tankful.

2. Replacing worn spark plugs alone can save this much gasoline.
   A. About a half gallon per tankful.
   B. Better than a gallon per tankful.
   C. Almost three gallons per tankful.

3. Switching to a higher octane gasoline than your car requires has the following effect on fuel economy.
   A. None.
   B. It actually increases fuel consumption.
   C. It can save about 25 per cent fuel.

4. By running on underinflated tires you
   A. Burn less gasoline.
   B. Burn more gasoline.
   C. Do nothing more than provide a more comfortable ride.

5. When defective, the following adversely affects gasoline mileage.
   A. Wheel alignment.
   B. Windshield wipers.
   C. Alternator.

6. Brake problems affect gas mileage except
   A. When brakes are improperly adjusted.
   B. When you habitually ride the brake pedal.
   C. When brake lights aren't working.

7. A dirty air filter means wasted gas because:
   A. It produces an improper air-fuel mixture in the carburetor.
   B. Should dirt get into spark plugs, they can't function properly.
   C. The added weight creates "hyperstatic flux."

8. According to some sources running your car's air conditioning can cost you as much as
   A. A mile per gallon.
   B. Two miles per gallon.
   C. Three miles per gallon.

9. Only the following has no effect on gasoline mileage.
   A. Jack rabbit starts.
   B. Unnecessary use of turn signals.
   C. Prolonged periods of idling.

10. Reducing speeds from 70 to 50 miles per hour can
    A. Save over 20 per cent gas mileage.
    B. Cost you 5 per cent more gasoline.
    C. Has no effect.

ANSWERS: 1. C, according to tests conducted by Champion Spark Plug Company; 2. B, according to the same tests; 3. A. Consult your owner's manual for recommended gas; 4. B, not to mention tire wear. (Check for correct tire pressure when you get gas); 5. A; 6. C; 7. A; 8. C; 9. B; 10. A.

Car Care Key to Keeping Yours on Road

Twin Problems Faced By Motorist Require Better Maintenance

"May I use the car?"

This question is no longer the exclusive property of some teen-ager asking dad for permission to use the family auto. With growing shortages of fuel, restrictions of emission limits and other regulations facing the motorists, soon the whole nation might be asking, "May I use the car?"

As we enter the period of the year when car ownership and operation is most pleasureable — vacation time — the motoring public must face up to some unpleasant facts.

The energy shortage is growing more severe and pessimistic sources predict that the price of a gallon of gasoline may climb even higher in the near future.

Some Positives Emerging

There is talk of revoking the very privilege of driving in certain areas of the country. This is particularly so in locales with high concentrations of cars and with smog-prone climatic conditions.

It may require uncommon optimism to see the flimsiest silver lining in these black clouds but there are some positives emerging from this negative state of affairs.

One such positive is the growing realization on the part of the car owner that there is indeed a "tomorrow" as far as the supply of gasoline is concerned.

The motorist can no longer operate a car without considering the need to conserve fuel.

Therefore, he accepts the fact that he must both drive sensibly and maintain his car to get the best possible fuel economy.

* * *

An increasing number of owners are aware high speeds and erratic driving are shameful wasters of fuel.

A speeder and practitioner of jack-rabbit starts and habitual lane-changer uses significantly more gas than the prudent driver.

Compelling Reason for Shortage

Add to this the car owner who neglects tune-up, who fails to keep his tires inflated properly and commits other maintenance transgressions and you have as much a compelling reason for gasoline shortages as all the problems in the oil-producing world combined.

The threat to your right to operate your car has its roots in the energy crisis and air pollution problem. However, the level of pollutants from cars is on a steadily declining plateau. All cars built since 1967 have some form of emission control devices. As low emission-equipped vehicles replace older cars without such equipment, the air is getting cleaner.

And as more motorists are made aware that engine maintenance keeps emissions low, even the older cars are emitting less pollutants.

* * *

It's no exaggeration that the average citizen would be lost without his or her car. Therefore, the average Joe and Jane is looking at his car in a new way.

Gasoline prices haven't soared to the point where the fuel will be a substitute for cash at the bank. And a savings account for gas is not one of the services offered by even the most innovative financial institution. But this young motorist and her banker friend demonstrate the fact that up to two gallons of gasoline per tankful can be saved when a car's engine is tuned. Driving sensibly is another sure-fire way of helping to solve the energy shortage.

Faulty Components Can Cause Drag, Waste Fuel

If you think the gasoline shortage is a drag, then there is something you can do to make it less of one. Make sure critical components of your car are in good condition to eliminate conditions that waste fuel.

For instance, lack of maintenance in areas such as tires, brakes, shocks, wheel alignment and transmission can affect gasoline mileage as well as safety. In some cases, these faulty components help create a "drag" on the engine, thus requiring more gasoline to keep the car running.

Underinflated tires create such a drag. So can poorly adjusted brakes, especially when the driver has a habit of "riding" the brake pedal. Gas-wasting engine drag also can result from improperly aligned wheels.

Worn shocks also can cause road wandering with resultant fuel waste.

Slipping transmission bands or low transmission fluid levels can hinder proper changing of automatic transmission gears, thereby causing fuel wastage.

Neglected, these components can cost you money in premature tire and brake wear as well as possibility of expensive transmission repairs. With the extra bonus of better fuel economy and safety, routine maintenance of these items is more important than ever.

Proper Car Care Crucial to Cleaner Air

Federal Environmental Chief Calls Untuned Motor 'Trouble'

By RUSSELL E. TRAIN
Administrator, Environmental Protection Agency

Automobiles are an important part of the American way of life. Since the 1920's, while the population of the United States doubled, the number of automobiles has increased 800 percent.

Today we have nearly 100 million registered automobiles in this country, virtually one for every two persons. And three out of every four Americans are licensed to drive those automobiles.

Our entire way of life has been restructured, especially since the end of World War II, to accomodate the tremendous increase in the number of automobiles and the mobility which they afford. We have built our lives around the automobile and are now almost totally dependent upon some form of personal transportation.

Relying on the automobile's capabilities most of us have situated ourselves beyond practical walking or cycling distances of relatives, friends jobs, stores, churches, medical and recreational facilities, libraries and theaters. And on top of this, in most areas public transit today is either inadequate or nonexistent.

Major Pollutants

As a result the automobile has become the single most important source of three major air pollutants.

It is estimated that in 1971, on a nationwide basis, gasoline powered motor vehicles contributed 43 percent of the hydrocarbons, 62 percent of the carbon monoxide, and 31 percent of the nitrogen oxide emitted into the air.

In many cities, however, these motor vehicles contributed far more than the national averages -- reaching the 90 percent range in some cities.

The Clean Air Act of 1970 requires the automobile industry to reduce these emissions by at least 90 percent by 1976, as compared with 1970 or 1971 emission levels.

Even with these major reductions, the Environmental Protection Agency has determined that more than 35 metropolitan areas in the United States, having a combined population of 88 million, would not be able to meet the health-related air quality standards of the Clean Air Act by the law's 1975 deadline unless stricter controls were imposed on pollution sources.

Half Reach Goal

About one-half of these cities can reach their goals by being tougher on stationary sources, primarily industrial and commercial facilities, and through transit improvements, parking restrictions and automotive inspection and maintenance programs.

Proper engine maintenance, enforced by sound inspection programs, is an important part of every community's effort to reduce and control air pollution. The amount of pollution reduction through inspection and maintenance programs varies among cities because nearly every city has to cope with circumstances somewhat different from the others.

Untuned Engine Like Having Hole in Tank

Accounts for Wasting Almost Two Gallons for Every 20 You Buy, Say Experts; Here's Why

Untuned engines will, on average, consume more than 8 percent more fuel than when freshly tuned. However, tests conducted by Champion Spark Plug Company show that in extreme cases badly neglected engines waste even more fuel. Some engines were so badly out of tune that they were using 20 to 35 percent more fuel than tuned engines.

Operating a car with an untuned engine is like having a small hole in your gasoline tank. You're wasting almost two gallons of fuel for every 20 you put in the tank.

According to tests conducted by Champion Spark Plug Company, a tuned engine will consume 8.2 per cent less gas than one overdue for a tune-up. (That is an engine that hasn't been tuned in more than 10,000 miles.)

Champion engineers explained why an untuned engine is a fuel waster.

In simple terms, the internal combustion engine used in almost all cars in use today is powered by the ignition of a gasoline and air mixture.

Two basic systems, carburetion and ignition are involved.

If those systems don't work right, then fuel is wasted.

The carburetor receives a supply of gas and air and meters it in precise amounts to the combustion chamber. Here, an electrical charge supplied by the ignition system through the spark plug ignites the air/fuel mixture. This source of power is converted into the energy that eventually drives the wheels of the car.

Jerry Grant, noted race driver and member of the Champion Spark Plug Company Highway Safety Team, has gas economy on his mind. USAC, the official sanctioning body of Indy-type racing, has cut fuel allowances per race by some 30 percent. So Grant and his fellow drivers will be practicing some of the same fuel savings procedures recommended for all motorists in this time of gasoline shortages.

PROPER CARE

Portland, Oregon anticipates a 12 percent reduction in pollutants through its inspection and maintenance program; Denver and Sacramento look for about a 7 percent reduction and Boston about 3 percent.

Annual emissions inspection in State-operated facilities will cost an estimated $2 per vehicle. Annual maintenance costs are expected to be in the $20 to $30 range for vehicles which fail the inspection test. Most of this maintenance is routine work which would normally have been performed voluntarily by prudent motorists.

In addition to the pollution-control benefits, the Department of Interior estimates that an auto tuneup every six months will cut American oil consumption by 140,000 barrels a day.

A properly tuned car may seem like a small way to cope with today's pollution and energy problems. And yet such an ordinary procedure may well be crucial in many situations. Of all the transportation control strategies devised to reduce air pollution, the one which causes the most public concern — because it entails the greatest personal inconvenience — is the "Reduction of Vehicle Miles Traveled."

Means "Drive Less"

In plain language, that means taking steps to insure that people drive less. New York, Los Angeles, Baltimore and Washington, D.C. have included such measures in their plans. Obviously, the more pollution can be controlled through other measures, the less need there will be for more stringent controls.

An untuned car can, indeed, be a lot of trouble.

Car Needs Check Before Going on Trip

Just as you would have your car inspected before taking a vacation trip to make sure it's running smoothly, check your camera. Shoot a test roll of film before leaving. If the pictures are satisfactory, you can be reasonably sure the camera is working properly. If not, bring it to a dealer and have him check it over.

When you pack your camera for the trip, the first thing to do is "unpack" it and keep it handy for any photo scene that presents itself en route. It won't help to see just the shot you want if your camera isn't easily available.

A word of advice: film is perishable. Heat and humidity are harmful to film. In summer, don't put your camera or film in the trunk, glove compartment, or on the rear-window deck. The handiest place for your camera equipment is on the seat beside you.

* * *

CAR PICTURES

While driving to your camping site, you will want to take some pictures. It is always best to stop the car, but sometimes this is not possible. If you must shoot from a moving car, shoot through the front window. If you shoot out of the side window, the foreground of your picture will be blurry. Hold your camera as steady as possible without bracing it against the car, because vibration will blur your pictures.

* * *

NATURE PHOTOS

Campers, more than other vacationers, have a love of the outdoors and a feeling for nature. Your pictures should reflect this.

The most attractive nature pictures often are those taken close-up—the flowers in bloom, the shells or unusual rocks your child finds, even the toad he brings back to camp; all are perfect subjects for close-up shots.

With extreme close-ups, it's important to measure distance accurately. An easy way to do this is with a piece of string. Whatever close-up distance your camera permits, measure this distance with a string and tie a knot at that point. Tape one end of the string to the lens mount of your camera and you're ready for perfect close-up shots. To take a picture of a flower for example, simply hold the string in front of the camera and move in until the knot touches the flower; then drop the string and shoot.

FORESTS

When taking pictures in a forest on a sunny day, you will find excessive lighting contrasts, from the dark shadows spawned by the trees to the bright sunlight when the sun shines through. To avoid this striped effect, scenes in the deep woods are best when taken on an overcast day or in hazy sunlight. An exposure meter will be a big help.

* * *

MOUNTAINS

Bright sunlight is best for distant mountain vistas, but don't overlook dramatic storm-cloud effects. Generally, mountain scenes are improved by cross-lighting, plus a foreground object — a child looking at the scene, overhanging tree branches, a rushing stream, or colorful flowers. These will frame your picture, set it off, and create the desired depth.

* * *

SUNSETS

Your family silhouetted against a setting sun is always a good shot to include in your picture-story. If you can look at the sunset without squinting your eyes, it can be photographed in color. In other words, with automatic cameras, wait until the sun is below the horizon or behind a cloud, and then shoot.

After you've taken your pictures and removed the film from the camera, store it in a cool place until you can take it to be processed.

* * *

As a race driver who needs every competitive advantage I can get to win and as a motorist who loves driving, I am truly concerned with the fuel situation. You can bet I'll be watching my gas gauge more carefully this year and I urge you to do the same.

Fuel Squandered When Ignition System Fails to Function Well

Any defect in the ignition system is likely to create misfire and a resulting incomplete burning of the fuel. Thus raw gasoline will end up in the exhaust, both squandering fuel and creating pollution.

The role of the ignition system is to convert about 10 volts of primary current from the battery to upwards of 25,000 volts at the spark plug firing end. Any defect in this system producing less voltage is apt to create a misfire.

Common defects that can lead to misfire include worn out or fouled spark plugs, deteriorated plug cables or boots, distributor or coil malfunctions.

If any of these components aren't working right, it is possible that the electrical charge provided won't be sufficient to fire one or more spark plugs. The air/fuel mixture will not be ignited in affected cylinders. So, not only will gas be wasted in non-firing cylinders, but you need to compensate for loss of power by feeding more gas to the functioning cylinders.

If there is a general deterioration of the ignition system, the engine won't start at all (with a resultant waste of fuel trying to start the engine).

While most amateur photographers want bright sunlight to illuminate their still shots or films, some dramatic effects can be obtained on cloudy or partly cloudy days. This is particularly true on beach shots where the white sands can cast an annoying glare when the sun is too bright. (Photo courtesy of Kodak.)

Poorly Timed Engine Means Loss Of Power; Demands More Gas

Other conditions that waste gas include poorly set ignition timing. A poorly timed engine means loss of engine power so more gasoline is needed to provide power necessary to operate.

Other engine power robbers and fuel wasters include clogged PCV valve, plus other malfunctioning anti-pollution devices and poor compression due to bad valves or other engine defect.

To detect and correct any of these gas wasters, bring your car into your favorite service outlet for a tune-up.

When Sleep Is Not Good for You

"Asleep at the switch," an expression current during the days when railroads were a major means of transportation, could have a counterpart today, "Asleep at the wheel."

About 20% of all automobile accidents are believed to be the result of driver sleepiness. A survey in Oklahoma indicated that 48% of drivers involved in fatal accidents during the past 11 years had "fallen asleep" at the wheel.

Extended driving without rest is the chief cause — even three hours of driving without stopping can cause attention lapses of three or four seconds while driving.

Italian Car Care A 'Not-y' Problem

By MARCELLO SABBATINI

Driving in Italy is more of an adventure than ever. In town, the constant traffic jams lead to neurosis. Main roads are always clogged because motorists use them in preference to the expensive toll roads. Those who use the tollways find two conditions. When they are lightly traveled, everyone drives too fast. The other extreme is being forced to go for miles at walking speeds because there is a jam at the exit or road work ahead.

Symbol of Freedom

The average Italian, who used to worship the automobile as property (at least until the mid-'60's), now doesn't value his car more than he would a washing machine. The automobile is no longer the status symbol it once was.

When Fiat in the '50's gave the Italians the opportunity of mass motorization, the Italian considered the motor-car as a symbol of freedom from years of poverty. With it they were buying a status symbol. And they kept themselves informed on everything relating to a car. And they cared for their cars.

But now this interest in car care is over. The Italian driver puts oil and petrol in when they are needed, but he habitually forgets to put water in the battery until the battery is ruined. He lets the tread of the tires become worn like racing car slicks. At most, he washes his car occasionally. He forgets his anti-freeze altogether.

Push to Maximum

Two of the problems that today Italian motorists absolutely don't worry about: pollution and fuel.

Also, Italians in general drive with the accelerator pushed to the maximum, not only when they go fast, but even when they go slowly. There seems to be an allergy to the correct use of gears in relation to economy in consumption.

Driving with minimum throttle is completely out of fashion; the so-called "egg on the accelerator" (advertised by a firm to promote economy in driving) would continuously become an omelet under the foot of the average Italian driver.

What Do You Think?

But to over-accelerate also means to pollute. And the idea of shutting off one's motor at least in interruptions of traffic is an idea that rarely occurs to our motorists. Everyone is afraid if he turns off his engine, his neighbor will immediately take advantage and pass him, as in fact it happens. (Even at the cost of traveling on the emergency lane, which should be reserved for emergencies.)

But after all, what do you think the pale-blue exhaust fumes are for the Italians, used to seeing smoking chimneys in the exhaust pipes of thousands of mini motor-bikes in between the web of a chaotic traffic that doesn't lighten even in the season of the great fogs in the North? Or in comparison with the smoke of the pollution in industries?

* * *

• Champion idle emission tests revealed a tuned engine produced 57 per cent less carbon monoxide and 48 per cent less hydrocarbons than engines in need of tune-up. Corresponding reductions also were realized at driving speeds.

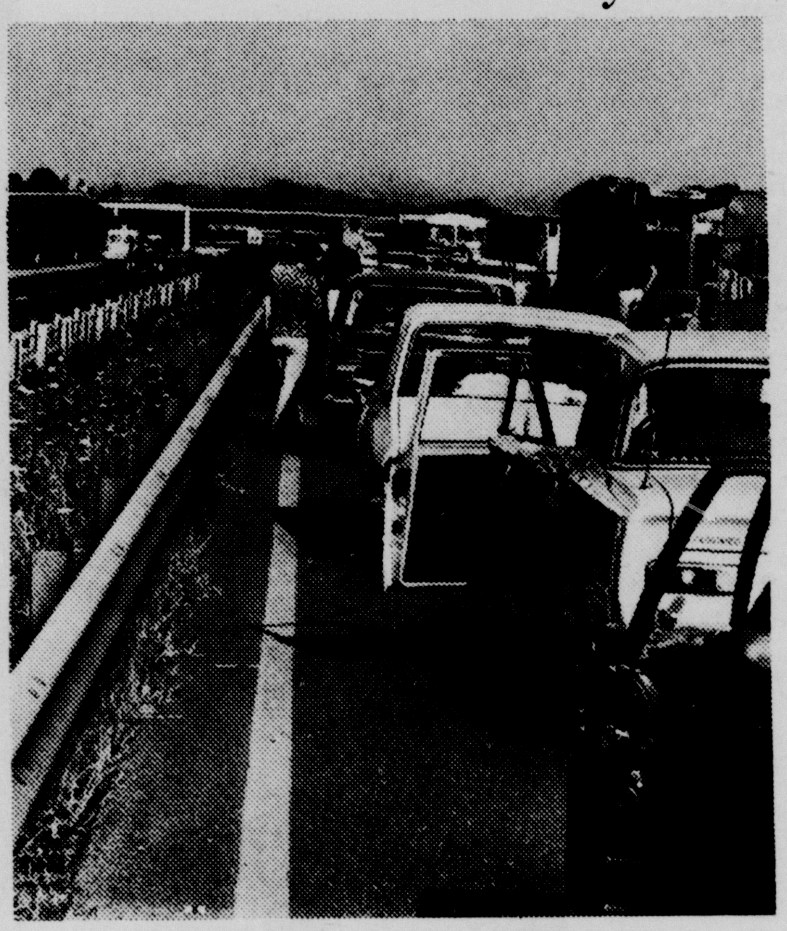
ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

Sabbatini

Marcello Sabbatini is one of the best known and most controversial journalists of the Italian motor world. Born 47 years ago in Abruzzi, he has been a professional journalist for 25 years; the past seven as editor of Autosprint.

Asked to give a few hints on driving in the chaotic traffic of Italian cities and on the long motorways (on which, in Italy, there is no speed limit), he said, "I couldn't do the usual article of advice — and so I thought of doing it . . . upside-down."

Traffic Jam Italian Style



According to Italian auto expert Marcello Sabbatini, author of this article, the rapid growth of car ownership in his country has been accompanied by a general and regrettable neglect of car maintenance. So, frequent breakdowns of cars on crowded highways often lead to traffic jams like these. In addition, the typical Italian car owner pays little heed to gasoline economy or pollution, Sr. Sabbatini opines in the amusing report (below) on the habits of his countrymen in caring (or not caring) properly for their cars.

Compulsory Vehicle Inspections Producing Good Results

Little children leap up and down in glee and their parents smile when they see it. This source of pleasure for Chicago residents is a multi-colored "scoreboard" that flashes results of the recently-introduced compulsory emissions tests in the second largest U.S. city.

The scoreboard with its green and red lights that tells motorists they "Pass" or "Fail" their emissions probes may be a showman's touch to the serious program.

But when it flashes green for a car that has just completed the test, the car owner seems to feel genuine joy and a sense of satisfaction that his or her car is not part of Chicago's air pollution problem.

All eyes are on the "scoreboard" that flashes results of the mandatory emissions test all Chicago cars must undergo. Since introduced in June 1973, tests have been held for tens of thousands of Chicago car-owners. About two of every three owners get the green "pass" light and one-third the red "fail" light. The "abort" light is for a small percentage of vehicles that cannot be tested due to major engine malfunctions or unadaptability to the testing equipment.

One Third Fail

The emissions inspection program was begun in Chicago in June of 1973. Since then tens of thousands of cars have been probed to see if they meet hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide limits established by the city.

To date, about two out of every three cars have been able to meet the standards. The one-third who have failed have been told the probable causes of their problems and asked to return for a retest after the necessary engine adjustments have been made.

The test itself is short and simple for the motorist. He drives to one of 18 check lanes situated in various parts of Chicago. The car is hooked up to a test equipment van, with an infra-red emissions probe inserted in the tail pipe and a lead attached to the ignition system. Information about the car is fed into a computer and emission readings are taken at two speeds --one at normal idle and a second at fast idle.

It is the computer and test machines, rather than the operator, that determines pass or fail. Since allowable limits differ for age of car and for private or commercial vehicles, the computer instantly compares the emissions of the car being tested and what permissible levels are. Results are simultaneously printed out for the car owner and flashed on the "scoreboard" for him to see.

Cars that pass are adorned with a blue and white sticker which is valid for 12 months.

One Major Problem

Despite the fact that the emissions checks are mandatory, helpful to the environment, fairly fast and painless, the Chicago inspection program has one major problem. Not enough cars are being brought in to utilize the capacity of the check lanes.

According to program director Joe Seliber, "We try to remind motorists time is of the essence. While the law states a deadline for compliance, we urge motorists to have inspections done well before that deadline when facilities aren't crowded."

Pollution Wastes Gas

Seliber believes one approach to getting more cars in for testing lies in the current fuel crisis. He said that the same engine malfunctions that cause high emissions are the ones that waste gasoline. Once the high emissions are brought under control, gasoline consumption will go down.

Emissions inspections are conducted without extra cost to motorists as part of their annual Chicago car license fees. There are approximately one million vehicles in the city.

Buying Some New Tires? Put Best on Rear Wheels

When a person buys a new dishwasher, he's going to put it where he needs it most — in the kitchen. Safety experts say the same rule applies when buying new tires. Unless the car has front-wheel drive, tires should go where they're needed most — on the rear wheels.

"When selecting a pair of replacement tires in the same size and construction as already on the car, they should be put on the rear wheels for better traction and handling," says Ross R. Ormsby, Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

Many experts feel motorists who develop tire problems on the front axle, because of skidding or disablement, still have a certain degree of control over the vehicle with the steering wheel. However, when the problem occurs on the rear wheels most drivers have no way to compensate for skids or swerves before the vehicle can be stopped.

Tire safety experts from the National Bureau of Standards Office of Vehicle Systems Research Institute for Applied Technology surveyed independent studies conducted throughout the country and involving thousands of passenger cars. Their findings appear to agree with the Council's recommendations.

There is strong evidence that a significant number of car owners place least worn tires on the front wheels, whereas available accident experience indicates the least worn tires should be placed on the rear.

"Bald tires on the rear appear to be more of a safety hazard than on the front, a finding at variance with automotive folklore. And bald tires on wet pavement make a particularly hazardous combination.

"Vehicles in accidents have a larger number of severely worn tires on the rear than on the front, suggesting that it is safer to put newer or less worn tires on the rear," said the government survey.

• Tuned engines showed improved starting efficiency according to Champion tests. Untuned engines experience twice as many "won't starts" as tuned engines and required an average 15.4 per cent more time to start.

So, in the words of many automotive experts, "Tune-ups don't cost. They pay."

French are Lacking Facilities For Proper Car Maintenance

By ROBERT AHIER

In France one must take as good care of a car as of a wife, better if possible.

At least, this is what people used to say. Now Frenchwomen take very good care of themselves, thank you, and cars are becoming more and more difficult to service.

France is still far behind the United States in mass production of automobiles, highway construction, garages, parking lots and servicing. But since World War Two, the development of automobiles in this country has been startling . . . from an output of 34,625 cars in 1945 to a total 3.2 million in 1973.

Even more important, a big 55 per cent of the total production is exported all over the world.

All Done by Hand

Hours are spent by motorists fixing minor malfunctions with a screwdriver in hand, washing, polishing and painting, all by hand.

This kind of kid glove treatment has become impossible with mass production and the lack of space for personal repairs within big cities. This leaves drivers with a big problem: how to take care of a car without spending too much money?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Robert Ahier, who authors the accompanying report from France, has been a United Press International Staff Correspondent in Paris since 1944.

Ahier

His specialty has been coverage of the automotive industry in all of its aspects from racing and production through servicing since before joining the Paris UPI staff.

Mr. Ahier has a Master of Arts degree in Diplomacy and Law from Paris University and in the United States has studied Political Science and Philosophy at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

In urban areas, garages generally devote their time to one single make of car. It is very difficult and very expensive to get servicing, spare parts and work done. Body finishing has not reached American standards and often rots or peels off.

There is no real answer to this question.

Each of the four French automakers has tried to give its own answer by offering a year guarantee on parts, or a mileage guarantee on parts and labor or some combination of both, in their own registered garages.

But there are hardly enough garages to go around and a one-year guarantee means relatively little to a buyer who spends at least $2,000 on a small car.

In addition, the French cover much less ground each year than do Americans. Average mileage runs between 8 and 15,000 miles yearly. This means people want to keep their cars operating satisfactorily between three and five years.

Studies Being Made

The Common Market has now initiated wide and expensive studies to improve highway safety, pollution control and dependency of cars in the coming years. The Common Market governments are also taking measures to slow down the mass slaughter on roads and highways every weekend and during holidays.

A mandatory check-up of all cars every year or two years by a government-accredited body is also under discussion in government circles, in spite of the heavy costs involved.

A safe tip to North American drivers visiting Europe: don't take your car along with you. Rent one in Europe with as much inclusive insurance as possible, then close your eyes and go ahead . . . . .

* * *

• Tests show that an 8.2 per cent improvement in gasoline economy can be achieved with a tune-up when compared to driving a car that's traveled more than 10,000 miles since the last tune-up. Thus, nearly two gallons of gas per tankful can be saved by a newly tuned engine.

Where there's no Boy Scout around to help, always Be Prepared. Having a safe, properly maintained car and good driving habits are important to all motorists, but the lone woman driver must use an extra measure of caution when she drives. Driving the children to school every day is just one of the times when the lone woman driver must be prepared for every situation.

A SPECIAL DECALOGUE FOR THE . . .

Lone Woman Driver

The Ten Commandments were made for everyone, but the Lone Woman Driver must have a set of her own. Here is her Decalogue:

I

THOU SHALL NOT PICK UP HITCHHIKERS

Being a "lady Samaritan" can be extremely risky when you're on the road alone. That innocent looking boy with the sweet face may be a Baby-Face Nelson in disguise.

II

THOU SHALL NOT GIVE STRANDED MOTORISTS A LIFT

When you're driving along the highway and see an anxious motorist standing in front of his raised hood, keep right on driving. Instead of giving someone a lift yourself, go to the nearest service station and report the situation.

III

THOU SHALL BE SURE TO CARRY SPARE CHANGE

Asking for hand-outs may work for a panhandler, but in times of emergency a few spare coins are a necessity. That pay phone won't work on love, and that dime might just be needed to call the police.

IV

THOU SHALL ALWAYS LOCK YOUR DOORS WHEN DRIVING ALONE

An unlocked door or window is an open invitation for intruders. Your side vent will provide enough fresh air. A locked door is not only a security measure, but in case of collision it'll prevent you from flying out the door.

V

THOU SHALL NOT ENTER AN UNLIT PARKING LOT ALONE

Having a personal bodyguard is not always feasible, but try to have someone accompany you to your car at night. A lone female walking through a deserted parking lot is a temptation few muggers can resist.

VI

THOU SHALL ALWAYS DRIVE DEFENSIVELY

Placing the blame on "the other guy" won't help you much if you're in the hospital. Always watch for the unexpected.

VII

THOU SHALL ALWAYS KEEP YOUR CAR UP TO SNUFF

Avoiding a problem is easier than remedying one. And listen to your "woman's intuition." If you think something is amiss, stop in at a service facility and have it checked.

VIII

THOU SHALL NOT LET YOUR GAS TANK GO BELOW HALF FULL

With the increased fuel shortage, many service stations are operating on reduced hours. It may be difficult to find an open station when your fuel needle nudges empty.

IX

THOU SHALL LEARN THE MECHANICAL BASICS OF YOUR CAR

Your owner's manual wasn't meant to line your glove compartment; it was meant to be read. Try to acquaint yourself with this reference.

X

THOU SHALL BE PREPARED FOR DISABLING SITUATIONS

The basic ingredients for a well-stocked car include: a jack and spare tire, signal flare or lamps, flashlight, city and state road maps, first aid kit, ice scraper and snow shovel.

Canadian Transport Authority Offers . . .

Tips on Safe Trailering

If you are an experienced trailer hand, you might want to turn the page. But if you're one of the growing army of motorists who's going to haul a trailer for the first time this summer, these tips from the Ontario Ministry of Transport can help make the experience a more pleasant one.

Whether you'll be pulling a sleek, 35-footer from coast to coast or hauling some furniture to the cottage in a rented two-wheeled trailer, certain driving techniques are recommended.

* * *

STARTING: Accelerate carefully. Take it slowly and easily.

* * *

TAKING CURVES: Stay close to the middle of your lane.

TURNING —

Right Turn: Look in your right mirror. Signal, slow down. If turn is sharp, move ahead until car's front wheels are well ahead of curb . . . then turn to the right.

Left Turn: Check traffic. Signal. Proceed slowly. When you make your turn, drive well into intersection in order to swing wide, to allow for the trailer.

* * *

SLOWING, STOPPING: A sudden stop can jacknfe your trailer or shift your load, so keep a greater distance than normally between you and the car ahead. Keep out of the fast lanes and maintain a speed that makes sudden stops and slow-ups unnecessary.

* * *

PASSING: When towing a trailer you can't accelerate as fast as without it. Then too your car plus trailer is much longer. Before you pass, make sure there's enough time and room. When you have passed, allow more room before you move back to your lane. Don't cut in and swerve . . . this can make your trailer swing and sway.

* * *

BEING PASSED: Help other drivers pass you where necessary.

SAVE GAS.

A lot of it. In nationwide fuel economy tests, motorists' cars were tested before and after a tune-up. Results showed that a tune-up with new Champion spark plugs saved, on the average, a gallon of gasoline in every tankful. Considering that 3 of every 5 cars on the road need a tune-up right now, tune-ups alone could save us millions of gallons of gasoline each week.

Tune-ups benefit us in other ways, too. Quicker acceleration for safer passing. Dependable starts. Plus a substantial reduction in emissions.

See your mechanic regularly for a Champion tune-up. Once a year or every 10,000 miles.

"ALL IN THE FAMILY" REBROADCASTS DURING MAY

Following are story lines for episodes of "All in the Family" to be rebroadcast in May (Saturdays, 7:00-7:30 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network. Carroll O'Connor stars as Archie Bunker, Jean Stapleton as Edith Bunker, Rob Reiner and Sally Struthers as Mike and Gloria Stivic, and Betty Garrett and Vincent Gardenia as Irene and Frank Lorenzo.

May 4: Archie is held up by an unusual gunman while driving Munson's cab.

May 11: Another Bunker battle, this time over Mike's overzealous reaction to Gloria's "new look" in a black wig.

May 18: For their 25th anniversary, Edith and Archie are going on a second honeymoon--but nobody's told Archie.

May 25: Archie has a pool game and a "sure" bet with Irene Lorenzo, but Frank claims to have put a Sicilian curse on him.

Sunday Highlights

10:00 CBS— CAMERA THREE— "Rose, Where Did You Get That Red?" Poet, playwright, and teacher Kenneth Koch, whose books overturned the traditional techniques of "educating" children to poetry, demonstrates the young set's natural poetic expression with seventh grade students. Children will read their own poems.

10:00 ABC— H. R. PUFNSTUF— This live- action fantasy adventure taking place in "Living Island" centers on the story of H. R. Pufnstuf, the friendly mayor of the island; Jimmy (played by Jack Wild) and his magic flute; and their nemesis, Witchipoo (played by Billy Hayes). The island is occupied by singing trees, dancing flowers and talking animals. Today's episode is "The Wheelybird"

10:25 ABC— MULTIPLICATION ROCK/GRAMMAR ROCK— A series of 4- minute animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

10:30 ABC— MAKE A WISH— This series with its fast- paced and visually fascinating format encourages children in the 6- to-11- year- old age bracket to think of all the possibilities raised by two key words— in history, geography, literature, art, mythology and language. Original songs also are created to describe each key word. Live action interviews, animation, historic film clips, and film shot on location throughout the U. S., as well as abroad, are used to explore the meanings and associations of the key words. Tom Chapin hosts the series and performs the original songs which are written by his brother Harry Chapin. Today's topics are "Button" and "Red"

11:00 ABC— KID POWER— This half- hour animated series concerns itself with the lives of neighborhood children of various ethnic backgrounds, and deals with subjects such as honesty, prejudice, teamwork and handling new responsibilities that have meaning for 6- to- 12 year olds. The show is based on the nationally syndicated strip "Wee Pals" by Morrie Turner. Today's episode is "Ladies Day"

11:30 ABC— OSMONDS— This animated series starring today's top young musical group, The Osmond Brothers, centers on the brothers' world- wide goodwill tour, taking them to a different country each week. It is based on the personalities of the brothers, with emphasis on Jimmy and Donnie Osmond. The others in the group are Merrill, Wayne and Alan. Today's episode is "Luck Of The Osmonds"

11:55 ABC— MULTIPLICATION ROCK/GRAMMAR ROCK— A series of 4- minute animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

12:00 CBS— SPORTS SPECTACULAR— "Tournament of Championships" featuring amateur boxing matches from Denver, Colorado and "The National Indoor Synchronize Swimming Championships" from Canton, Ohio.

12:00 ABC— DIRECTIONS— "A Comforting Hand: Disciples of Christ"— The story of London, Kentucky, population 5,000, where Howard McKinley Fawbush, pastor of a 230-member church is trying to answer the needs of London and surrounding commuunities. This filmed document follows Fawbush as he communicates with the people both through personal contact and his radio broadcasts

12:30 ABC— ISSUES AND ANSWERS— The guest will be White House Chief of Staff General Alexander M. Haig, Jr. He will be interviewed by ABC News White House Correspondent Tom Jarriel and ABC News Capitol Hill Correspondent Sam Donaldson

2:00 WDXR— "The Shuttered Room" starring Carol Lynley

2:30 ABC— WORLD INVITATIONAL TENNIS CLASSIC— This is the fourth in a series of eleven telecasts from the Hilton Head Racquet Club on Hilton Head Island, South Carolina. Today's show will feature Arthur Ashe vs. Stan Smith. Commentary will be provided by Chris Schenkel and Pancho Gonzales

Linda Rutledge, America's Junior Miss 1973, will crown the new titleholder, on the 17th annual "America's Junior Miss Pageant," to be broadcast live from Mobile, Ala., Monday, May 6 (8:00- 9:00 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network.

"America's Junior Miss Pageant"...

LINDA RUTLEDGE- A YOUNG LADY MAKING IT IN THE WORLD

In early fall, Linda Rutledge, America's Junior Miss 1973, was sworn in as a midshipman in the United States Navy.

"I am a midshipman, not a midshipwoman," laughs Miss Rutledge, a pert young lady from Fort Leavenworth, Kans., who will relinquish her crown to the new titleholder on "America's Junior Miss Pageant," to be presented live from Mobile, Ala., Monday, May 6 (7:00- 8:00 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Miss Rutledge, who as last year's Junior Miss won more than $10,000 in college scholarships, received one of 14 naval ROTC scholarships awarded to women throughout the United States. Upon her graduation from Penn State University, where she is currently enrolled, she will be commissioned as an ensign.

"I hope to work in computer science with the space agency some day," she explains. "I feel a military background will be the best step towards NASA."

The daughter of a career Marine Corps officer, Miss Rutledge stresses that she should not be called a "beauty queen."

"The pageant is concerned with inner beauty, not outer beauty," she says. "But, of course, if you recognize your own inner beauty, the outer beauty will come through."

May 28: The Arthur- Vivian love affair is on the rocks because of Arthur's constant eulogizing of his late wife.

NBC DOUBLE FEATURE NIGHT AT THE MOVIES:

"Lucas Tanner" and "In Tandem"– David Hartman stars as a small- town high school teacher whose progressive methods threaten his job and position in the community in "Lucas Tanner"; "In Tandem" stars Claude Akins and Frank Converse in an action- packed drama about the trucking business.

David Hartman stars in the title role of "Lucas Tanner," a drama about a free- thinking former sports figure whose classroom innovations in his new job on a high school faculty antagonize fellow workers and townspeople alike, and Claude Akins and Frank Converse costar in "In Tandem," a fast- paced action drama about a free- lance trucking contractor's fight against big business interests. The two World Premiere program development projects will be colorcast on "NBC Double Feature Night at the Movies" Wednesday, May 8 (7- 10 p.m. CDT) on the NBC Television Network.

In "Lucas Tanner" (7- 8:30 p.m. CDT), Hartman portrays a former sports writer and onetime promising pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals who returns to the St. Louis area as a member of the faculty of a small-town high school.

Despite the sympathetic support of school principal Margaret Blumenthal (Rosemary Murphy), Tanner's progressive instructional methods alienate some fellow teachers and parents in the community.

NBC- TV sportscaster Joe Garagiola guest- stars as himself in his television dramatic debut. Also in the cast are Ramon Bieri, Robbin Rist, Nancy Malone and Michael Baselon.

Jerry McNeely wrote and produced "Lucas Tanner," which was directed by Richard Donner. Executive producer is David Victor.

In "In Tandem" (8:30- 10 p.m. CDT), starring Claude Akins and Frank Converse, Sonny Pruett (Akins), a middle- aged free- lance trucking contractor, teams up with Will Chandler (Converse), a Harvard Law School graduate, to help Joseph DiAngelo (Richard Angarola), who is fighting to save his land.

DiAngelo is the last holdout against selling his orange farm to a large development corporation which plans to build an amusement park. The other growers are offered a cash bonus if the entire valley sells out and they stop at nothing to keep the trucks from delivering DiAngelo's crop to market.

Pruett's mongrel companion, "Dog," accompanies the two "gypsy" truckers whose social ideals differ, but who share a mutual bond of respect.

10:30 ABC— WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT— "One Deadly Owner", starring Donna Mills and Jeremy Brett. A photographer's model is inexplicably drawn to the purchase of an expensive automobile which is to take her, against her will, to the scene of a murder

10:30 CBS— MOVIE— "Maracaibo" Starring Cornel Wilde, Jean Wallace. An off-shore oil- well fire erupts in Maracaibo, Venezuela, and help is sought from an ace fire fighter who is deeply involved in romantic problems. He decides to put the oil tragedy ahead of solving his own personal affairs.

ARTISTRY IN THE MAIL ROOM

Television sometimes draws its talent from surprising sources. For example, "Cannon" has discovered a valuable addition to its set decorating ensemble in the cluttered mail room of the Goldwyn Studios, where the television series is filmed.

Cheryl Polakow, age 22, who sorts and delivers mail and operates a duplicating machine at the studio, has painted oil portraits and provided decorative background drawings for three episodes of "Cannon," starring William Conrad (Wednesdays, 8:00- 9:00 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Miss Polakow, a recent art graduate of the University of California, Santa Barbara, admits it requires "positive thinking" to work full days at one job and then turn out a portrait of actor Robert Douglas in three nights of intensive effort. That she did, when assigned by set decorator Rick Lentz, for the "Cannon" episode "Triangle of Terror."

Previously, her oil of actress Pamela Franklin was used in "Where's Jennifer?", and her African mask drawings were backgrounds in "Death of a Hunter" on "Cannon."

A contest winner in the drawing and prints division among UCSB art students in 1973, Miss Polakow hopes to utilize those skills soon in a full- time art career.

It would appear the "Cannon" discovery is well on her way.

WDXR— "Blood of Dracula" starring Sandra Harrison

10:30 ABC— WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT— "Geraldo Rivera: Good- night, America" Add Arlo Guthrie to the previously announced guests Grace Slick and B. J. Thomas

10:30 CBS— MOVIE— "Machine Gun McCain" Starring John Cassavetes, Peter Falk. Action- filled story of an attempt to thwart the operation of a modern crime syndicate.

BOBBY TROUP
Dr. Joe Early
in 'Emergency!'
Saturdays' NBC
Television Network

Bobby Troup wrote his first smash hit song, "Daddy," even before he was graduated from college but his talent has a wider horizon. He's an accomplished lyricist, composer, singer, musician, actor, painter, swimmer and golfer.

In the first four categories, three of the 150 songs which Bobby has written and played have become standards: "Daddy," "Route 66" and "Girl Talk." As a painter, he is considered one of the finest in Hollywood. As a golfer, he plays one of the better games and frequently goes 18 holes with his friend, professional Bob Rosburg.

When Jack Webb gave him an opportunity to play the co- starring role of Dr. Joe Early, a neurosurgeon, in the NBC Television Network's "Emergency!" series, he jumped at the chance. An added attraction was the opportunity to appear opposite his wife, Julie London, another of the series' stars.

Christened Robert William Troup Jr., Bobby was born Oct. 18, 1918, in Harrisburg, Pa. His grandfather owned the J. H. Troup music house and his father later opened a music house in Lancaster.

Troup worte "Daddy" while at the university. Cynthia Hare, Philadelphia's Debutante of the Year, was appearing with a band. The song was played every night. Sammy Kaye heard it, borrowed the arrangement and played it for nine weeks on his network show. Within a month it was on "The Hit Parade," where it stayed for 17 weeks.

After he received his Bachelor of Science degree in economics, Bobby enlisted in the Marine Corps. He spent five years as a captain, much of it overseas. He and Cynthia married and had two daughters, Cynthia and Ronne. They came to California in 1946.

Driving over Route 66, Bobby scribbled most of a song on a road map. Two weeks after arriving in Hollywood he met Nat "King" Cole, and played snatches of the yet unfinished tune for Nat. Two weeks later the song was completed and Cole recorded it. It sold over a million copies and Troup was on his way.

After his divorce he met Julie London, who had dropped into Hollywood's Celebrity Room to watch the exciting musician- composer- singer she'd heard about.

Bobby, Julie, their daughter Kelly, 11, and twin sons Jody and Reese, 10, live in Encino, Calif.

12:00 ABC— MOVIE— "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" starring Vivian Leigh & Warren Beatty

Bob Hope once told an aspiring young performer that he thought success in show business might be just around the corner since the newcomer had one big asset in common with Hope, himself, "people remember your face."

Since 1924 that easily and happily identifiable face (with accent on the ski-jump profile) has turned its facile expressions of mirth, mischief and merriment to vaudeville audiences, motion picture audiences and later to television audiences (the radio run, equally successful, provided only the crisp voice and the superb timing of a master comedian with the listeners free to provide their own idea of Hope's face). Since his equipment for being a comedian included such assets as fine-honed timing and the grace of an athlete, Hope was able to succeed equally in all fields.

Born Leslie Townes Hope in England, he arrived with his family in Cleveland, Ohio, when he was four years old. His vaudeville career, beginning in 1924, expanded to Broadway and network radio success in the 1930's, to motion pictures in the late 1930's and to television in 1950.

Today, in addition to being the nation's most widely viewed comedian on nationwide television, Hope is noted equally for his extensive philanthropies and the expenditure of his time for charitable causes for which he does innumerable benefits (at least one or more a week, every month of the year). He is the recipient of 22 honorary degrees from colleges and universities and has been awarded nearly 2,000 citations for his humanitarian and professional efforts, including the Medal of Freedom from President Johnson, the Congressional Gold Medal from President Kennedy, a special Oscar and Jean Hersholt Award, the Criss Award, the Pacem in Terris Award and numerous others.

RICHARD C. WALD
President, NBC News

Richard C. Wald, appointed President of NBC News in January, 1973, has an outstanding record of achievement in both print and broadcast journalism.

He joined the National Broadcasting Company as Vice President, NBC News, in April, 1968. In that capacity, he was in charge of the entire NBC News "hard news" operation, including its world- wide news gathering facilities and all regularly scheduled news programming. In June, 1972, he was named Executive Vice President of NBC News, with all principal executives of the division reporting to him.

Mr. Wald was long associated with the New York Herald Tribune and was its last managing editor. He joined that newspaper in 1951 as Columbia College correspondent. Later he served, variously, as religion editor, political reporter and, from 1959 to 1963, as a foreign correspondent. His overseas assignments were with the London and Bonn bureaus.

Mr. Wald was born in New York City. He is a graduate of the city's Stuyvesant High School and of Columbia College (B. A. 1952). As the first Harry J. Carman Fellow at Columbia University, he majored in comparative literature, wrote a thesis on Franz Kafka, and was awarded an M. A. in 1953. He was a Kellett Fellow at Clare College, Cambridge, England, where he majored in English literature and history. He was awarded an A. B. from Clare College in 1955.

Mr. Wald lives in Larchmont, N. Y., with his wife, the former Edith Leslie of New York, and their three children: Matthew, Elizabeth and Jonathan.

Tax assessment dispute causes walkout at court

BENTON — An outburst during Thursday's Scott County Court meeting, caused County Assessor Bill Ferrell to walk out of the courtroom as a result of a disagreement with Sam Drusch of Cape Girardeau, an attorney for the Tanksley Trucking Co., over the 1974 tax assessment on the firm's equipment.

The trucking company is located on Nash Road two miles north of Scott City in the northern extremity of Scott County.

Ferrell, walked out after being interrupted twice by Drusch while explaining the problem he is having with the Tanksley assessment to members of the County Court.

At one point, when Ferrell placed his hand on the table to emphasize the point he was making, Drusch slammed his hand down on the table.

Ferrell said he wrote a letter to Drusch in February requesting a list of the equipmeht the Tanklsey firm owns. "In the letter I mentioned that I would be glad to discuss this matter with him," Ferrell said.

He said he received the material from Drusch in April. "I telephoned Drusch last Friday after I had examined the list and asked him if we could have a meeting to discuss this matter ... and he refused," Ferrell remarked.

Ferrell said the attorney told him the 1974 assessment for Tanksley was going to remain the same and if there was going to be any meeting, it would have to be in the presence of the County Court.

Drusch told the court members a different story.

During a telephone conversation, he said Ferrell told him he was the new assessor and that things were going to be done in a different way from now on.

Drusch also asked Presiding Judge Les Lankford if he remembered a telephone conversation a few weeks ago in which he said the assessment would remain the same as it had been for the past two years.

Lankford denied making the statement and said the court could not make a decision on the amount of taxes Tanksley would pay until the firm appeared before the Board of Equalization.

"It's up to Ferrell to place an assessment on the equipment. He may be new, but he is being fair and doing a good job," Lankford remarked.

Drusch said the Tanksley firm has received a fair break on taxes in the past. "The tractors have not been assessed ... only the trailers," he remarked.

If Ferrell adds the tractors to the assessment list, Drusch said, the firm will have to pay a lot more money.

"In the past the trucking company has only paid approximately $20,000 in taxes, but this could bring it up to at least $60,000," he said.

First District Associate Judge Eldon Ziegenhorn said that if the tractors were not on the books someone would have to assess them.

Ferrell said Drusch has never asked him how much the taxes for Tanksley would amount to. "I will treat Tanksley the same as any other business," he remarked.

"I intend to assess a farmer, private individual or business from the same schedule on their vehicles," Ferrell said.

In other business before the court, Oscar Woods, mayor of Haywood City, appeared before the court and asked if his town could receive assistance to build a new community building.

The court members told Woods to talk to Phil Shelton, director of the Bootheel Economic Development Council at Malden.

The court also announced that it has accepted a bid of $7,497 from Superior Business Machines of Sikeston for remodeling the circuit clerk's vault.

The court rejected a low bid of $3,661 from Elkins Swyers Co. of Springfield.

Lankford said the lower bid was not a complete bid. "The bid we accepted is for twice as much material and the work will last for approximately 50 years."

Unemployment rate drops for second straight month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate edged down from 5.1 per cent to 5 per cent of the work force in April, the government said today.

It was the second consecutive month that the unemployment rate had dropped.

Labor Department analysts considered the two-month decline significant but said it was too early to determine whether it was the beginning of a trend.

Unemployment jumped from a 3½-year low of 4.6 per cent in October to 5.2 per cent in January, reflecting the downturn in the economy and the spreading effects of the fuel shortage.

It remained 5.2 per cent in February before dipping to 5.1 per cent in March.

Despite the recent decline, the Nixon administration has said it expects some increases in the unemployment rate later this year, particularly during the summer as more teen-agers enter the work force.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, about 4.5 million Americans were without jobs in April. That was about 200,000 fewer than in January and February but still 430,000 higher than in October at the start of the oil embargo.

Total employment stood at 85.8 million last month, about the same as in March.

After rising rapidly during the previous two years, employment has shown very little growth since October, reflecting the lack of growth of jobs in the blue collar and service occupations, the government said.

There also has been little growth in the civilian labor force, which was seasonally adjusted 90.3 million persons in April, about the same as in March. The labor force includes both employed and unemployed persons.

The government said the recall of auto workers laid off during the Arab oil embargo helped manufacturing employment to rebound in April. The transportation equipment industry added 60,000 workers to its payrolls last month following three months of heavy job losses.

But in construction, there was a drop of 70,000 jobs.

The unemployment rate for adult men jumped sharply in April from 3 per cent to 3.6 per cent, while the rate for adult women remained at 4.9 per cent, about the level of the past four months.

A large number of teen-agers leaving the labor force in April prompted a decline in the jobless rate for youth, from 15 per cent to 13.8 per cent.

The jobless rates for household heads and married men, both of which had risen substantially since last fall, were mostly unchanged in April.

For Vietnam-era veterans, aged 20 to 34, the jobless rate held at 5.1 per cent last month, about the same as in the previous three months but sharply higher than the rate for the last quarter of 1973. For younger veterans, aged 20 to 24, the unemployment rate was 9.2 per cent.

The jobless rate for blacks dipped from 9.4 to 8.7 per cent in April, close to the average level for 1973. The rate for whites, 4.5 per cent, did not change during the month.

The average work week of production workers continued to decline in April, dropping by 12 minutes to 36.6 hours. Average overtime in manufacturing was off 48 minutes.

Average hourly earnings of production workers rose two-tenths of one per cent last month but the reduced work week caused average weekly earnings to drop by threetenths of one per cent.

Weekly earnings averaged $147.74 in April, a drop of 86 cents from March but were still $6.41 higher than a year ago.

Can rain be far behind?

Thursday's heavy cloud cover, seen here from South Frisco Street, looking north, may have been a forewarning of Bootheel weather today. Heavy thunderstorms and high winds ranged over Dunklin County this morning, and thundershowers were predicted for the Sikeston area by afternoon. An estimated 1,700 Boy and Girls Scouts should have sunny weather by Saturday for their respective weekend camporees near Malden and Oran.

Kennett pedestrian is 27th fatality

A Kennett pedestrian was killed and three persons were injured in three traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Thursday, according to a highway patrol spokesman who reported that the fatality was the 27th on Southeast Missouri roads this year, compared with 35 traffic deaths at the same time last year.

John L. Williams, 52, of Kennett Route One was killed at 8:45 p.m. on Route Z one and a half miles southeast of Kennett when he was struck by a 20-foot bedder attached to a farm tractor driven by Oliver Harrell, 62, of Kennett.

The patrol said Williams was standing on the shoulder on the west side of the road, about nine feet from the pavement, when he was struck by the machine being pulled by the tractor.

Williams' body was taken to McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

Lila Beeson, 49, of East Prairie was seriously injured in an accident at 12:25 p.m. about four miles east of Kewanee on Route P when her car struck the side of a road grader driven by George Baker, 63, of Risco as the grader was backing onto the road from a side road.

Mrs. Beeson was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

A one-vehicle accident at 10:50 p.m. on Highway 61 at the St. Francis River bridge at Fisk resulted in minor injuries to two persons.

Ricky Eugene Clark, 17, of Fisk received minor injuries when his westbound pickup truck struck the north bridge railing, knocking out about 65 feet of railing. The truck ran off the bridge into the river.

A passenger, Randy Clark, 16, of Fisk, also received minor injuries.

Both were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Vote on marshal set for June 4

LILBOURN-- The City Council Thursday night scheduled a special election on June 4 to elect a city marshal to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Roe.

Roe, who was elected to a two- year term April 2, has agreed to continue in the office until a new marshal is elected.

Candidates may file until noon May 24, according to Alderman Larry Joe Holtzhouser, acting city clerk.

In other business, the council agreed to provide matching funds up to the amount of $3,000, with the city park board paying the remainder for construction of a concrete, regulation size, double tennis court in the city park.

Bids are being accepted on construction of the court and all equipment.

Choral concert Sunday

The Sikeston High School concert choirs and Moderne Chorale will present their final public concert of the year Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the high school cafetorium. The concert will be a festival of popular music under the direction of Gordon Beaver, director of school choral activities.

Senior choir accompanists will be Lee Clayton, Melodie Powell and Marsha Entrekin. Junior accompanists will be Andrea Harber and Sandy Hei.

During the concert, Terry Teachout and Bryan Crites will provide string bass and percussion accompaniment for most of the numbers performed by both choirs and the chorale.

Solos will be sung by seniors Steve Skalsky and Marsha Cothern during the folk song, "Near in Mountains", by Abner Grender. Miss Cothern will also sing the solo "Swing Chariot", which will be presented by the Moderne Chorale.

Other instrumental accompaniment will be presented by Julie Masterson and John Leible during "And I Remember," which will be sung by Concert Choir VII.

Concert Choir VI will begin the concert with "The Wind Of Life," "Near In Mountains", "With Everything Changing", followed by a novelty, "In The Good Old Summertime", "Let It Be Me", "Happy Together" and will end with a spiritual, "Ride The Chariot".

Port authority bill could mean millions to Bootheel

A bill authorizing any county or city bordering the Mississippi River to form a port authority could mean millions of dollars to the Bootheel in terms of jobs and lower prices, according to State Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D- Cape Girardeau.

Spradling was a co-sponsor of the bill which is awaiting Gov. Christopher Bond's signature. The law would take effect Sept. 1.

Port authority bills have been introduced into the legislature in the past, but all have failed to pass. All bills in the past have been for the benefit of St. Louis, which has been reluctant to include the rest of the state in the bill, Spradling said.

"This bill goes farther than any other," he said, "in that it allows the Environmental Improvement Authority to issue revenue bonds to construct warehousing and port improvement."

The revenue to pay for the bonds would come from warehouse rental and dock fees, Spradling said.

The bill allows counties, cities or any combination of counties to form a port authority and apply for federal funding to dredge out a deep water port for year-around operation. The port authority must purchase the port land on its own, and then may apply for dredging.

Spradling said he has been told there is an excellent location for a deepwater port just south of Cape Girardeau, east of Interstate 55 near Cape Girardeau Municipal Airport.

He suggested that Cape Girardeau and Scott County might combine to form a joint port authority.

Spradling called the port authority bill the best thing Southeast Missouri has ever seen to help boost industry in the area.

The bill could create employment and lower prices, Spradling said. He pointed out that a barge can carry the equivalent of 250 to 300 railroad cars worth of goods and that barge shipping is the least expensive form of transportation.

Spradling said a tremendous amount of interest in the bill is being shown in New Madrid. However, Sam Hunter Jr., a member of the New Madrid Port Authority, said no definite plans have been made to utilize provisions of the bill.

Graham seeking prosecutor's post

Edward C. Graham

CHARLESTON-- Edward C. "Eddie" Graham, a Charleston attorney, announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the office of prosecuting attorney of Mississippi County in the Aug. 6 primary election.

Graham is presently engaged in the practice of law at 105 E. Court St. He was associated with the late Roderic R. Ashby in law practice until Ashby's death last December.

A 1964 graduate of Charleston High School, Graham received his bachelor's degree from Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., in 1968 and his juris doctorate (law) degree from University of Missouri- Columbia in 1971.

He was employed for two years on the legal staff of Kansas City Life Insurance Co. in Kansas City before returning to Charleston to practice law.

Graham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Graham of Charleston. He is 28 years old and he and his wife Dolores have two children- Shannon, 5, and Tiffany, 2. The Grahams live at 1410 Warde Road.

He is a member of the Kiwanis Club.

In announcing his candidacy, Graham issued the following statement:

"The prosecuting attorney represents the state and the people of this county in the courts against those who violate the laws of the state in this county. Besides being a competent lawyer, the prosecuting attorney should be a person who understands and can deal with the variety of people in the county.

"I believe I have these necessary qualities and if elected, pledge myself to be fair and to uphold the law to the best of my ability."

THE AMERICAN LEGION SPEAKS OUT

The perennial issue of the U. S. defense budget is heating up in Washington. One voice that we think should be heard from on the issue is that of the American Legion, a group that has represented American servicemen from World War I through the War in Vietnam.

In an interview with Philip C. Clarke of the American Security Council, broadcast recently on the Mutual Radio Network, the Legion's director of National Security and Foreign Relations, James Wilson, came down strongly on the side of a stronger U. S. defense effort.

"We saw what the price of unpreparedness was," said Wilson. "It was paid for by the blood, sweat, and tears in World War I and later. We saw this same lesson repeated after World War I, after World War II, after Korea, and now we're seeing it happen again after Vietnam. Now, why the people that advocate unilateral disarmament gain such an upper hand, I have no way of knowing."

Wilson continued: "We must maintain a viable negotiating position, militarily from which we can seek the grounds for a continuing and lasting peace with the Soviet Union, which is the principal protaganist in the international community. We know, and we hope the general public knows, that the Soviet Union, despite SALT I, has continued to develop new weapons systems in practically every area, both strategic and the conventional systems.

"The United States must at least keep within reasonable distance. We, as an organization, would urge military superiority."

We find the American Legion's position persuasive. History teaches sorry lessons about the awful price of being militarily unprepared. The United States will indeed be treading on dangerous soil if we don't, in Wilson's words, keep within "reasonable distance" of the Soviet Union.

THE SILENT 50 PER CENT?

One journalist seems to have hit the "Watergate" nail squarely on the head.

A certain number of Americans — perhaps 25 per cent — will not believe anything bad about the President, notes Cleveland Press columnist Julian Krawcheck.

On the other hand, another 25 per cent will not believe anything good about him.

Thus the only reason for pursuing the various investigations of the President's conduct in office and his personal finances is to compile overwhelming evidence, for or against Mr. Nixon, that might convince the 50 per cent of Americans who are still open to persuasion.

BUGGING SHOWROOMS

WASHINGTON-- It was reported in the press that certain car dealers have been bugging their automobile showrooms so that they can hear what people are saying when they're out of earshot of the salesman. This, of course, makes it easier for the salesman to know what the prospective buyers are thinking, and therefore he can make a better pitch to sell a car.

Let's go into one of these showrooms. The couple has been looking at the cars on the floor alone for about 20 minutes. The salesman comes out of the back office and says:

'Well, Fanny, how do you like our new Mark II Panda?"

The woman looks startled. "How did you know my name was Fanny?"

The salesman gulps. "Your husband McKinley told me."

The husband says, "I never told you her name was Fanny. And how did you know my first name was McKinley?"

The salesman says, "Well, honestly, I didn't know, but I took a wild guess. You (ital) look (unital) like a Fanny and a McKinley. Now let's talk about the car. You're in the market for a hardtop in maroon with brown leather seats."

Fanny and McKinley look at each other in astonishment.

"We are looking for that color," Fanny says. "You must be a mind reader."

"After you've been in this business as long as I have, you get to know that certain people like certain colors. Now we do have a four- door Panda in Maroon with bucket seats. I'm sorry it doesn't come with a stick shift, McKinley, but you know Fanny doesn't like a stick shift, and I think you should bow to her wishes."

"I know Fanny doesn't like a stick shift and she knows she doesn't like a stick shift, but how the hell do you know she doesn't like a stick shift?"

The salesman laughs nervously. "By the way she's carrying her handbag."

'Let's get out of here," Fanny says to McKinley.

"Wait," the salesman says. "I want to be very honest with you. You two don't think you can afford a Panda, what with the orthodontist's bill for Nicky's teeth, and your daughter Frieda going off to Oberlin next fall, and Fanny's mother having to have that operation. Well, let me tell you. With a trade- in on your 1969 Ford Mustang, the Panda will still cost you less than $5,000."

McKinley asks the salesman, "Has someone told you about us?"

"Of course not. You're perfect strangers. This is the first time I've seen you. Show me a Fanny and a McKinley who don't have a son named Nicky and a daughter named Frieda going to Oberlin in the fall!"

McKinley asks, "Can I talk to my wife alone?"

"Of course," the salesman replies and retires to the back office.

"This is a real weird place, Fanny. He knows more about us than our next- door neighbors do."

'I know," Fanny whispers. "Let's tell him we'll think it over and be back next Tuesday."

The salesman rushes out of the back office and yells, "Could you make it Wednesday? I don't work on Tuesday, and I'd hate to lose the sale."

"I Cannot Tell a Lie — I Didn't Do It!"

POPULAR WITH AVERAGE INCOME PERSON

Legislation that would reduce the Social Security rate from 5.85% to 3.9% has been introduced by Congressman Hungate. It would save the average working family making $9,000 a year around $175 annually in Social Security taxes, without any reduction in benefits.

To offset the loss from lowering the rate, Hungate would raise the ceiling on earnings subject to the tax from $13,200 to $25,000. The plan would also divide the Social Security tax three ways - between the employer, the employee and the federal government.

Thus, the lower income millions would benefit, while those most able to do so, would pay.

It sounds fine to Monroe Countians.

SOME FAVOR

The President has graciously offered to campaign for any Republican candidate for Congress who will ask him. Who will be the first one to call for help? From what we read, most Republicans consider him a liability and while maybe he didn't defeat that man in Michigan by personally going there to help him, the record he has in Washington has put a burden on all Republican candidates which a lot of them do not deserve. Read the "50 Years Ago" part of "Files from the Past," last week, where our illustrious predecessor, the late W. O. L. Jewett said, "President Harding certainly chose the worst cabinet of any chief magistrate in our history. Fall, a bribe taker, according to the evidence; Denby, at best, incompetent and a violator of the law; Daugherty, to whom the evidence points as not only a breaker of moral and human laws, but also a grafter." That was half a century ago. President Harding died and many writers say he committed suicide. We don't want any more Presidents to do that, but when conditions get as they are at the head of our government, we'd like to see a resignation before any more scandal weakens our relationship with other nations.

ST. LOUIS ONLY ONE AGIN' IT

Hearings by the Missouri State Highway Commission on the proposed Interstate across North Missouri have been held at Hannibal, Macon, Independence and Quincy.

Without exception the large numbers of delegations that attended wanted the road, their only difference of opinions being in just where it shall be located. That's natural, as most everyone wants a new highway to run at their door.

But, also without exception, all of these delegations want that highway across the area, regardless of where it is finally located.

The St. Louis county group is the only standout opposing it. Apparently, as one news commentator said last week, St. Louis doesn't want any highways built unless they detour and come through St. Louis.

With Interstate 80 far to the north of this section, in Iowa, and Interstate 70 far to the south, it is the widest stretch of prosperous country in the nation that does not have an east-west Interstate.

One look at the highway map of the nation is enough to convince anyone that here is one of the most needed travel arteries in our country, and one that will undoubtedly aid in building this area and in saving millions of dollars and millions of gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel.

Let's hurry it along.

HOW TO REDUCT TAXES? CUT OUT GOVERNMENT WASTE

While April 15 has just passed, we believe a lot of tax-conscious Americans now share a vagrant thought; What if I had in hand all that money taxes take from my pocket each year?

Furthermore, this is an election year when many candidates for Congress especially, will be asking for our votes so we in turn should ask them to take a stand on a tax cut.

If the average worker had only the amounts withheld for his or her Federal taxes in the last 10 years, that taxpayer might well be tempted to take a year off. Because over the past decade Federal withholding taxes alone add up to more than a year's pay for a typical employe.

For example, take a family of four with one breadwinner who had the median family income -- estimated at $11,894 in 1973 -- and also a median income in the previous nine years. Federal income and Social Security taxes for that family in the 1964- 1973 period total $12,395, or $501 more than the worker earned last year.

In addition to those direct Federal taxes, the same family has probably paid almost as much in other Federal taxes. There are other obvious Federal taxes like those on gasoline and telephone bills, and then there are hidden taxes, the taxes collected from business but actually paid, at least in part, by consumers. The share of the Social Security tax paid by employers and corporation income taxes, for example, fall in the category of hidden taxes.

The Tax Foundation calculates that all Federal taxes will take about 22 per cent of the average family income this year. At the same time, state and local taxes, although they vary widely across the nation and among families, will take an average of another 11 per cent of the family income, a total tax bite of 33 per cent.

The figures below show how Federal withholding taxes alone have taken more than a year's pay from the median income family in the last 10 years:

Year 1964 — Median Income was $6,569, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $766. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $5,803.

1965 — Median Income was $6,957, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $770. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $6,187.

1966 — Median Income was $7,500, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $963. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $6,537.

1967 — Median Income was $7,974, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $1,058. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $6,916.

1968 — Median Income was $8,632, Direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $1,289. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $7,343.

1969 — Median Income was $9,433, Direct Federal Taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,493. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $7,940.

1970 — Median Income was $9,867, Direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,473. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $8,394.

1971 — Median Income was $10,285, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,353. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $8,932.

1972 — Median Income was $11,116, direct federal taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.) $1,473. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $9,643.

1973 — Median Income was $11,894 est. Direct Fed. Taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $1,757. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $10,137.

1964-1973 — Median Income was $90,227. Direct Fed. Taxes (Inc. & Soc. Sec.), $12,395. Inc. After Direct Fed. Taxes: $77,832.

REPLACING NATURE'S VIOLENCE

A mere choice of words can sometimes influence the resolution of highly important issues. A brief pamphlet published by the National Forest Products Association shows how the word "clearcutting" has had an incalculable impact on the important issue of national forest management policy.

As the pamphlet points out, "clearcutting" is a forest management practice that has quite an opposite effect from what many people believe. The practice could more accurately be termed "even-aged management" or "regeneration cut". For clearcutting is essential to the perpetuation of some of the nation's most important shade intolerant tree species such as Douglas fir, lodgepole pine, Southern pine and many hardwoods. Long before man began harvesting trees, nature practiced the most ruthless forms of clearcutting – windstorms, fires and other natural catastrophes. Had it not done so, there would have been no room for the birth of new forests. Well-managed clearcutting simply assures that there will be a continuing rotation of prime forest crops. Clearcutting, as practiced by man, preserves these resources and protects the environment. The pamphlet points out: "... the by-products of nature's 'clearcutting' had neither economic nor environmental value, and in many cases proved catastrophic. For example, a natural 'clearcut' created by the Peshtigo forest fire a century ago in Wisconsin killed some 1,500 people, consumed a town, and destroyed 1,278,000 acres of timber."

Clearcutting as practiced by today's forest industry, speeds the regeneration process and protects resources and wildlife at the same time. It is ironic that many environmentalists misunderstand the meaning of the word.

REBUTTING JOURNALIST "ADVOCATES"

Only a decade or two ago all cities and most large towns had at least two competing newspapers. During the rapid growth of this nation, especially the last half of the nineteenth century and the first half of the twenteith, almost anybody could start a newspaper with a minimum of capital. Irresponsible newspapers faded and folded under those conditions, while those with the greatest integrity prospered. A few "yellow journals" thrived on scandal, crime and sex, but they were recognized for what they were and had no influence on public policy.

So- called "advocacy journalism" has come to the fore during the past decade and some newspapers, especially some formerly of high repute which have turned liberal, have managed to slip into some of the same type of irresponsibility exemplified by the old "yellow journals." No charge seems too irresponsible or far- fetched to receive front-page headlines, especially a charge against a constructive person or business.

Once upon a time editors had to be more careful about false charges. Libel suits made such charges very expensive for editors, not to mention the tendency for men to take such things more personally in those days and come looking for the editor with a horsewhip or a gun. This has changed.

The U. S. Supreme Court is now considering a case in which the Florida Supreme Court upheld a 1913 law requiring newspapers to give equal space to replies from persons attacked. Sen. John McClellan (D- Ark) has said that if it is upheld, a national law along the same lines might be considered. Such a law, requiring equal space and placement for replies, might slow down the worst cases of irresponsible journalism which can destroy a person's reputation no matter how innocent he may be. HLH

Angela Davis Stars: UN Soviet- Bloc Ambassadors Rip U. S. At Huge Communist 'Friendship' Gala in New York

NEW YORK– It might have been the grand hall of the Kremlin. It wasn't. It was the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria at a mammoth "friendship" luncheon the other Sunday. United Nations Communist ambassadors, just a few streets from their posh apartments ($1,000 to $1,500 a month maintenance), members of the Communist Party USA Central Committee, the UN mission chief from non- recognized Cuba and envoys from Mongolian People's Republic, East Germany, and other Soviet satellite "nations" had a ball ripping "imperialist" U. S. to shreds.

This was their entente cordiale-- their concept of world fraternity and "peace."

Joining them-- amid the cheers of some 1,200 lunchers-- were some American labor leaders, one of whom sat on the dais with some of the most brutal assailants of world freedom and democratic trade unions.

Not the least of the heroines of Communist peace present was Angela Davis-- now a member of the American Communist Party Central Committee. She berated the U. S., criticized (to put it mildly) internal American politics, charged political oppression inside the U. S. A., described the Wounded Knee affair as though it were the equivalent of Nazi gas chambers; said something incomprehensible about government error in North Carolina, and praised the Communist world for backing her during her California trial on gun- running charges. (She was acquitted.)

Then she ripped the American press for praising that "czarist" Alexander Solzhenitsyn. Why, she asked, has the press ignored what happened in Chile and "the intensified political repression in the U. S." Cheers. Lots of cheers.

On the dais with her and such Communist ambassadors as the Soviet UN chief, Yakov Malik, ambassador from the Mongolian People's Republic, Tsevegzhavyn Puntsagnorov, and Henry Winston, Communist Party (USA) national chairman was none other than Amalgamated Meat Cutters union international vice president Abe Feinglass. His praise of the Soviet Union and the assembled friends of peace was given an ovation. More cheers when he quoted his national union secretary-treasurer Pat Gorman.

Also adding just the right touch for the overflow crowd was the German Democratic Republic's (GDR, meaning East Germany) UN Ambassador Peter Florin. Coming out from behind the Berlin wall for the first time, he lashed at the U. S. and somehow forgot to mention that Simon Wiesenthal, director of the Documentary Center in Vienna, has a long list of ex- Nazi officials now holding important posts in the GDR government. Also that the GDR has refused to cooperate with free nations in turning these Hitlerites over for war crime trials. But Herr Florin was cheered, indeed.

The piece de resistance, however, was Cuba's UN Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon de Quesada who equates Castro's beard with Marx's. Senor Alarcon, who has no rights in the U. S. outside the United Nations, really got to the crowd. He spoke glowingly of the Soviet Union and how it saved the Communist island from "the war plans of U. S. imperialism." There's a friendship note for you.

Said the Cuban: Tovarich Malik has been the only voice of peace and progress in the UN. He made no mention of the $2 million ransom still held by Castro, paid by Southern Airlines in cash for one of its planes hijacked by three gunmen in Birmingham (Ala.), November 1972.

Officially this friendship gathering was sponsored by the New World Review and "a committee of trade unionists." Apparently the sponsors overlooked American press freedom. They were mighty selective. They told American newsmen to stay out and admitted Communist "journalists."

Obviously this gathering of the clan is prelude to a series of rallies. For what purpose, we'll know soon enough. But I do believe nothing happens without Soviet approval. There is the statement by FBI director Clarence Kelley that "leaders of the (U. S. Communist) party frequently confer with Soviet leaders to receive policy guidance."

Further, Director Kelley, as objective a counterintelligence chief as one can find, says, "On Feb. 1, 1974, there were 943 Soviet officials assigned in the U. S., 142 more than a year earlier and over 240 more than four years ago.

"We have identified a substantial proportion of the 943 as being intelligence operatives... Intelligence assignments are also carried out by Soviet nationals assigned to the U. S. as newsmen, participants in exchange programs, commercial representatives, employes of the UN and others."

Now there's friendship for you.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Prelude To Watergate

WASHINGTON– While the big guns concentrate their fire on the Watergate coverup, a House subcommittee is quietly looking into the earlier ITT coverup. For the Watergate crimes were but an elaboration of the basic approach used during the ITT preliminaries.

Ex- White House counsel John Dean was the stage manager for the ITT coverup, just as he was for the later Watergate coverup. Last year, he was called behind closed doors to testify about his ITT role.

We have now obtained a transcript of his secret testimony. He calmly related to the Special Subcommittee on Investigations how his office had collected for safekeeping all White House documents dealing with ITT.

"One of the things they had done was collect-- I didn't do it personally, another member of my staff did-- all the documents in the White House, any documents dealing with ITT," testified Dean.

"To the best of my recollection and knowledge," he added, "those documents are still in a file in my former office. There were sensitive documents among those..."

"What kind of politically sensitive documents are you referring to?" asked chief counsel Daniel Manelli.

"Just names of individuals at the White House having correspondence with various people at ITT," replied Dean. "I can't specifically tell you of any one document right now, but I can recall during the hearings the man in the office who did collect them, Fred Fielding, saying, 'Boy, you ought to see the one we caught today,' and him relating what it was."

Not until long after the Senate ITT hearings had ended did we learn that suppressed documents linked former Vice President Spiro Agnew, Treasury Secretary John Connally, Attorney General John Mitchell and even President Nixon himself to the controversial ITT settlement.

Manelli questioned Dean about this. "There was a column by Jack Anderson some time back saying...Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Connally and, I believe, Vice President Agnew were involved in the politically sensitive files. Does that at all refresh your recollection?" asked Manelli.

"It doesn't," said Dean who was unable to recall any specific documents.

In dozens of particulars-- from the shredding of incriminating documents to the perjured testimony-- the tactics used by the White House crowd to wriggle out of Watergate had been fully rehearsed during the ITT siege.

This is significant, for it shows that the conduct of the presidency in Watergate was not the spontaneous, makeshift reaction of otherwise honorable men trapped in a dilemma, but rather a standard operating procedure developed and used with growing success until cautious confidence became heedless arrogance.

Even the cast of characters was the same: John Dean, Charles Colson, E. Howard Hunt, G. Gordon Liddy and James McCord, not to mention other faceless White House aides. Dean directed the ITT coverup, taking his instructions from H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, who remained behind the White House scenes.

The dirty work was left to Liddy and Hunt. According to the sworn testimony, Liddy spirited ITT star witness Dita Beard out of Washington before she could be subpoeaned to testify. When the FBI located her in Denver, Hunt rushed off to the Rockies to tell her what to say. He wore a preposterous CIA wig as a disguise.

Rep. Jake Pickle, D- Tex., tried to question Dean about this. "I have a copy of...a UPI story, which reported that you were responsible for sending Mr. E. Howard Hunt to Denver to meet with Dita Beard," recounted Pickle. "It was suggested that the purpose of this trip was to develop a second Dita Beard memo which would contradict the memo published by Jack Anderson..."

"I can tell you that statement of my sending Howard Hunt to see Dita Beard is totally inaccurate," said Dean.

"Did you send Mr. Liddy?" asked Pickle.

"Nobody," said Dean.

"Do you know whether anyone was sent to Denver?"

"Yes, I do," Dean replied. But he refused to testify about the incident, because it might jeopardize his legal rights before the grand jury.

Chairman Harley Staggers, D- W. Va., extracted testimony from Dean that former SEC Chairman William Casey had kept politically sensitive ITT documents away from the subcommittee by delivering them to the Justice Department.

"Did Mr. Casey suggest to you that the documents should be kept away from the subcommittee until after the election?" demanded Staggers.

"That was the general gist...," acknowledged Dean. "That was the way it came up, if they go to a committee of Congress, it is likely they will go into the public domain from there."

"Then, you gathered, they should be kept away from us until after the election?" asked Staggers.

"That is correct...," agreed Dean.

"Whose idea was it," pressed Staggers, "that these files should be sent over to the Justice Department?"

"I believe it was Mr. Casey who came to me...," Dean testified.

Other sworn testimony also identified Casey as the official whose backstage maneuvering kept the enlightening ITT documents out of congressional hands. Subsequently, Casey was rewarded with a promotion to be undersecretary of state.

Probation revoked after violation

KENNETT— Judge Leon McAnally revoked the probation of Charles Eric Perkins of Malden in Magistrate Court this week, after the defendant admitted to violating special terms of the probationary period handed him on May 11, 1973. He had been placed on probation for a year on a charge of receiving stolen property valued at under $50.

Perkins was sentenced to nine months in the county jail.

Ann Landers

God has purpose for all things

Dear Ann Landers: My brother, age 21, was murdered three months ago. It is very hard to accept death, especially when it happens to a young and beautiful person. But if death comes as the result of an illness or an accident, one can say to himself, "It was God's will. He had a reason." But death by murder? How can a person accept such a horrible thing?

I know I am not alone. This sort of tragedy has occurred in many other families. Every time you pick up a newspaper you read of a murder someplace. But until it happens to one of your own, you can't imagine what it means.

I have talked to our minister. He has done his best to comfort me, but he has no answers. I am no closer to acceptance now than I was the night that terrible thing happened. Can you say something to help me?-- Still Mourning

Dear Friend: There are many questions for which there are no answers, only more questions, such as "Why him? Why would a good God allow such a thing to happen?" The list is long and I'm sure you know the questions better than I.

You must accept death when it comes to a loved one, no matter how. Why? Because you have no choice. You must believe that God in His infinite wisdom had a reason-- not known to you now, but it is there.

Your brother would be very unhappy if he knew how tortured you are. For his sake you must get over your grief. I suggest therapy for a few months. Good talking sessions on a regular basis can be immensely helpful. Please go.

Dear Ann Landers: I gotcha this time. I've been waiting for you to give some wrong advice and you did it. I refer to your counsel to the secretary who had to buy a birthday gift in a hurry. She stopped in a drugstore and purchased a bottle of bubble bath. They didn't gift- wrap, and the sack looked awful, so she threw it away and brought the bottle "naked."

You said it was a pretty tacky way to present a gift but it was no crime. Then you added, "Had you gone to the party naked you could have been arrested for indecent exposure, but this is no big deal, forget it."

Apparently, Ann Landers, you haven't been to any parties in Sausalito lately, or Palm Beach. Midnight swims, (skinny- dipping of course, sometimes coeducational) are not uncommon. And sometimes the guests "forget" to put on their clothes. This is not considered illegal, dear. Nobody can get arrested for what goes on in the privacy of their homes. So, eat your words, baby.-- Last Laugh

Dear Last: Sorry, the words are still on the plate. . .for YOU to eat. You can get arrested for having a quiet little poker game fully clothed in certain cities where gambling is illegal. I am not saying I support such interference by the gendarmes, but it's the law nevertheless. A person might take off his clothes at a party and NOT get arrested in some cities, but I know of no city where you can GO to a party naked. Nudity in public is illegal in every city of the U. S.

Dear Ann: My husband's parents live near us and they resent it because my front door isn't open for them. Sometimes they come over twice a day. My husband says they are right. Are they?-- Just Me

Dear You: Anyone who leaves a front door open today is lucky if he gets nothing worse than pesky in- laws. Keep all doors locked, woman, and don't open up unless you know who's on the other side.

Book deals with early Missouri river towns

PORTAGEVILLE — New books at New Madrid County Library include "The Missouri River".

"The Missouri River" is a compendium of true stories and tall tales of steamboat captains, river ruffians, shady ladies, dreamers, slaves and fortune hunters. Thee 96-page hardbound volume tells how river towns and landmarks got their names — how Whirling Jones Bend memorializes the boatman who swore with dying breath to roll over in his grave if his widow should be untrue.

It is a story of upstart towns that grabbed for greatness and died forgotten, of railroads snaking along the valley, of leviathan catfish nudging islands upstream, of steamboat boiler explosions that catapulted corpses like cordwood and made kindling of the floating palaces.

One hears about the unlucky young L'Abaddie, who watched his father follow a wounded bear into a cave — and waited and waited and waited; of Ben Halladay, who financed the Pony Express — selling dollar- a- barrel whisky for a dollar a shot to thirsty rivermen; of the frontier magistrate who grabbed lawbook and gavel and dived out the courtroom window when the donnybrook began.

They're all accounted for — in Arrow Rock, Gasconade, Lupus, Malta Bend, Rocheport, White Cloud and Chamois — the pioneers, both saints and scoundrels, along the wide, wild Missouri.

Psychic space explained

By SHAREN K. HUNT
Area Home Economist

BENTON — Out of psychic space? This is when you feel like all the "should's" and "have to's" are closing in on you and you get angry or upset at yourself and others involved.

At this stage, most people react by fighting or running, neither creative nor helpful. An example of fighting would be if you snap back at others or say you can't do their errand.

You know though, we're less likely to snap at neighbors because we usually express our feeling more freely to our families than to friends. When you fight and snap back, you lessen the other's psychic space and thus magnify both of your problems.

The running reaction is when you go ahead and do errand or favor, while wishing all the time you had said no. This puts you in a bad mood, then you take it out on someone else. Keeping it bottled up makes you nervous, irritable, and resentful.

Both responses are less than desirable, because you're not facing the problem or even looking for alternative solutions. Relax and think through problems in the proper perspective. Maybe you don't have to do everything before your meeting, and maybe you should say no occasionally.

Observe before you speak (or as my father often said, "Put brain in gear before operating mouth."). This will probably give you a clue from the tone of voice and non- verbal behavior just how important this errand is to them. You can then decide whether or not you dare suggest someone else or another possibility.

Either way you show concern for the other without ignoring your own personal feelings.

One way of reducing a person's Psychic Space, and thus your own, is letting him feel he's no good or inadequate. This can be via criticism, sarcasm, or ignoring. Piling on more work than they can possibly do also reduces psychic space.

Organizing your activities and counting your blessings can help gain you more psychic space. Take an objective look at yourself and what you're accomplishing. If you feel snowed by too many clubs and services and errands,drop those that mean little or make you feel exploited.

Realizing that all people behave according to how much psychic space they already have and/or how much space they're given can help us to recognize, analyze, and solve problems that seem to trap us into fight or run circle.

Of course, we can't always control things so we won't ever be out of psychic space. But we may be able to relieve a situation by giving the other fellow more psychic space.

When you get out of psychic space, you get uptight and that's a contagious ailment.

We can prove this has been done. A sales background and Highschool or better is desirable but certainly not essential. We have successful men who have attended college, but most are only highschool graduates. We have successful men under 25 years of age. Others are Grandfathers. We have no particular requirements. We are looking for honest, hardworking men (and possibly women) who meet people well and will work hard and follow our proven sales procedure exactly.

Take a few minutes to investigate this satisfying and rewarding career. Call 314- 748-2537 on Friday between 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. or Saturday morning between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon. Ask for Mr. Rhodes.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean and grain futures prices were relatively strong in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, soybeans were 1½ to 7½ cents a bushel higher, May 5.55; Chicago wheat was unchanged to 3 higher, May 3.72; Gulf hard red did not trade; corn was unchanged to 2¼ higher, May 2.72 and oats were ½ to 1 higher, May .27.

Greek and Roman doctors often persuaded their patients to drink bitter prescriptions by smearing the rims of cups with honey, a practice that persists today in sugar-coated pills.

Miner church to host missionaries

The Rev. and Mrs. Carl Etheridge, missionaries to Central America, will be at Miner Baptist Church, Route H at Highway 62 East, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. for a special Bible conference on prophecy.

The Rev. Mr. Etheridge is founder and director of the Nicaraguan Bible Institute in the capital city of Managua. In 1972 when the earthquake destroyed Managua, his school was not touched or damaged at all. One of his messages on prophecy concerns the earthquakes of the Bible.

As a result of the mission and school work of the Etheridges, many new churches have been established throughout Central America and Mexico.

The Rev. Mr. Etheridge began preaching at age 14. He attended Oklahoma Baptist University at Shawnee, Okla., and Dallas (Tex.) Theological Seminary before going to Central America as a missionary.

Rev. and Mrs. Etheridge

He has established churches in Honduras, Panama and Nicaragua, in addition to the Bible institute in Nicaragua.

He is a brother of the Miner Baptist pastor, the Rev. Grady Etheridge.

Miller named courier

BOLIVAR---- Beatty Miller, a member of First Baptist Church in Sikeston, has been appointed a courier for Southwest Baptist College.

As courier, Miller will serve as a public relations contact for the college in his church. The courier will also have information about SWBC for any person who may wish to know more about the school.

SWBC trustees have also made available several scholarships to be awarded through the couriers program. Applications for the scholarships may be obtained from Miller.

Southwest Baptist is a four- year liberal arts college with 16 major fields, and is fully accredited by the North Central Accrediting Association.

Teen group featured in rally

CANALOU-- A Teen Challenge Rally Sunday at the Canalou Assembly of God Church Sunday will feature the New Creations, the official choir at Mid-America Teen Challenge Training Center in Cape Girardeau, at morning and afternoon services.

The New Creations will sing under the direction of the Rev. Philip Breithaupt, regional representative of Mid- America Teen Challenge, and will share in music and testimony how members of the choir have found physical and mental cure from drug addiction through a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

The morning services will begin at 10 o'clock and the afternoon service at 1:30, according to the Rev. T. G. Perry, pastor, who said other singing groups also will participate in the afternoon program.

Gospel singing program slated

ESSEX-- Castor River General Baptist Church, formerly known as Original Clines Island General Baptist Church, will host a first Saturday night gospel singing program at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

All- day services are scheduled Sunday, featuring dinner at the church and a footwashing service in the afternoon, according to the Rev. Henry Smith, pastor.

Son of Malden woman ordained

MEMPHIS, Tenn.— Gordon Matlock was ordained as deacon Sunday evening at Hickory Hills Baptist Church in Memphis.

The Rev. Sisney Waits, pastor, preached the ordination sermon, "The High Cost of Being a Deacon." Haskell Luke, chairman of deacons, presented each candidate an ordination certificate and a book. Weldon Fortner prayed the ordination prayer.

Matlock, the son of Mrs. Vera Matlock of Malden, Mo., is married to the former Martha Fortner, who teaches in Whitehaven Baptist School.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Fortner and Mrs. Matlock were guests at the service.

The Lord has sworn by the pride of Jacob: "Surely I will never forget any of their deeds." — Amos 8:7.

We may elevate ourselves but we should never reach so high that we would ever forget those who helped us get there. — Will Rogers, American humorist.

McDonoughs lead new congregation

After pastoring the First Assembly of God Church in Sikeston for 8 1/2 years, the Rev. and Mrs. T. A. McDonough have assumed the pastoral duties of a recently formed charismatic congregation to be known as Calvary Assembly Of God.

The district executive committee of the Southern Missouri District Council of the Assemblies of God has granted recognition to the new church, which is meeting temporarily in a building owned and formerly occupied by First Church of the Nazarene at the corner of Scott and Trotter streets in Sikeston.

The schedule of services includes: Sunday School at 9:30 a.m.; morning worship service, 10:30 a.m.; Christ's Ambassadors (youth), 6 p.m.; Sunday night service, 7; and midweek service on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Free transportation to the services is provided for those who will phone the church office 471- 7590, or the pastor's home, 471- 4595.

The Rev. Mr. McDonough said the goal of this church is to reach and win to the Lord Jesus Christ all people who do not now attend church and Sunday school.

Rev. and Mrs. McDonough

"Calvary Assembly of God, Sikeston's newest charismatic congregation, is happy to join the other many fine churches to make Sikeston a better place to live, work and raise our families," he added.

Seminary appointments postponed indefinitely

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lutheran seminary students were not notified of ministerial appointments Wednesday as the traditional "Call Day" ceremonies were indefinitely postponed by the District Council of Presidents of the Lutheran Church -Missouri Synod.

"Call Day," traditionally May 1, is the day in which graduating seminary students are notified of their "calls" or appointments to be ministers at particular churches. Twenty seven students are graduating from the Concordia Seminary here, and another 60 have finished work at Concordia in Springfield, Ill.

The Council of Presidents has been meeting here to determine whether or not students from the so-called "Seminary in Exile (Seminex) should be given posts within the three million member church.

Seminex was established at two St. Louis area religious schools by dissident student and faculty members who walked off the Concordia campus here after the suspension of Rev. John Tietjen, Concordia president.

About 125 Seminex students are scheduled to graduate.

A synod spokesman said no new date has been set for "Call Day."

First Assembly groups earn district honors

At the 60th Southern Missouri District Council of the Assemblies of God in Springfield last week, the Sikeston First Assembly of God Church received many honors.

The Christ Ambassadors received an engraved plaque from the national Christ Ambassador Department for giving over $4,000 to Speed-the- Light, the youth missionary program in 1973. This was first place in the Southern Missouri District, comprised of more than 400 churches.

The Women's Missionary Council received a first place plaque for giving items valued at over $6,000 to the Treasure Chest. The items are for missionaries and needy organizations. They group placed third in total cash offerings for campground needs.

The Boys and Girls Missionary Crusade also received an honor plaque for their giving to help the missionaries in the Far East. This is the missionary program for children in the nursery through junior departments of the Sunday School.

Debbie Hunt, representing Sikeston First Assembly and also the Cape Girardeau section, competed in the Teen Talent Contest on Tuesday. She played "The Holy City" on her violin and was accompanied by Mrs. Brenda Ballard on the piano. She also had the honor of singing with a teen choir and the national revivaltime choir Tuesday night.

Mrs. Milton Bixler represented First Assembly as a voting delegate during the business sessions on Wednesday and Thursday.

Others from First Assembly attending the Council were Mr. Opal Newman, Mrs. June Hunt, Mrs. Geneva Page and Brenda Hunt.

Risco church plans VBS

RISCO— Pleasant View General Baptist Church will conduct its annual Vacation Bible School May 13- 24 with family sessions from 7 to 9 p.m. each Monday through Friday evening.

Classes are planned for all ages, nursery through youth, with a new class formed this year for adult Bible study.

Enrollment will be held at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at the church. or by phoning 396- 5878.

Singing event set Saturday

A gospel singing program Saturday at the Pentecostal Holiness Church, 328 W. North St., will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will feature the Souls Crusaders of Cape Girardeau, according to the Rev. Freeman Parker, pastor.

Bible reading record claimed

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)— A group of Kansas youths claim a new record for reading the Bible from cover to cover.

The 20 young people, members of Fairlawn Church of the Nazarene, began reading the Bible aloud at 10 a.m. last Friday and concluded the reading at 12:40 p.m. Sunday, a total of 50 hours and 40 minutes.

The youths claim their time beats the previous record set by a church in Pennsylvania last year by about eight hours.

Church parking intruders beware

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP)— If you're going to use the Southside Christian Church's parking lot you'd better be prepared to join the congregation.

A sign posted recently on the lot reads, "Church parking lot. No parking without permission. Violators will be immersed."

The church's baptismal practice includes immersion.

Church split lands in court

ESSEX— A dispute between two groups of one church organization in Stoddard County has developed into a Circuit Court case, with one group charging that the other has caused "malicious damages" to the initial congregation.

The case evolves around the "Cline's Island General Baptist Church", which is located on Route AB approximately one- half mile east of the Castor River bridge on Essex Route Two and has been in existence since 1924.

The controversy began in June of last year when the pastor of the church, the Rev. Ronnie Ledbetter, wrote a letter to New Liberty State Association, in which the church had been a member for several years, informing the association that a quorum of members voted, by a majority affirmative vote (34 to 7 or 82 per cent), for Cline's Island General Baptist Church to discontinue association with New Liberty State Association of General Baptists.

Following the notice of this letter on June 9, 1973, several members of the church, now defendents in the case, found themselves in disagreement with the church's action and declared their intentions to function as the "Minority Group of the Cline's Island General Baptist Church." The same group declared that they retain their membership in the association by reporting to it by letter and delegates, as usual. The minority group decided to meet regularly in the homes of members for the purpose of maintaining their identity.

Now, the minority group occupies a church building which was moved onto a vacant lot about one mile west of the original church (which is still used by original church members and remains under the pastorship of the Rev. Mr. Ledbetter).

The defendants in the case (the minority group) claim ownership of the building in which they now hold services and activities.

It has been almost a year since the split and much confusion and more controversy has developed between the two groups.

In the formal petition for injunction, the plantiff, Cline's Island General Baptist Church, Inc., places numerous charges on the minority group, which, in the petition, is comprised of E. E. McGarity, Robert Lizenbee, Marvin Wyman, Willis H. Worth, Ilene E. Worth, Jesse Neal, Ira Avery Jr., Mable Neal, Sandra Wyman, Barbara McGarity, Mae Lizenbee, Ralph McGarity, Marceda Wyman, Elizabeth Payne, Nancy Menley, Madge Eaton, Fred Eaton, Ruth Avery, Etta Wyman, Farrell Menley, Jean Avery, Imogene Chism, Michael B. Avery, Ed McGarity and Randy McGarity.

The use of the original church name by the minority group is said to be "misleading and confusing, having caused permanent damage to the plaintiff."

The original group claims that church mail is "constantly mixed up", that their bank account is being charged with debts of the minority group, that the Stoddard County records office is experiencing much confusion as to real estate records, and that at one time when a fire broke out at the original church, there was confusion as to where the fire department should report.

It has been charged that the public has been repeatedly confused by announcements and advertisements regarding the church activities and that the minority's use of the original name has caused a "marked decrease in attendance at church activities due to fear of reprisal of those who would otherwise attend said activities and services."

One charge alleges that the "confusion and similarity has led to malicious gossip regarding the alleged handling of plaintiff's funds by plaintiff's pastor and has created an emotional situation manifested by implied threats of bodily harm by defendants against said pastor (Ledbetter)."

As yet, no answer has been filed in Stoddard County Magistrate Court by the defendants.

Due to the zealous preaching of ministers in the 1890s against "sucking soda" through a straw, the ice cream soda was outlawed in several states. Ice cream parlors concocted a "soda-less soda" and sarcastically called it the Sunday. Today, it's spelled sundae.

THE BIBLE

133. God Selects David

When Samuel learned of the Lord's displeasure with Saul, Samuel mourned for him and did not go near the doomed king. Then the Lord commanded Samuel to go to Bethlehem and seek out Jesse, for the Lord had chosen one of his sons to be the new king. Samuel feared to go, for Saul would surely kill him, but the Lord told him to take a heifer and sacrifice it so that God could reveal the chosen son of Jesse.

Samuel did as he was commanded, for the Lord had told him that during the sacrifice Jesse's son, who was to be king, would be identified. After the sacrifice, seven of Jesse's sons were presented, but all were rejected. When Samuel discovered that the youngest son was tending sheep in the fields, he sent for him at once, and he brought him in.

"...Now he was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the Lord said, Arise, anoint him: for this is he. Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his bretheren; and the Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward..." (I Samuel 16:12-13)

Police officer spends 8 months in dope ring

DETROIT (AP) — During his eight months in the dope racket, Vincent Mazzara was known to his drug friends as a fast wheeler-dealer who spent thousands of dollars on heroin and cocaine.

That image was shattered when federal and local authorities broke a dope ring and confiscated an estimated $6 million in drugs on information supplied by Mazzara—a Detroit police officer.

Mazzara's role in the recovery of 13½ pounds of heroin and four pounds of cocaine— largest in the city's history —was told Thursday by The Detroit News.

"It's hard to think that it's over," Mazzara, 24, said of an undercover life during which he was threatened with death several times. He refused to carry a gun because it might have revealed his true role.

"I wanted to stay as far removed from being identified as a police officer as I possibly could," he said.

Mazzara, on the Detroit force just three years, said he learned to change his character roles and attitudes as he rapidly moved up in the drug world during his assignment.

He first pretended to be a hippie, sporting a woolly hairdo and a pierced ear. Then to show his drug associates he was improving his life style, he traded in his faded jeans and earring for expensive clothes, styled coiffure, trimmed mustache and flashy sports car.

His ruse was so convincing that one dealer Mazzara worked with cried in disbelief when he was arrested during a roundup of suspects Tuesday night, the newspaper said.

Mazzara said he had himself arrested last August during a raid on a drug hangout and then began to work his way up the ladder as a drug dealer. He said he increased his drug buys from $200 a shot to $1,000 and once flashed $50,000 in cash to make a $6,000 purchase.

He said that at one point, a contact told him: "You're moving too fast now, man. I wouldn't give you a nickel that you'll live six months."

However, Mazzara said he continued to make bigger and bigger buys and eventually became a close associate of some of Detroit's principal dope dealers.

Mazzara's deals and wiretaps of the top peddlers also led federal agents to major dealers in New York and Texas, law enforcement officers said.

Asked why he took the assignment, Mazzara said, "I guess it's just a lot of ambition. I wanted to be the best."

WE SELL YOU GOOD TIRES, AND THEN TAKE CARE OF THEM.

NO-COST BALANCING. We don't understand why a tire store would sell you a tire and then charge you to make it work right on your car. So, as a participating Sunoco dealer, we balance every tire we sell. No charge.

CONTINUOUS CHECK. When you buy a set of our tires, we have a chance to look them over when you come in for service. That way, we can help you take care of them. If we find signs of poor alignment, improper balance or an imperfection, we can recommend what should be done to correct it.

BACKED BY TWO COMPANIES. When you buy tires from a Sunoco dealer, you're backed by the dealer himself, by Sunoco and by Firestone or Goodyear. If there's something wrong with the tire you bought from us, and the dealer doesn't make it right, you've got two companies to look to. Not just one. See for yourself. We can be very friendly.

CREDIT TERMS. When you buy tires from us, you can use your Sunoco credit card. In fact, you can get extended payment terms so that you don't have to pay all at once.

Goodyear or Firestone tires are sold by participating independent service station dealers displaying the Sunoco sign. Tire prices and services offered, including balancing of tires, may vary. Tire guarantee terms are disclosed in writing at the time of purchase.

Social Services director likes business approach

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's new director of the Social Services Department says he considers himself a "professional administrator" who likes to take a "business approach" to welfare problems.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond introduced the director, Lawrence "Cap" Graham, 51, at a news conference Thursday.

Graham, director of the Nebraska Department of Public Welfare, will take over June 1. His department will be formed July 1 under state government reorganization.

Graham becomes the fourth department director nominated by Bond under reorganization. The department directors must be confirmed by the state Senate.

The others are Alfred Sikes, director of consumer affairs, regulation and licensing, James L. Wilson, director of natural resources, and John G. Brawley, an airline official and chairman of the Bi-State Development Agency, as director of transportation.

Wilson now is parks director and Sikes is director of community affairs.

"Under his direction Nebraska was the first state to develop a computerized system to show how tax dollars are being spent for social services," Bond said. "He developed a quality control system which federal authorities say is responsible for the lowest eligibility rate in the Midwest region."

When Graham took over as Nebraska welfare chief in 1972, Nebraska had the highest error rate in the nation. Now it is the seventh lowest. Missouri ranks 21.

A former school superintendent in Nebraska, Graham was in charge of public school finance in the Nebraska Department of Education from 1967-71.

He also served as chief of personnel and training for the Nebraska Welfare Department from 1962-66. He holds a bachelor's degree in education and accounting from Wayne State College, and a master's in school administration from the University of Northern Colorado. He is married and has two children.

Graham, who will receive $30,000 a year compared with $18,500 as head of the Nebraska Welfare Agency, said he considered himself a "professional administrator."

Graham's new department will encompass the divisions of Health, Family Services (welfare), Youth Services (former the state board of training schools) and Board of Probation and Parole.

Asked if he would take a "hardnosed approach" to meeting problems in the Missouri Division of Welfare, Graham said he would take a "business approach."

He said he believed in good data processing systems and will establish a surveillance crew to supplement the quality control teams who check for overpayments, underpayments and payments to ineligible recipients.

Bond said a nationwide search was conducted before Graham was selected, and he was recommended by officials of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

New UHF TV station could show 30% sports

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent NBC estimate says sports programming by the three networks now peaks in the fall at about 15 per cent of everything the networks air in a given week.

This is indeed impressive, but it's pee-wee league stuff compared to the sports program plans Earl L. Boyles has for a new UHF television station he recently opened in Orlando, Fla.

Boyles, president and board chairman of station WSWB, says he expects that by midJuly, his sports programming could run as high as 30 per cent of everything his station shows in a week.

He said his $3.6 million facility, which began transmitting March 31, now only carries Atlanta Braves baseball games, weekend golf and tennis shows and one half-hour of midget car racing on one night.

But he said this summer he also plans to broadcast, in prime evening time, televised games of not one but two pro football leagues—the Canadian Football League and the new World Football League.

Excluding the two leagues' championship games, that'd work out to 43 football games on summer and fall nights, according to schedules already announced by the companies televising the games.

"We're trying to go heavy for sports," Boyles understates, acknowledging that his planned peak percentage of that kind of programming necessarily will tail off as the baseball, WFL and CFL seasons tail off in September and November.

However, he said he hopes to pick up some of the slack with pro basketball, pro ice hockey — if he gets local rights to the latter — and some of the network sports attractions local network affiliates may decide not to air.

Boyles, who said his station isn't a network affiliate, was asked why he's decided to emphasize the sports world on TV instead of loading up with syndicated and reruns of old network shows.

What's the law?

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Mrs. Katz and Mrs. Wolff got into an argument, Mr. Katz anticipated that unless he broke it up, the fur would be flying. Mr. Wolff, however, urged him to stay out of it and to let the girls fight it out like men. And, so he did. The fight, however, lasted only a few minutes when Mrs. Wolff landed an uppercut that exploded on Mrs. Katz's jaw like an H- bomb.

When the "mushroom" finally dissipated, Mrs. Katz sued Mr. Wolff for assault and battery.

"She must have taken more of a beating than I thought," responded Mr. Wolff in court. "She's off her rocker. I didn't hit her. It was my wife who did."

"While he may not have done the actual swinging," retorted Mrs. Katz, "he's still the one to blame. He kept coaxing his wife to let me have it and she sure did. I've been hearing birdies ever since."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the coaxing Mr. Wolff liable for assault and battery?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a person need not actually participate to be responsible for an assault and battery. Any person who encourages or incites an assault by words, gestures, looks or signs, or whom by any means approves of the assault and battery, is in law deemed to be an aider and abettor and liable as a principal. In this case, concluded the judge, Mr. Wolff could have sent his wife home but, instead, encouraged her to stay and do battle.

Funeral services for James L. Love, 80 years old, who died at his farm residence, north and east of Miner Switch Tuesday, were held Wednesday. He had been in poor health since last October, when he fell from the porch of his home. Later he sustained a broken hip from a second fall, from which he never recovered.

The high school seniors were honored Tuesday with a tea given by students of the home economics department.

The third grade pupils, of which Miss Jewell Mouser is teacher, entertained their parents and friends Wednesday with a musical program at the grade school. The following were soloists: Don Phillips, Alice Van Horne, Joy Mae Edwards, Mary Lewis, Phyllis Harrison, Ed Dan Renner, Billy Anderson, Evelyn Klein, Patsy Ruth Gentle, Tommy Roberts, Carolyn Weltecke, Joe Dye, Elizabeth Ann Baker, Sue Tanner, and Mary Jane Cummins.

Sikeston golfers treated their Charleston guests rather roughly in their match tournament held on the local club grounds Sunday. The final score was 50 to 2. Lumsden and Lee, Sikeston's junior golf flashes, played the local course in one stroke over par, which is unusually good golf for this early in the season.

Fast processing of tax returns saves state money

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Speedy processing of state income tax returns has not only made the state $100,000 but could go a long way in enabling the Revenue Department to meet its June 15 target date for return of refunds.

State Revenue Director James R. Spradling said Wednesday the fast processing of the heavy influx of tax returns after the April 15 deadline permitted the department to make deposits of the funds by April 25, a week earlier than last year and possibly the earliest deposits of tax return money have been made in the history of the department.

Deposit of the funds within 10 days after the return deadline will net the state an estimated $100,000 extra in interest, Spradling said.

"With this out of the way, we can once again concentrate all our efforts on the refunds to Missouri's taxpayers," he commented. "We are still hopeful that our June 15 target date will be met."

— The first president to be born in the United States of America was Martin Van Buren, on Dec. 5, 1782. All preceeding presidents were born during the British colonial rule.

4 arrested in 'Zebra' murders are released

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four of seven men arrested in connection with a wave of "Zebra" murders here have been freed for lack of evidence, police say.

Police Sgt. William Kearny identified those freed Thursday night as Thomas Manney, 31, a star football player at San Francisco State University in the early 1960s; Clarence Jamerson, 37; Dwight Stallings, 28; and Edgar Burton, 22.

They had been booked for investigation of conspiracy to commit murder.

Kearny said the four were released because it became evident "during the course of the investigation that no further procedures against them are feasible at this time."

He said Chief of Inspectors Charles Barca planned a news conference on the matter today.

But formal murder and other charges had been filed against the three other men still in custody—Larry C. Green, 22; J.C. Simon, 29; and Manuel Moore, 29, police said. They are to appear Monday before a county grand jury.

The new developments were disclosed as Mayor Joseph L. Alioto was en route to Washington, D.C., to consult with U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe on his theory that an organization called "Death Angels" was linked to some 80 killings in California.

Alioto says those 80 killings include 12 murders in a six-month period here in a case San Francisco police have code-named "Zebra" after a communications channel. Six other persons were wounded.

All of the "Zebra" victims were white. They were shot down in apparent unprovoked attacks by young blacks, police say.

Green was charged in connection with a case not listed by police as part of the "Zebra" file, the Oct. 20 kidnaping and decapitation of Mrs. Quita Hague, 28. Also charged in that case was Jesse Lee Cooks, now serving a life sentence for murder.

Green and Cooks are charged with conspiracy to commit murder, murder, kidnaping, armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon, Chief Asst. District Atty. Walter Giubbini said.

Police say Mrs. Hague was beheaded with a machete-like weapon and her husband, Richard, 30, savagely beaten and slashed in the attack. They were forced into a white van as they walked near their Telegraph Hill home, police said.

Moore and Simon are accused of shooting down Jane Holley on Jan. 28 as she removed clothes from a washer at a downtown laundromat and slaying Alario Bertuccio, 81, with gunfire as he walked home from work on Dec. 20.

Moore also is charged with shooting Terry White, 15, and Ward Anderson, 18, at a San Francisco bus stop on April 14. Both teen-agers survived.

Police had listed all four victims as targets of "Zebra" attacks.

Police said a white Dodge van seized in a raid Wednesday at the Black Self-Help Co., a moving and storage business, appeared to be a key piece of evidence in the case.

Alioto said an informer, possibly enticed by a $30,000 reward, provided the major break in the case. He said the "Death Angels" dress neatly and purport to live according to a "puritanical code of moral conduct," but teach their young men the "techniques of killing and incapacitating."

Transcripts only act 2 of Watergate

WASHINGTON — The Nixon transcripts now on the public stage are only the second act of the three-act drama of Watergate as seen from the Oval Office.

It's a defect that such critics as the House Judiciary Committee and special prosecutor Leon Jaworski are pointing out.

The story of Watergate as told in the transcripts doesn't begin until Sept. 15, 1972, three months after the June 17 breakin at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Still hidden from public view are those scenes that followed immediately after the break-in, including the June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H.R. Haldeman—the tape which had an 18½-minute buzz.

Also, the edited transcripts fail to include any of the conversations that took place in the White House after the Watergate hearings began May 17, 1973.

Missing is the President's reaction to the testimony of such witnesses as James W. McCord Jr., the ex-CIA agent turned informer; Jown W. Dean III, White House counsel turned presidential accuser, and formr Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, once one of the President's closest advisers.

The fat volume of transcripts also tells nothing of what was discussed while the President drew up his early Watergate statements.

According to White House sources, the transcripts also covered eight conversations for which the House Judiciairy Committee already had tapes.

Of the 27 other conversations in the blue-bound book, six were extras, not sought by the committee. However, 11 of the conversations included in the committee's subpoena were not turned over. An undetermined number of those do not exist.

KC camp closes

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — "It's unfortunate that the academy concept cost too much," says Branch Rickey III, assistant director of the Kansas City Royals' Baseball Academy in Sarasota which was curtailed in a cost-saving move this week.

"The philosophy of run-and-throw baseball taught by my father and grandfather to the St. Louis Cardinals in the '30s and '40s and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the late '40s and early '50s is very comparable to what the Royals had here," said Rickey.

The American League team's four-year-old Academy went a step further than just training young prospects for the game.

It also required them to study at nearby Mantee Junior College.

The college requirement and the full-time baseball workouts ended Wednesday when nine staff members, including Rickey and director Carlton Keller, were dismissed. Three coaches were retained to conduct a reduced training program.

"Unfortunately, I feel this decision spells the end of the academy concept," said Harold Claassen, 68, the Academy's public relations director.

Claassen had taken over the Academy duties after retiring as executive sports editor of The Associated Press.

The facility will also be used to house minor league players in spring training next year.

"Something had to give," said Lou Gorman, vice president of procurement and development for the Royals. "The Royals have not shown a profit in six major league seasons.

"Last year, we drew 1,345,000 fans and the baseball program lost $1.1 million. The cuts had to come some place," said Gorman.

Netmen lose in district

KENNETT — Coach John Heacox's Sikeston Bulldog tennis team had their season come to an end here Wednesday afternoon in the sub-district tournament as Caruthersville took first place with 13 points to qualify for the district playoffs in Cape Girardeau Friday. Poplar Bluff was second with seven points and Sikeston took third with 5½ points.

"If we had been in the other division we might have won", commented coach Heacox. There were ten teams entered in the tournament. Sikeston finished second last year but had won the tournament the two previous years.

"We had only one senior on the squad and one junior, so we have a real young team and should be back in the drivers seat next year," he said. "We have 15 sophomores that are good tennis players to build on", coach Heacox continued.

Sikeston ended their season with an 8-5 mark after ending last season with a 9-1-1 slate.

Rick Gubin and Bob Spencer of Caruthersville won the singles matches to advance and Steve Catron and Rick Garman of Poplar Bluff teamed to take the doubles championship.

Matt Matthews and Chuck Medelberg split sets 7-6, 6-7, and lost 6-4. Jeff Robey and Craig Vogels lost to Crysler and Smith of Caruthersville 4-6, 6-4, 4-6.

Clayton honored

Don Clayton, a well known Southeast Missouri athlete from Malden, will be honored by his homefolk May 13 at a special "Don Clayton Night, sponsored by the Malden Rotary Club.

Clayton terrorized MHS Greenwave opponents with his dazzling speed on the gridiron and led Malden to a second place in the state tournament in 1970.

The 5-foot- 11 speedsters latest accomplishments has been on the campus of Murray State University at Murray, Ky., where he has earned All- American status on the Kodak All-America College Division I football team.

Clayton was the nation's second leading grounding gainer in 1973 with 1,403 yards.

Mules runaway with KHS title

KENNETT — The Poplar Bluff Mules' track team had an easy time capturing the Invitational meet held here Tuesday afternoon as their nearest opponent, the host KHS Indians were some 44 points in second place. The Mules garnered 93 total points. Jackson was a distant third with 38. Charleston took fourth with 34. Dexter was fifth with 23. Caruthersville was sixth with 20. The Sikeston Bulldogs camy in seventh with only 10 points and Malden was last with a total of five.

Poplar Bluff took nine of the 17 events, winning the shot, long jump, discus, high jump, both hurdle races, 100 yard dash, 200 yard run, and the mile relay.

Sikeston did not take a first in any event but did place in five.

John Farris took third in the discus. The Bulldogs two mile relay team finished fourth. Martin was fifth in the 100 yard dash. Sikeston's 880 relay team finished fifth Shane Wagoner was third in the pole vault.

The next meet for the Bulldogs will be Friday at Public Schools Stadium in the conference meet at 5:00.

32-team tourney field proposed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thirty-two teams may compete in the 1975 championship basketball tournament of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The NCAA executive committee, meeting in Kansas City, said Thursday it will request the Division I basketball committee to investigate the possibility of enlarging the championship field to 32 teams from the present 25.

To do this, a spokesman said, some runnersup in collegiate conferences throughout the country would be selected to compete. The basketball committee would not be obligated to fill the bracket if it felt there were not enough good teams available.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, May 3, the 123rd day of 1974. There are 242 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1802, Washington, D.C., was incorporated.

On this date:

In 1494, Christopher Columbus discovered the island of Jamaica.

In 1814, King Louis XVIII returned to Paris after allied forces had defeated Napoleon.

In 1892, the British financier, Cecil Rhodes, became premier of the Cape Colony, South Africa.

In 1919, airplane passenger service was inaugurated when Robert Hewitt flew two women from New York to Atlantic City, N.J.

In 1923, Navy Lt. Oakley Kelly and John MacReady made the first non-stop transcontinental flight, landing at Coronado Beach, Calif.

In 1944, synthetic quinine was produced in a Harvard University laboratory.

Ten years ago: In Saigon several persons were wounded when a terrorist bomb was thrown into a crowd of Americans gathering to look at a U.S. ship which had been sunk by explosive charges.

Five years ago: India's first Moslem president, Zakir Husain, died at 72 after a heart attack.

One year ago: Henry A. Kissinger said the situation had improved in Cambodia, and negotiations might begin in the near future to end the fighting in the Indochina country.

Today's birthdays: Israeli Premier Golda Meir is 76 years old. Playwright William Inge is 61.

Thought for today: One may smile and smile and be a villain still — William Shakespeare, 1564-1616.

From top to bottom above are three of the most popular plants for flower beds — tall, tapering snapdragons, semi-dwarf American marigolds, and dainty white alyssum creating a dense edging. Snapdragons especially are favorite bedding plants because it takes eight weeks to grow a flowering-size plant from seed. After flowering in spring and early summer the snapdragons can be cut back to flower again during cool weather of fall, while the marigolds and alyssum will survive summer's heat quite well.

2. Card of Thanks

The family of Lula Jane Dye wishes to express its deepest gratitude for all that was done for them during their time of bereavement. A special thanks to the pallbearers and to the Christian Memorial Funeral Home for their kindness, and the comfort they brought us, and for all those who sent flowers, food, cards, and other expressions of sympathy. These acts of kindness will always be remembered.

THE MIGHTIEST SWAT OF ALL.

Down through the years, baseball has had its heavy hitters . . . the sluggers who could be counted on to bring home the runs. Favorites of coaches and fans alike, these are the players who draw fans and win ball games.

Advertising has its heavy hitters too. And the mightiest swat of all is found in the smallest ads . . . the Classified ads in your newspaper. They do more things for more people at lower cost than any other form of advertising.

Call on Classified when you have a communications need . . . whether it's buying, selling, hiring, renting or just telling. It's a sure hit!

Charleston man fined for supplying liquor to minors

CHARLESTON — In a Magistrate Court trial Thursday, Kenneth Wayne Farrell of Charleston was found guilty of supplying liquor to minors and was assessed a $50 fine by Judge T. J. Brown Jr., who gave Farrell until May 9 to pay the fine and $22 in court costs.

Gloria Swift of Wyatt was sentenced to 10 days in the Mississippi County jail on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Felony charges of burlary and larceny against Dale McMillian, Ronnie McMillian and Lloyd Dean of Charleston was continued, and bond was set at $1,000 each. They are accused of breaking into a barn located near Highway 77, owned by W. S. Babb, and stealing a five- gallon can of farm chemical on April 20.

A felony charge of possession of a controlled substance (marijuana) against Monty Linden Thurman of Charleston was continued to May 9. Thurman, who is free on $5,000 bond, was arrested April 26 on North Main Road in Charleston when about two pounds of marijuana were found on the front seat of his car.

Sammy Dale Morgan of Charleston pleaded not guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and underage possession of beer. The charges were continued to May 9 to allow Morgan time to employ an attorney.

Fines of $66 each were paid by Richard Earl Pickett of Charleston and Timothy Don Hutcheson of East Prairie on charges of underage possession of beer.

Fined on traffic violations were:

James Harlen Cossey of Charleston, impproper registration, $21; Relna Hall of East Prairie, speeding, $26; Velda E. Blasingain of East Prairie, no vehicle license, $26; Forrest C. Stevens of Charleston, speeding, $49.

Finis S. McAlister of Oran, commercial motor vehicle following less than 300 feet, $21; Larry Gene Smith of Wyatt, operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license, $26; and Eric Theodore Smith of Wyatt, operating a motorcycle without a helmet, $21.

Charges of driving while intoxicated and driving while license is revoked against William Louis Presley of Cape Girardeau were continued to May 16.

Twenty-two persons appeared in Magistrate Court earlier this week and paid the following fines on speeding charges:

Winford Ray Parson, $39; Johnnie O. Roberson, $33 Anton Schnaufer $31; Vernon Bernard Tompkins, $31; Richard Jounor Watson, $35; Jerry D. McDowell, $31; Charles Ray Ulmer, $26; Joe Bob Galemore, $26; James Orville Britt Jr., $27; and Edward G. Ziegler, $28.50.

James Harold Busby was fined $21 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving by failure to stop at a stop sign, and Walter Cleon Ray was fined $26 for not having a copy of Missouri special fuel user's permit in truck.

A charge of driving while intoxicated brought a $123 fine to William Orville Blue. William Raymond Byrd paid a $26 fine for operating a vehicle overheight by one foot and four inches, and a $26 fine was paid by James David Conn for operating a motorcycle without a helmet.

In civil suits, a judgment of $354.39, plus $11 costs, was awarded to Kalimar, Inc., in an account suit against C. H. Randall Jr., doing business as Bootheel LP Gas Co.

Judgment of $1,594.70, plus interest and $13 costs, was awarded Apparel Corp. of America in an account and interest suit brought against Leonard Braden, doing business as Braden's Department Store.

Charleston Jaycees install new officers

CHARLESTON— Jim DeMann was installed as president of the Charleston Jaycees April 25, at the organization's regular meeting at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Other officers were also installed by retiring president Jack Whiteside, who also presented awards to Jaycees and friends of the club who have assisted with its work during the year.

Other officers for 1974-75 include: internal vice president, Dennis Poe; external vice president, Dennis Rolwing; secretary, Gordon Brownfield; treasurer, Norris Grissom; internal director, David Williams; external director Jake Donaldson; and state director, Danny Gier.

Ralph Smith was the recipient of a plaque naming him the Jaycee of the Year for 1973-74.

Others selected for awards by the membership included Joe Carman, whose committee for the Christmas toy drive was voted the outstanding nonfund raising project committee of the year, and Smith, who was chairman of the Fall Festival Committee, voted the outstanding fund- raising project committee.

Friends of the chapter who received awards were: Art Wallhausen Jr., representing the Enterprise-Courier; Mrs. Charles Stark, who assists the Jaycees with secretarial work; and Mrs. John Suver and Edgar Barnhill, who assisted with a horse show project this year.

Receiving the chapter Spoke Awards were Ray Baudendistel, John Bledsoe, Jim DeMann, Dennis Rolwing, Ralph Smith, Jackie Whiteside, Michael Williams, Bob Stallings, Junior Malugen, Ronald Chambers and Bill O'Guin.

Gordon Brownfield was presented the Sparkplug Award.

Speak- Up Awards went to Whiteside, DeMann, Rolwing, Dennis Poe, O'Guin, Norris Grissom, Dick Stanley, Williams, Smith, Baudendistel, David Manker, Guffrie Malugen, Ronnie Chambers, Billy Finley and Brownfield.

The leadership- in- action awards, for completion of a six- hour study course, went to Rolwing, Manker, Poe, Danny Gier, DeMann and Whiteside.

DeMann presented membership recruitment awards to Bob Stallings, who recruited five new members, and Jack Whiteside, who recruited 25 new members.

East Prairie sets baccalaureate service

EAST PRAIRIE— The baccalaureate service for the 1974 graduating class at East Prairie High School has been scheduled at 7:45 p.m. May 26 in the school gymnasium.

The Rev. Glen Lashley, pastor of Nelson Memorial United Methodist Church, will deliver the address to the 94 graduates.

The Rev. Ray Barber, pastor of First General Baptist Church, will offer the invocation, and the benediction will be given by the Rev. Bill Porter, pastor of First Church of God.

The high school choir, under the direction of Mrs. Weldon Bird, will present the musical program.

Alan LaPlant of Houston, Tex., a 1959 graduate of East Prairie High School, will be the featured speaker at commencement exercises at 7:45 p.m. May 27 in the gymnasium.

LaPlant, son of Cecil LaPlant of East Prairie and the late Mrs. LaPlant, is a civil engineering graduate of University of Missouri- Rolla and is affiliated with Continental Oil Co. in Houston.

Opening remarks and the introduction of platform guests will be given by Supt. Gerald McElrath. The 1974 graduates will be introduced by LaWayne Law, high school principal. Donald Dick, president of the R- 2 district board of education, will present the diplomas.

Invocation and benediction will be delivered by the valedictorian and salutatorian.

World news in Brief

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee, in investigating impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, has apparently linking his 1971 decision to raise milk price supports to a $2 million campaign pledge, the Post-Dispatch reported in its editions today.

The newspaper, in a story from its Washington bureau, said documents it obtained show an alleged conspiracy involving the President, his staff and officers of American Milk Producers, Inc., was outlined by the committee staff.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel called for a cease-fire on the Golan Heights and reported no progress toward a disengagement agreement with Syria as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger prepared to shuttle on to Damascus today. As Kissinger met for eight hours with Israeli leaders Thursday, Israel escalated the fighting on the northern front. The Israeli command said its artillery landed shells within nine miles of Damascus and its planes attacked bases of the Palestine guerrillas on the Lebanese side of Mt. Hermon. The Israelis denied a Syrian claim that Syrian missiles shot down two Israeli jet fighters. A high-ranking Syrian official in Damascus said his government was confident Kissinger was carrying a significant Israeli concession that could pave the way for disengagement negotiations.

Bernie man waives hearing; bound over

BLOOMFIELD— Mike Becker of Bernie has been bound over to Circuit Court after waiving a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer. Becker is charged with stealing a wallet containing $300.

Charges of careless and imprudent driving and driving while his license is suspended were continued against Ronald Leroy Franklin of Puxico, following testimony in a trial before the court.

The attorney for the defense maintained that the state's witness, Trooper Gaylon Collier of the highway patrol, was not at the scene of the accident and had ordered the tickets issued by another patrolman at the hospital where Franklin had been taken following the accident.

The attorney further stated that the basis for the charges were taken from statements made by the ambulance drivers, who were not in court to testify and asked that the charges be dismissed. Judge Blomeyer ruled to continue the case until May 16, so the two ambulance drivers can be subpoened for testimony.

Franklin was involved in a one- car accident on Highway 53 near Puxico after his car struck an embankment and overturned.

Connie L. Parris of Puxico was formally arraigned on charges of possession of an apparatus to administer marijuana and possession of over 35 grams of marijuana. An attorney will be appointed to represent her and she was ordered to return to court May 9.

Charges of driving while intoxicated and causing an accident were continued to May 9 against Kenneth Ray Kennedy of Advance to allow him time to obtain counsel.

Donald Ray Edwards of Cape Girardeau was fined $100 and given a 60- day suspended jail sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, second offense.

Jake Shepard pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. Trial was set for May 16.

Charles Everett Sexton of Commerce pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, first offense, and was fined $100 and ordered to surrender his operator's license.

Robert L. Hanner of Bloomfield was fined $10 for failure to transfer vehicle license.

Wappapello releases reduced

MEMPHIS, TENN.— The Memphis District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, has announced that maximum releases from Wappapello Lake in Butler County are being reduced for the 1974 crop season. The anticipated maximum release for May, June, and July will be held at 4,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) to keep the St. Francis River within its banks.

For the months of August through November, the anticipated maximum release will be held to 3,000 cfs. These releases represent normal operating conditions for the reservoir during crop season.

The Corps cautioned, however, that in the event of abnormal storm conditions, releases greater than the planned discharges could occur.

When you read the chart, you can see that if you save a fixed monthly amount at First National Bank for 15 years, and you withdraw the same amount for the next 15 years, there's a nice surprise at the end of the period. You still have more money left than you put in.

That's because a First National Passbook Savings Account earns 5%, compounded quarterly. Over a 15- year period, it adds up.

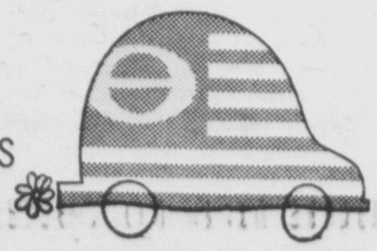
STRETCH

GASOLINE THIS SUMMER.

Smart motorists are getting the most from every gallon of gasoline. By reducing their usual speed. Avoiding jackrabbit starts and prolonged idling. Checking for proper tire pressure. Keeping their cars in tune. If every driver played it smart and saved just one gallon of gasoline each week, it would save millions of gallons of gasoline. And that's what much of this section is all about.



Japan's Thousands of New Drivers Must Keep Cars Safe

Inspection Required Every Two Years Means Proper Maintenance is a Must

By EIZO IKEDA

Japanese passenger car ownership has increased ten-fold during the past ten years. More than half of the enormously enlarged number of drivers are first time car owners, short on experience. Compared to other countries the background of the average Japanese car owner is unusual.

The older driver here, also his fellows abroad, has a deep mechanical knowledge, gained from past experience. He knows how to care for his car and keep her running in a trouble free manner.

For the inexperienced driver, car maintenance presents a problem. He has to have someone keeping his car in shape for him.

Inexperienced drivers tend to buy new cars to avoid mechanical problems.

The average private car runs about 1,000 miles per month, say 11,000 miles per year. Therefore little trouble should be expected during the first two years of ownership. New cars have the advantage that if, and when, they give trouble, it is only necessary to call for the dealer's mobile service unit. So, as a piece of general advice to the mechanically innocent — "Buy a new car and have fewer problems."

There are strict regulations in force concerning the safety maintenance of cars. As a condition of registration, all vehicles in Japan must pass an inspection every two years (one year for trucks).

To pass this test, every car, even one which has been driven only 20,000 miles in 2 years must be serviced completely.

Thanks to this obligatory system, vehicles in Japan are kept in a reasonably safe state. Suspension, brakes, lighting, windshield wipers and non-standard modifications are checked for safety.

It is advisable for owners to get more frequent maintenance for their cars, such as taking them to the dealer's service facility periodically. However, if this is not possible, the driver should ask for a quick "check-through" when he stops at the gasoline station.

Service stations are capable of simple engine tuning and, of course, they check oil, water, tires and spark plugs.

Japan is a small country and the average driving distance is short. So the private owner is unlikely to wear his car out. Because of this, he gets by on infrequent maintenance.

There are very few enthusiasts who service their own cars. I was surprised to find how few people even washed and waxed their cars themselves. In this respect it is advisable for the car owner to learn to detect problems early and turn his car over to the experts.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Eizo Ikeda, who contributes this report from Japan, is presently both Vice President of the Automobile Journalists Association of Japan and Director of the Traffic Journalists Association of his native country.

Ikeda

As one of the leading test drivers of new cars, his reports appear regularly in Japanese and also English language magazines.

Mr. Ikeda was born in Tokyo in 1934 and was graduated from Waseda University in 1957. He has owned and driven automobiles for 23 years.

Improper Carburetor Wastes Gasoline

Virtually any malfunction in the carburetion and ignition systems contributes to gasoline wastage. If the carburetor is improperly adjusted, one of two conditions may exist. Either there is too much or too little gasoline in the fuel/air mixture.

If there is too much gasoline, the excess fuel will not be converted to power but will eventually escape from the engine in a raw state. This not only wastes the fuel but contributes to air pollution. In some cases, a too-rich carburetor setting will cause engine flooding and an even greater waste of fuel.

With a too-lean carburetor setting and with too little gasoline in the fuel/air mix, you hamper engine performance. Thus, you must step on the accelerator harder to get sufficient power to operate. So, more gasoline is wasted.

Other carburetor-related defects that waste fuel include malfunctioning automatic choke and dirty air cleaner. If the choke is stuck, you'll be getting too much gasoline in the air/fuel mixture. If the air cleaner is dirty, then the air supply will be restricted, again creating a too-rich mix. In either case, you're dumping excess raw gas into the engine.

• Champion tests showed the following increase in passing performance following an overdue tune-up. There was an average 8.6 per cent increase in engine power which would allow the car to pass another vehicle in 8.0 per cent less distance.

How They Care for Their Cars Abroad

Automobile Maintenance Matter Of Personal Pride in Britain

Checking more than a million cars in the 37 top pollution centers is the goal of the U.S. Jaycees this year. About 2,000 Jaycee chapters will conduct emissions tests in the 37 cities identified by the Environmental Protection Agency as clean air problem communities. Program Director Bernie Brand points out the same engine problems creating high emissions are the same ones that waste gasoline.

By DOUG MITCHELL

Any dry Saturday or Sunday in the residential streets of British towns you will see them. Legs sticking out from under a time expired heap, a torso bent over an engine compartment, or maybe a young couple adding a final gleam to shining bodywork.

The typical British motorist is tending his pride and joy. Old or young, they all have one thing in common — they love their cars.

And in many ways they are right to do so. A car, any car, given the attention it needs will respond like a healthy dog and run well. Neglected, it will become dull and lifeless.

We are very economy minded in Britain, and especially boast about the number of miles we can squeeze from each gallon of fuel, and economy begins with a well tuned engine.

Probably the most important thing in tuning is to make sure that the ignition system is working properly. Some people will leave things to themselves until, one day, the engine refuses to start, but long before that happens fuel is being wasted by not being fully burned.

Plug Check Advised

Spark plugs are supposed to have a working life of around 10,000 miles but it is quite possible that they will be "off-song" well before that.

An electronic engine diagnosis is not expensive and if carried out every 5,000 miles, any weak spots can be located and rectified before they develop. Contact breaker points in the distributor are usually changed at 5,000 mile intervals but I prefer to change mine every 3,000. They cost little and the benefits are sure starting and better combustion.

A simple thing which will cause an over-rich carburetor mixture and, therefore, high fuel consumption, is a dirty air cleaner. This will restrict the air intake so that excessive fuel is drawn into the combustion chambers and, in addition to high consumption, performance will be down and engine wear up due to dilution of the sump oil.

An engine which reaches its full running temperature quickly is better all round. To encourage this, I recommend fitting an adjustable radiator blind, especially for winter driving. If you do, I also recommend fitting a temperature gauge if you haven't one already to avoid over-cooking it!

Right Tyre Pressure

Another very simple maintenance job which repays handsomely, is keeping the right tyre pressures. If they are too high or too low the treads will wear more rapidly and, believe it or not, the extra drag from soft tyres will increase fuel consumption.

But without doubt, the biggest factor in keeping down gas bills is your right foot. It has been proved over many Economy Events that light acceleration coupled with good traffic anticipation will result in savings of 25 per cent and more. So treat the gas pedal as if it had an egg on it!

One thing you must do — or have done — regularly is an engine oil change. The usual interval is 6,000 miles, but if a car is used mainly for short runs about town, I would halve that period.

Nibble at Vitals

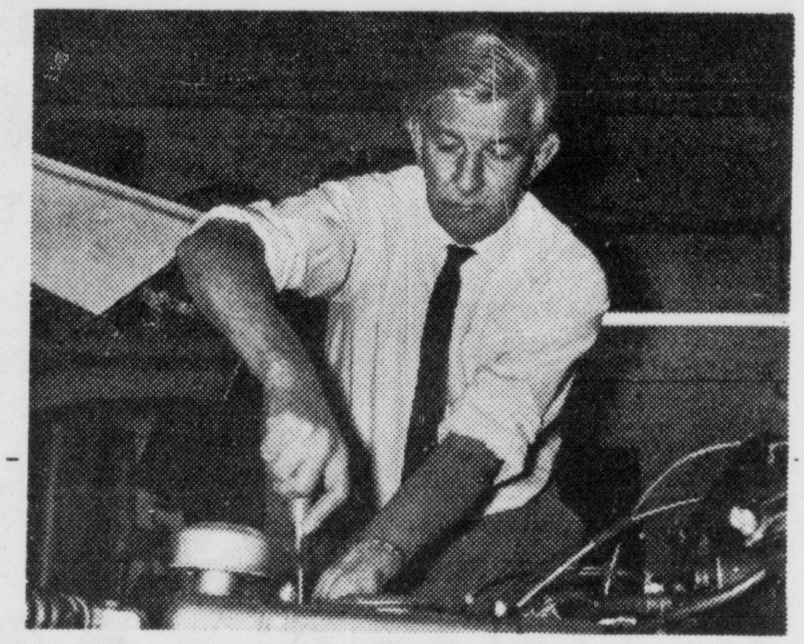
On short trips the engine never really gets warmed up, and by-products of combustion collect in the sump instead of being boiled away through the exhaust. Acids form and nibble away at the vitals severely reducing engine life.

It isn't possible in a short article like this to cover more than a few main points of car care, so I have concentrated mainly on the fuel economy aspect. The things which I have mentioned are all easy to do yourself, and if you do even just one of them, you will reap a benefit.

WATCH YOUR BATTERY

Hot, dry summer days are particularly hard on batteries since fluids evaporate more quickly. Be sure to check your battery often.

CONTRIBUTING THIS ARTICLE IS DOUG MITCHELL, Editor of "Popular Motoring," a monthly journal for British motorists, many of whom like to service and repair their own cars.



Obviously Doug Mitchell, author of the accompanying article, is uniquely fitted to write for his considerable readership of British car owners who like to service and repair their own cars, because he practices what he preaches, witness the above photo of him at work on his own. But he does not hesitate to recommend the services of professionals when maintenance problems require facilities and skills beyond the reach or capacity of the do-it-yourselfer.

Stopping for . . .

Pre-Vacation Car Check Major Step to Safe Trip

No one would think of mailing a valuable package without making sure it was wrapped carefully and completely protected. Yet if statistics are correct, most people aren't as careful when sending their most precious possession on a long journey.

If that invaluable cargo is a family and the carelessly prepared container is a car, then odds are almost even that there is at least one serious defect in that vehicle. The odds are based on reports from official vehicle inspection agencies showing approximately one out of every two cars cannot pass simple safety checks.

To help make certain you and your loved ones have a safe and breakdown-free trip, here's a list of items to check with your favorite service outlet before you depart.

* * *

BRAKES, TIRES AND WHEELS: Have brake linings inspected, check fluid levels and seals and adjust brakes. Check tires for excessive wear or visible signs of damage. If needed, rotate the tires. Also, check wheel alignment and balance and make sure your shock absorbers are not worn out or damaged.

VISION: Check windshield wipers, headlights, turn signals, back-up and brake lights to make sure they are in good condition. Make sure washer reservoirs are filled and that all glass and mirrors are clean.

* * *

COOLING SYSTEM: Clean out and flush the cooling system and refill with new coolant, and rust inhibitor if needed. Check the thermostat, fan belt and water pump. Inspect all belts and hoses and condition of the radiator cap.

* * *

LUBRICATION: If needed, change the oil and oil filter. As part of an overall chassis lubrication, check transmission and differential fluids, front wheel bearings, locks and hinges.

* * *

TUNE-UP: If it has been more than 10,000 miles since your last tune-up, have one performed. As part of the tune-up check compression, coil output, charging rate of generator or alternator, install new spark plugs, inspect plug wires and boots, service and replace distributor components, service carburetor, check emission system and replace air cleaner. Also check battery and cables, cranking, starting and operating voltages and electrical wiring.

HELP ! ! !

If your car should break down on a busy highway, the Ontario Traffic Safety ministry suggests you take the following actions to summon help and create the least possible hazard to yourself and other motorists:

- Pull completely off the road onto the shoulder.
- Use your four-way emergency flashers.
- Lift up the hood of your car and tie a white handkerchief to the radio antenna or door handle.
- Use flares if you have them.

For accurate tire pressure readings, be sure to check yours before you've driven too many miles. Constant, high speed travel will generally increase air pressure.

Inefficient Cooling Systems Can Cut Gasoline Mileage

No one pours gasoline in his radiator, but a car's cooling system can be responsible for reducing gasoline mileage. So can other car parts that seemingly have no connection with fuel consumption.

Since the condition of the cooling system affects engine performance, abnormalities in cooling temperatures curtail gasoline mileage. A faulty thermostat, causing an engine to run too cool, creates a condition where more gas is needed to maintain power. An overheating engine also hampers efficient combustion of fuel.

Inside the engine, a stuck heat riser valve also wastes gas. When this valve is not operating as it should, fuel is not vaporized efficiently and excess raw gas escapes into the exhaust.

As for the exhaust system itself, if there is any obstruction in it, fuel economy suffers.

KNOW HOW TO GET MORE MILES OUT OF A GALLON.....

THIS QUIZ IS A GASSER:

What does the expression 'Mind Your P's and Q's' mean? According to some theories it was an English bartender's admonition to mind the Pints and Quarts he was dispensing. Today, the watchword is more appropriately, 'Mind your G's' or gallons.

This quiz is intended to help motorists prove how much they know about operating and maintaining a car to get the best possible gasoline mileage.

Knowing the right answers will do more than gratify your ego. It can also save you money in this time of rising prices and dwindling gasoline supply:

1. A freshly tuned engine can save you this much gas compared to one in need of tune-up.
   A. There's no measurable difference.
   B. About a gallon per tankful.
   C. Nearly two gallons per tankful.

2. Replacing worn spark plugs alone can save this much gasoline.
   A. About a half gallon per tankful.
   B. Better than a gallon per tankful.
   C. Almost three gallons per tankful.

3. Switching to a higher octane gasoline than your car requires has the following effect on fuel economy.
   A. None.
   B. It actually increases fuel consumption.
   C. It can save about 25 per cent fuel.

4. By running on underinflated tires you
   A. Burn less gasoline.
   B. Burn more gasoline.
   C. Do nothing more than provide a more comfortable ride.

5. When defective, the following adversely affects gasoline mileage.
   A. Wheel alignment.
   B. Windshield wipers.
   C. Alternator.

6. Brake problems affect gas mileage except
   A. When brakes are improperly adjusted.
   B. When you habitually ride the brake pedal.
   C. When brake lights aren't working.

7. A dirty air filter means wasted gas because:
   A. It produces an improper air-fuel mixture in the carburetor.
   B. Should dirt get into spark plugs, they can't function properly.
   C. The added weight creates "hyperstatic flux."

8. According to some sources running your car's air conditioning can cost you as much as
   A. A mile per gallon.
   B. Two miles per gallon.
   C. Three miles per gallon.

9. Only the following has no effect on gasoline mileage.
   A. Jack rabbit starts.
   B. Unnecessary use of turn signals.
   C. Prolonged periods of idling.

10. Reducing speeds from 70 to 50 miles per hour can
    A. Save over 20 per cent gas mileage.
    B. Cost you 5 per cent more gasoline.
    C. Has no effect.

ANSWERS: 1. C, according to tests conducted by Champion Spark Plug Company; 2. B, according to the same tests; 3. A. Consult your owner's manual for recommended gas; 4. B, not to mention tire wear. (Check for correct tire pressure when you get gas.); 5. A; 6. C; 7. A; 8. C; 9. B; 10. A.

Car Care Key to Keeping Yours on Road

Twin Problems Faced By Motorist Require Better Maintenance

"May I use the car?"

This question is no longer the exclusive property of some teen-ager asking dad for permission to use the family auto. With growing shortages of fuel, restrictions of emission limits and other regulations facing the motorists, soon the whole nation might be asking, "May I use the car?"

As we enter the period of the year when car ownership and operation is most pleasureable — vacation time — the motoring public must face up to some unpleasant facts.

The energy shortage is growing more severe and pessimistic sources predict that the price of a gallon of gasoline may climb even higher in the near future.

Some Positives Emerging

There is talk of revoking the very privilege of driving in certain areas of the country. This is particularly so in locales with high concentrations of cars and with smog-prone climatic conditions.

It may require uncommon optimism to see the flimsiest silver lining in these black clouds but there are some positives emerging from this negative state of affairs.

One such positive is the growing realization on the part of the car owner that there is indeed a "tomorrow" as far as the supply of gasoline is concerned.

The motorist can no longer operate a car without considering the need to conserve fuel.

Therefore, he accepts the fact that he must both drive sensibly and maintain his car to get the best possible fuel economy.

* * *

An increasing number of owners are aware high speeds and erratic driving are shameful wasters of fuel.

A speeder and practitioner of jack-rabbit starts and habitual lane-changer uses significantly more gas than the prudent driver.

Compelling Reason for Shortage

Add to this the car owner who neglects tune-up, who fails to keep his tires inflated properly and commits other maintenance transgressions and you have as much a compelling reason for gasoline shortages as all the problems in the oil-producing world combined.

The threat to your right to operate your car has its roots in the energy crisis and air pollution problem. However, the level of pollutants from cars is on a steadily declining plateau. All cars built since 1967 have some form of emission control devices. As low emission-equipped vehicles replace older cars without such equipment, the air is getting cleaner.

And as more motorists are made aware that engine maintenance keeps emissions low, even the older cars are emitting less pollutants.

* * *

It's no exaggeration that the average citizen would be lost without his or her car. Therefore, the average Joe and Jane is looking at his car in a new way.

Gasoline prices haven't soared to the point where the fuel will be a substitute for cash at the bank. And a savings account for gas is not one of the services offered by even the most innovative financial institution. But this young motorist and her banker friend demonstrate the fact that up to two gallons of gasoline per tankful can be saved when a car's engine is tuned. Driving sensibly is another sure-fire way of helping to solve the energy shortage.

Faulty Components Can Cause Drag, Waste Fuel

If you think the gasoline shortage is a drag, then there is something you can do to make it less of one. Make sure critical components of your car are in good condition to eliminate conditions that waste fuel.

For instance, lack of maintenance in areas such as tires, brakes, shocks, wheel alignment and transmission can affect gasoline mileage as well as safety. In some cases, these faulty components help create a "drag" on the engine, thus requiring more gasoline to keep the car running.

Underinflated tires create such a drag. So can poorly adjusted brakes, especially when the driver has a habit of "riding" the brake pedal. Gas-wasting engine drag also can result from improperly aligned wheels.

Worn shocks also can cause road wandering with resultant fuel waste.

Slipping transmission bands or low transmission fluid levels can hinder proper changing of automatic transmission gears, thereby causing fuel wastage.

Neglected, these components can cost you money in premature tire and brake wear as well as possibility of expensive transmission repairs. With the extra bonus of better fuel economy and safety, routine maintenance of these items is more important than ever.

Proper Car Care Crucial to Cleaner Air

Federal Environmental Chief Calls Untuned Motor 'Trouble'

By RUSSELL E. TRAIN
Administrator, Environmental Protection Agency

Automobiles are an important part of the American way of life. Since the 1920's, while the population of the United States doubled, the number of automobiles has increased 800 percent.

Today we have nearly 100 million registered automobiles in this country, virtually one for every two persons. And three out of every four Americans are licensed to drive those automobiles.

Our entire way of life has been restructured, especially since the end of World War II, to accomodate the tremendous increase in the number of automobiles and the mobility which they afford. We have built our lives around the automobile and are now almost totally dependent upon some form of personal transportation.

Relying on the automobile's capabilities most of us have situated ourselves beyond practical walking or cycling distances of relatives, friends jobs, stores, churches, medical and recreational facilities, libraries and theaters. And on top of this, in most areas public transit today is either inadequate or nonexistent.

Major Pollutants

As a result the automobile has become the single most important source of three major air pollutants.

It is estimated that in 1971, on a nationwide basis, gasoline powered motor vehicles contributed 43 percent of the hydrocarbons, 62 percent of the carbon monoxide, and 31 percent of the nitrogen oxide emitted into the air.

In many cities, however, these motor vehicles contributed far more than the national averages -- reaching the 90 percent range in some cities.

The Clean Air Act of 1970 requires the automobile industry to reduce these emissions by at least 90 percent by 1976, as compared with 1970 or 1971 emission levels.

Russell E. Train, Administrator, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Even with these major reductions, the Environmental Protection Agency has determined that more than 35 metropolitan areas in the United States, having a combined population of 88 million, would not be able to meet the health-related air quality standards of the Clean Air Act by the law's 1975 deadline unless stricter controls were imposed on pollution sources.

Half Reach Goal

About one-half of these cities can reach their goals by being tougher on stationary sources, primarily industrial and commercial facilities, and through transit improvements, parking restrictions and automotive inspection and maintenance programs.

Proper engine maintenance, enforced by sound inspection programs, is an important part of every community's effort to reduce and control air pollution. The amount of pollution reduction through inspection and maintenance programs varies among cities because nearly every city has to cope with circumstances somewhat different from the others.

Untuned Engine Like Having Hole in Tank

Accounts for Wasting Almost Two Gallons for Every 20 You Buy, Say Experts; Here's Why

Untuned engines will, on average, consume more than 8 percent more fuel than when freshly tuned. However, tests conducted by Champion Spark Plug Company show that in extreme cases badly neglected engines waste even more fuel. Some engines were so badly out of tune that they were using 20 to 35 percent more fuel than tuned engines.

Operating a car with an untuned engine is like having a small hole in your gasoline tank. You're wasting almost two gallons of fuel for every 20 you put in the tank.

According to tests conducted by Champion Spark Plug Company, a tuned engine will consume 8.2 per cent less gas than one overdue for a tune-up. (That is an engine that hasn't been tuned in more than 10,000 miles.)

Champion engineers explained why an untuned engine is a fuel waster.

In simple terms, the internal combustion engine used in almost all cars in use today is powered by the ignition of a gasoline and air mixture.

Two basic systems, carburetion and ignition are involved.

If those systems don't work right, then fuel is wasted.

The carburetor receives a supply of gas and air and meters it in precise amounts to the combustion chamber. Here, an electrical charge supplied by the ignition system through the spark plug ignites the air/fuel mixture. This source of power is converted into the energy that eventually drives the wheels of the car.

Jerry Grant, noted race driver and member of the Champion Spark Plug Company Highway Safety Team, has gas economy on his mind. USAC, the official sanctioning body of Indy-type racing, has cut fuel allowances per race by some 30 percent. So Grant and his fellow drivers will be practicing some of the same fuel savings procedures recommended for all motorists in this time of gasoline shortages.

PROPER CARE

Portland, Oregon anticipates a 12 percent reduction in pollutants through its inspection and maintenance program; Denver and Sacramento look for about a 7 percent reduction and Boston about 3 percent.

Annual emissions inspection in State-operated facilities will cost an estimated $2 per vehicle. Annual maintenance costs are expected to be in the $20 to $30 range for vehicles which fail the inspection test. Most of this maintenance is routine work which would normally have been performed voluntarily by prudent motorists.

In addition to the pollution-control benefits, the Department of Interior estimates that an auto tuneup every six months will cut American oil consumption by 140,000 barrels a day.

A properly tuned car may seem like a small way to cope with today's pollution and energy problems. And yet such an ordinary procedure may well be crucial in many situations. Of all the transportation control strategies devised to reduce air pollution, the one which causes the most public concern — because it entails the greatest personal inconvenience — is the "Reduction of Vehicle Miles Traveled."

Means "Drive Less"

In plain language, that means taking steps to insure that people drive less. New York, Los Angeles, Baltimore and Washington, D.C. have included such measures in their plans. Obviously, the more pollution can be controlled through other measures, the less need there will be for more stringent controls.

An untuned car can, indeed, be a lot of trouble.

Car Needs Check Before Going on Trip

Just as you would have your car inspected before taking a vacation trip to make sure it's running smoothly, check your camera. Shoot a test roll of film before leaving. If the pictures are satisfactory, you can be reasonably sure the camera is working properly. If not, bring it to a dealer and have him check it over.

When you pack your camera for the trip, the first thing to do is "unpack" it and keep it handy for any photo scene that presents itself en route. It won't help to see just the shot you want if your camera isn't easily available.

A word of advice: film is perishable. Heat and humidity are harmful to film. In summer, don't put your camera or film in the trunk, glove compartment, or on the rear-window deck. The handiest place for your camera equipment is on the seat beside you.

* * *

CAR PICTURES

While driving to your camping site, you will want to take some pictures. It is always best to stop the car, but sometimes this is not possible. If you must shoot from a moving car, shoot through the front window. If you shoot out of the side window, the foreground of your picture will be blurry. Hold your camera as steady as possible without bracing it against the car, because vibration will blur your pictures.

* * *

NATURE PHOTOS

Campers, more than other vacationers, have a love of the outdoors and a feeling for nature. Your pictures should reflect this.

The most attractive nature pictures often are those taken close-up—the flowers in bloom, the shells or unusual rocks your child finds, even the toad he brings back to camp; all are perfect subjects for close-up shots.

With extreme close-ups, it's important to measure distance accurately. An easy way to do this is with a piece of string. Whatever close-up distance your camera permits, measure this distance with a string and tie a knot at that point. Tape one end of the string to the lens mount of your camera and you're ready for perfect close-up shots. To take a picture of a flower for example, simply hold the string in front of the camera and move in until the knot touches the flower; then drop the string and shoot.

* * *

FORESTS

When taking pictures in a forest on a sunny day, you will find excessive lighting contrasts, from the dark shadows spawned by the trees to the bright sunlight when the sun shines through. To avoid this striped effect, scenes in the deep woods are best when taken on an overcast day or in hazy sunlight. An exposure meter will be a big help.

* * *

MOUNTAINS

Bright sunlight is best for distant mountain vistas, but don't overlook dramatic storm-cloud effects. Generally, mountain scenes are improved by cross-lighting, plus a foreground object — a child looking at the scene, overhanging tree branches, a rushing stream, or colorful flowers. These will frame your picture, set it off, and create the desired depth.

* * *

SUNSETS

Your family silhouetted against a setting sun is always a good shot to include in your picture-story. If you can look at the sunset without squinting your eyes, it can be photographed in color. In other words, with automatic cameras, wait until the sun is below the horizon or behind a cloud, and then shoot.

After you've taken your pictures and removed the film from the camera, store it in a cool place until you can take it to be processed.

* * *

As a race driver who needs every competitive advantage I can get to win and as a motorist who loves driving, I am truly concerned with the fuel situation. You can bet I'll be watching my gas gauge more carefully this year and I urge you to do the same.

While most amateur photographers want bright sunlight to illuminate their still shots or films, some dramatic effects can be obtained on cloudy or partly cloudy days. This is particularly true on beach shots where the white sands can cast an annoying glare when the sun is too bright. (Photo courtesy of Kodak.)

Fuel Squandered When Ignition System Fails to Function Well

Any defect in the ignition system is likely to create misfire and a resulting incomplete burning of the fuel. Thus raw gasoline will end up in the exhaust, both squandering fuel and creating pollution.

The role of the ignition system is to convert about 10 volts of primary current from the battery to upwards of 25,000 volts at the spark plug firing end. Any defect in this system producing less voltage is apt to create a misfire.

Common defects that can lead to misfire include worn out or fouled spark plugs, deteriorated plug cables or boots, distributor or coil malfunctions.

If any of these components aren't working right, it is possible that the electrical charge provided won't be sufficient to fire one or more spark plugs. The air/fuel mixture will not be ignited in affected cylinders. So, not only will gas be wasted in non-firing cylinders, but you need to compensate for loss of power by feeding more gas to the functioning cylinders.

If there is a general deterioration of the ignition system, the engine won't start at all (with a resultant waste of fuel trying to start the engine).

Poorly Timed Engine Means Loss Of Power; Demands More Gas

Other conditions that waste gas include poorly set ignition timing. A poorly timed engine means loss of engine power so more gasoline is needed to provide power necessary to operate.

Other engine power robbers and fuel wasters include clogged PCV valve, plus other malfunctioning anti-pollution devices and poor compression due to bad valves or other engine defect.

To detect and correct any of these gas wasters, bring your car into your favorite service outlet for a tune-up.

When Sleep Is Not Good for You

"Asleep at the switch," an expression current during the days when railroads were a major means of transportation, could have a counterpart today, "Asleep at the wheel."

About 20% of all automobile accidents are believed to be the result of driver sleepiness. A survey in Oklahoma indicated that 48% of drivers involved in fatal accidents during the past 11 years had "fallen asleep" at the wheel.

Extended driving without rest is the chief cause — even three hours of driving without stopping can cause attention lapses of three or four seconds while driving.

Italian Car Care A 'Not-y' Problem

By MARCELLO SABBATINI

Driving in Italy is more of an adventure than ever. In town, the constant traffic jams lead to neurosis. Main roads are always clogged because motorists use them in preference to the expensive toll roads. Those who use the tollways find two conditions. When they are lightly traveled, everyone drives too fast. The other extreme is being forced to go for miles at walking speeds because there is a jam at the exit or road work ahead.

Symbol of Freedom

The average Italian, who used to worship the automobile as property (at least until the mid-'60's), now doesn't value his car more than he would a washing machine. The automobile is no longer the status symbol it once was.

When Fiat in the '50's gave the Italians the opportunity of mass motorization, the Italian considered the motor-car as a symbol of freedom from years of poverty. With it they were buying a status symbol. And they kept themselves informed on everything relating to a car. And they cared for their cars.

But now this interest in car care is over. The Italian driver puts oil and petrol in when they are needed, but he habitually forgets to put water in the battery until the battery is ruined. He lets the tread of the tires become worn like racing car slicks. At most, he washes his car occasionally. He forgets his anti-freeze altogether.

Push to Maximum

Two of the problems that today Italian motorists absolutely don't worry about: pollution and fuel.

Also, Italians in general drive with the accelerator pushed to the maximum, not only when they go fast, but even when they go slowly. There seems to be an allergy to the correct use of gears in relation to economy in consumption.

Driving with minimum throttle is completely out of fashion; the so-called "egg on the accelerator" (advertised by a firm to promote economy in driving) would continuously become an omelet under the foot of the average Italian driver.

What Do You Think?

But to over-accelerate also means to pollute. And the idea of shutting off one's motor at least in interruptions of traffic is an idea that rarely occurs to our motorists. Everyone is afraid if he turns off his engine, his neighbor will immediately take advantage and pass him, as in fact it happens. (Even at the cost of traveling on the emergency lane, which should be reserved for emergencies.)

But after all, what do you think the pale-blue exhaust fumes are for the Italians, used to seeing smoking chimneys in the exhaust pipes of thousands of mini motor-bikes in between the web of a chaotic traffic that doesn't lighten even in the season of the great fogs in the North? Or in comparison with the smoke of the pollution in industries?

* * *

• Champion idle emission tests revealed a tuned engine produced 57 per cent less carbon monoxide and 48 per cent less hydrocarbons than engines in need of tune-up. Corresponding reductions also were realized at driving speeds.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

Sabbatini

Marcello Sabbatini is one of the best known and most controversial journalists of the Italian motor world. Born 47 years ago in Abruzzi, he has been a professional journalist for 25 years; the past seven as editor of Autosprint.

Asked to give a few hints on driving in the chaotic traffic of Italian cities and on the long motorways (on which, in Italy, there is no speed limit), he said, "I couldn't do the usual article of advice — and so I thought of doing it . . . upside-down."

Traffic Jam Italian Style

According to Italian auto expert Marcello Sabbatini, author of this article, the rapid growth of car ownership in his country has been accompanied by a general and regrettable neglect of car maintenance. So, frequent breakdowns of cars on crowded highways often lead to traffic jams like these. In addition, the typical Italian car owner pays little heed to gasoline economy or pollution, Sr. Sabbatini opines in the amusing report (below) on the habits of his countrymen in caring (or not caring) properly for their cars.

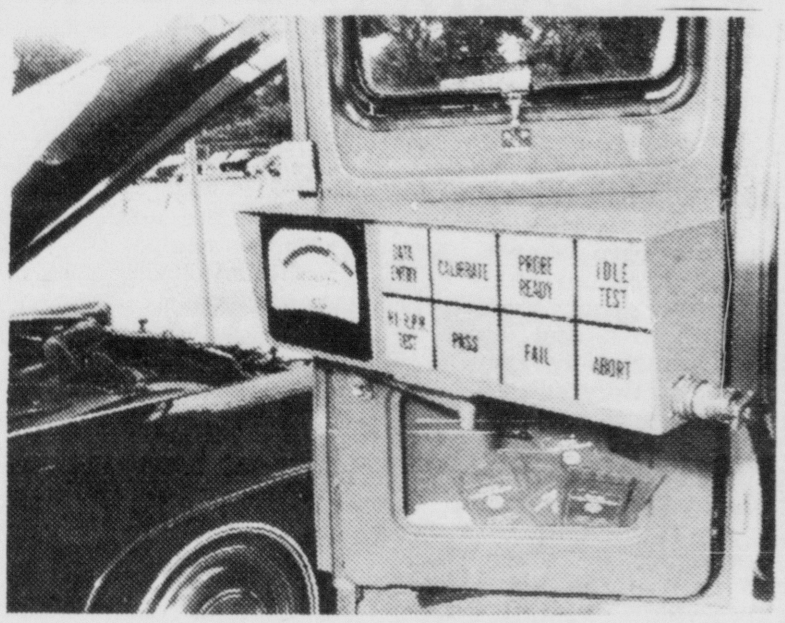
Compulsory Vehicle Inspections Producing Good Results

Little children leap up and down in glee and their parents smile when they see it. This source of pleasure for Chicago residents is a multi-colored "scoreboard" that flashes results of the recently-introduced compulsory emissions tests in the second largest U.S. city.

The scoreboard with its green and red lights that tells motorists they "Pass" or "Fail" their emissions probes may be a showman's touch to the serious program.

But when it flashes green for a car that has just completed the test, the car owner seems to feel genuine joy and a sense of satisfaction that his or her car is not part of Chicago's air pollution problem.



All eyes are on the "scoreboard" that flashes results of the mandatory emissions test all Chicago cars must undergo. Since introduced in June 1973, tests have been held for tens of thousands of Chicago car-owners. About two of every three owners get the green "pass" light and one-third the red "fail" light. The "abort" light is for a small percentage of vehicles that cannot be tested due to major engine malfunctions or unadaptability to the testing equipment.

One Third Fail

The emissions inspection program was begun in Chicago in June of 1973. Since then tens of thousands of cars have been probed to see if they meet hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide limits established by the city.

To date, about two out of every three cars have been able to meet the standards. The one-third who have failed have been told the probable causes of their problems and asked to return for a retest after the necessary engine adjustments have been made.

The test itself is short and simple for the motorist. He drives to one of 18 check lanes situated in various parts of Chicago. The car is hooked up to a test equipment van, with an infra-red emissions probe inserted in the tail pipe and a lead attached to the ignition system. Information about the car is fed into a computer and emission readings are taken at two speeds -- one at normal idle and a second at fast idle.

It is the computer and test machines, rather than the operator, that determines pass or fail. Since allowable limits differ for age of car and for private or commercial vehicles, the computer instantly compares the emissions of the car being tested and what permissible levels are. Results are simultaneously printed out for the car owner and flashed on the "scoreboard" for him to see.

Cars that pass are adorned with a blue and white sticker which is valid for 12 months.

One Major Problem

Despite the fact that the emissions checks are mandatory, helpful to the environment, fairly fast and painless, the Chicago inspection program has one major problem. Not enough cars are being brought in to utilize the capacity of the check lanes.

According to program director Joe Seliber, "We try to remind motorists time is of the essence. While the law states a deadline for compliance, we urge motorists to have inspections done well before that deadline when facilities aren't crowded."

Pollution Wastes Gas

Seliber believes one approach to getting more cars in for testing lies in the current fuel crisis. He said that the same engine malfunctions that cause high emissions are the ones that waste gasoline. Once the high emissions are brought under control, gasoline consumption will go down.

Emissions inspections are conducted without extra cost to motorists as part of their annual Chicago car license fees. There are approximately one million vehicles in the city.

Buying Some New Tires? Put Best on Rear Wheels

When a person buys a new dishwasher, he's going to put it where he needs it most — in the kitchen. Safety experts say the same rule applies when buying new tires. Unless the car has front-wheel drive, tires should go where they're needed most — on the rear wheels.

"When selecting a pair of replacement tires in the same size and construction as already on the car, they should be put on the rear wheels for better traction and handling," says Ross R. Ormsby, Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

Many experts feel motorists who develop tire problems on the front axle, because of skidding or disablement, still have a certain degree of control over the vehicle with the steering wheel. However, when the problem occurs on the rear wheels most drivers have no way to compensate for skids or swerves before the vehicle can be stopped.

Tire safety experts from the National Bureau of Standards Office of Vehicle Systems Research Institute for Applied Technology surveyed independent studies conducted throughout the country and involving thousands of passenger cars. Their findings appear to agree with the Council's recommendations.

There is strong evidence that a significant number of car owners place least worn tires on the front wheels, whereas available accident experience indicates the least worn tires should be placed on the rear.

"Bald tires on the rear appear to be more of a safety hazard than on the front, a finding at variance with automotive folklore. And bald tires on wet pavement make a particularly hazardous combination.

"Vehicles in accidents have a larger number of severely worn tires on the rear than on the front, suggesting that it is safer to put newer or less worn tires on the rear," said the government survey.

• Tuned engines showed improved starting efficiency according to Champion tests. Untuned engines experience twice as many "won't starts" as tuned engines and required an average 15.4 per cent more time to start.

So, in the words of many automotive experts, "Tune-ups don't cost. They pay."

French are Lacking Facilities For Proper Car Maintenance

By ROBERT AHIER

In France one must take as good care of a car as of a wife, better if possible.

At least, this is what people used to say. Now Frenchwomen take very good care of themselves, thank you, and cars are becoming more and more difficult to service.

France is still far behind the United States in mass production of automobiles, highway construction, garages, parking lots and servicing. But since World War Two, the development of automobiles in this country has been startling . . . from an output of 34,625 cars in 1945 to a total 3.2 million in 1973.

Even more important, a big 55 per cent of the total production is exported all over the world.

All Done by Hand

Hours are spent by motorists fixing minor malfunctions with a screwdriver in hand, washing, polishing and painting, all by hand.

This kind of kid glove treatment has become impossible with mass production and the lack of space for personal repairs within big cities. This leaves drivers with a big problem: how to take care of a car without spending too much money?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Robert Ahier, who authors the accompanying report from France, has been a United Press International Staff Correspondent in Paris since 1944.

Ahier

His specialty has been coverage of the automotive industry in all of its aspects from racing and production through servicing since before joining the Paris UPI staff.

Mr. Ahier has a Master of Arts degree in Diplomacy and Law from Paris University and in the United States has studied Political Science and Philosophy at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

In urban areas, garages generally devote their time to one single make of car. It is very difficult and very expensive to get servicing, spare parts and work done. Body finishing has not reached American standards and often rots or peels off.

There is no real answer to this question.

Each of the four French automakers has tried to give its own answer by offering a year guarantee on parts, or a mileage guarantee on parts and labor or some combination of both, in their own registered garages.

But there are hardly enough garages to go around and a one-year guarantee means relatively little to a buyer who spends at least $2,000 on a small car.

In addition, the French cover much less ground each year than do Americans. Average mileage runs between 8 and 15,000 miles yearly. This means people want to keep their cars operating satisfactorily between three and five years.

Studies Being Made

The Common Market has now initiated wide and expensive studies to improve highway safety, pollution control and dependency of cars in the coming years. The Common Market governments are also taking measures to slow down the mass slaughter on roads and highways every weekend and during holidays.

A mandatory check-up of all cars every year or two years by a government-accredited body is also under discussion in government circles, in spite of the heavy costs involved.

A safe tip to North American drivers visiting Europe: don't take your car along with you. Rent one in Europe with as much inclusive insurance as possible, then close your eyes and go ahead . . . . .

* * *

• Tests show that an 8.2 per cent improvement in gasoline economy can be achieved with a tune-up when compared to driving a car that's traveled more than 10,000 miles since the last tune-up. Thus, nearly two gallons of gas per tankful can be saved by a newly tuned engine.

Where there's no Boy Scout around to help, always Be Prepared. Having a safe, properly maintained car and good driving habits are important to all motorists, but the lone woman driver must use an extra measure of caution when she drives. Driving the children to school every day is just one of the times when the lone woman driver must be prepared for every situation.

A SPECIAL DECALOGUE FOR THE . . .

Lone Woman Driver

The Ten Commandments were made for everyone, but the Lone Woman Driver must have a set of her own. Here is her Decalogue:

I

THOU SHALL NOT PICK UP HITCHHIKERS

Being a "lady Samaritan" can be extremely risky when you're on the road alone. That innocent looking boy with the sweet face may be a Baby-Face Nelson in disguise.

II

THOU SHALL NOT GIVE STRANDED MOTORISTS A LIFT

When you're driving along the highway and see an anxious motorist standing in front of his raised hood, keep right on driving. Instead of giving someone a lift yourself, go to the nearest service station and report the situation.

III

THOU SHALL BE SURE TO CARRY SPARE CHANGE

Asking for hand-outs may work for a panhandler, but in times of emergency a few spare coins are a necessity. That pay phone won't work on love, and that dime might just be needed to call the police.

IV

THOU SHALL ALWAYS LOCK YOUR DOORS WHEN DRIVING ALONE

An unlocked door or window is an open invitation for intruders. Your side vent will provide enough fresh air. A locked door is not only a security measure, but in case of collision it'll prevent you from flying out the door.

V

THOU SHALL NOT ENTER AN UNLIT PARKING LOT ALONE

Having a personal bodyguard is not always feasible, but try to have someone accompany you to your car at night. A lone female walking through a deserted parking lot is a temptation few muggers can resist.

VI

THOU SHALL ALWAYS DRIVE DEFENSIVELY

Placing the blame on "the other guy" won't help you much if you're in the hospital. Always watch for the unexpected.

VII

THOU SHALL ALWAYS KEEP YOUR CAR UP TO SNUFF

Avoiding a problem is easier than remedying one. And listen to your "woman's intuition." If you think something is amiss, stop in at a service facility and have it checked.

VIII

THOU SHALL NOT LET YOUR GAS TANK GO BELOW HALF FULL

With the increased fuel shortage, many service stations are operating on reduced hours. It may be difficult to find an open station when your fuel needle nudges empty.

IX

THOU SHALL LEARN THE MECHANICAL BASICS OF YOUR CAR

Your owner's manual wasn't meant to line your glove compartment; it was meant to be read. Try to acquaint yourself with this reference.

X

THOU SHALL BE PREPARED FOR DISABLING SITUATIONS

The basic ingredients for a well-stocked car include: a jack and spare tire, signal flare or lamps, flashlight, city and state road maps, first aid kit, ice scraper and snow shovel.

Canadian Transport Authority Offers . . .

Tips on Safe Trailering

If you are an experienced trailer hand, you might want to turn the page. But if you're one of the growing army of motorists who's going to haul a trailer for the first time this summer, these tips from the Ontario Ministry of Transport can help make the experience a more pleasant one.

Whether you'll be pulling a sleek, 35-footer from coast to coast or hauling some furniture to the cottage in a rented two-wheeled trailer, certain driving techniques are recommended.

* * *

STARTING: Accelerate carefully. Take it slowly and easily.

* * *

TAKING CURVES: Stay close to the middle of your lane.

TURNING —

Right Turn: Look in your right mirror. Signal, slow down. If turn is sharp, move ahead until car's front wheels are well ahead of curb . . . then turn to the right.

Left Turn: Check traffic. Signal. Proceed slowly. When you make your turn, drive well into intersection in order to swing wide, to allow for the trailer.

* * *

SLOWING, STOPPING: A sudden stop can jacknfe your trailer or shift your load, so keep a greater distance than normally between you and the car ahead. Keep out of the fast lanes and maintain a speed that makes sudden stops and slow-ups unnecessary.

* * *

PASSING: When towing a trailer you can't accelerate as fast as without it. Then too your car plus trailer is much longer. Before you pass, make sure there's enough time and room. When you have passed, allow more room before you move back to your lane. Don't cut in and swerve . . . this can make your trailer swing and sway.

* * *

BEING PASSED: Help other drivers pass you where necessary.

We've declared war on waste!

SAVE GAS.

A lot of it. In nationwide fuel economy tests, motorists' cars were tested before and after a tune-up. Results showed that a tune-up with new Champion spark plugs saved, on the average, a gallon of gasoline in every tankful. Considering that 3 of every 5 cars on the road need a tune-up right now, tune-ups alone could save us millions of gallons of gasoline each week.

Tune-ups benefit us in other ways, too. Quicker acceleration for safer passing. Dependable starts. Plus a substantial reduction in emissions.

See your mechanic regularly for a Champion tune-up. Once a year or every 10,000 miles.

"ALL IN THE FAMILY" REBROADCASTS DURING MAY

Following are story lines for episodes of "All in the Family" to be rebroadcast in May (Saturdays, 7:00-7:30 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network. Carroll O'Connor stars as Archie Bunker, Jean Stapleton as Edith Bunker, Rob Reiner and Sally Struthers as Mike and Gloria Stivic, and Betty Garrett and Vincent Gardenia as Irene and Frank Lorenzo.

May 4: Archie is held up by an unusual gunman while driving Munson's cab.

May 11: Another Bunker battle, this time over Mike's overzealous reaction to Gloria's "new look" in a black wig.

May 18: For their 25th anniversary, Edith and Archie are going on a second honeymoon-but nobody's told Archie.

May 25: Archie has a pool game and a "sure" bet with Irene Lorenzo, but Frank claims to have put a Sicilian curse on him.

Sunday Highlights

10:00 CBS— CAMERA THREE— "Rose, Where Did You Get That Red?" Poet, playwright, and teacher Kenneth Koch, whose books overturned the traditional techniques of "educating" children to poetry, demonstrates the young set's natural poetic expression with seventh grade students. Children will read their own poems.

10:00 ABC— H. R. PUFNSTUF— This live- action fantasy adventure taking place in "Living Island" centers on the story of H. R. Pufnstuf, the friendly mayor of the island; Jimmy (played by Jack Wild) and his magic flute; and their nemesis, Witchipoo (played by Billy Hayes). The island is occupied by singing trees, dancing flowers and talking animals. Today's episode is "The Wheelybird"

10:25 ABC— MULTIPLICATION ROCK/GRAMMAR ROCK— A series of 4- minute animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

10:30 ABC— MAKE A WISH— This series with its fast- paced and visually fascinating format encourages children in the 6- to-11- year- old age bracket to think of all the possibilities raised by two key words— in history, geography, literature, art, mythology and language. Original songs also are created to describe each key word. Live action interviews, animation, historic film clips, and film shot on location throughout the U. S., as well as abroad, are used to explore the meanings and associations of the key words. Tom Chapin hosts the series and performs the original songs which are written by his brother Harry Chapin. Today's topics are "Button" and "Red"

11:00 ABC— KID POWER— This half- hour animated series concerns itself with the lives of neighborhood children of various ethnic backgrounds, and deals with subjects such as honesty, prejudice, teamwork and handling new responsibilities that have meaning for 6- to- 12 year olds. The show is based on the nationally syndicated strip "Wee Pals" by Morrie Turner. Today's episode is "Ladies Day"

11:30 ABC— OSMONDS— This animated series starring today's top young musical group, The Osmond Brothers, centers on the brothers' world- wide goodwill tour, taking them to a different country each week. It is based on the personalities of the brothers, with emphasis on Jimmy and Donnie Osmond. The others in the group are Merrill, Wayne and Alan. Today's episode is "Luck Of The Osmonds"

11:55 ABC— MULTIPLICATION ROCK/GRAMMAR ROCK— A series of 4- minute animated films designed to teach through action and original music and lively lyrics

12:00 CBS— SPORTS SPECTACULAR— "Tournament of Championships" featuring amateur boxing matches from Denver, Colorado and "The National Indoor Synchronize Swimming Championships" from Canton, Ohio.

12:00 ABC— DIRECTIONS— "A Comforting Hand: Disciples of Christ"— The story of London, Kentucky, population 5,000, where Howard McKinley Fawbush, pastor of a 230-member church is trying to answer the needs of London and surrounding commuunities. 10:00 WSIU— MOVIE— "Ghost Catchers" Stars: Olsen and Johnson. Some people don't believe in ghosts. Then they learn better, with the help of jitterbugs, a bear that walks upright, and a talking horse. It's a wild spoof on spooks

10:15 ABC— MOVIE— "Young Lions" (Part II" starring Montgomery Clift & Marlon Brando

Monday Highlights

3:30 ABC— MGM THEATRE— "The Bribe" starring Robert Taylor & Ava Gardner

7:00 ABC— ROOKIES— "Another Beginning for Ben Fuller", with guest stars Leif Erickson and Ned Glass. An elderly retired policeman, Lt. Ryker's one- time superior officer, creates problems when he plunges into the investigation of the fatal assault on his best friend

7:00 CBS— INCREDIBLE FIGHT OF THE SNOW GEESE— A documentary chronicling the remarkable 2,500- mile migratory habits of the snowgoose, with Glen Campbell as balladeer- narrator. The program opens by capturing the snow geese as they nest-hunt (the graceful waterfowl mate for life) on the thawed tundra at the McConnell River Delta, west of Hudson Bay. Scenes include the geese defending their young against predators who follow the flight of the snow geese.

7:00 NBC— SPECIAL OF THE WEEK— "Alvin Ailey: Memories and Visions" The Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater featuring principal dancer Judith Jamison will perform excerpts from Ailey's major works which vividly portray the varied influences in his life.

7:00 NBC— MAGICIAN— "The Illusion of the Queen's Gambit." During Blake's levitating act for a benefit show aboard the Queen Mary, robbers attempt to steal the funds.

Linda Rutledge, America's Junior Miss 1973, will crown the new titleholder, on the 17th annual "America's Junior Miss Pageant," to be broadcast live from Mobile, Ala., Monday, May 6 (8:00- 9:00 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network.

"America's Junior Miss Pageant"...

LINDA RUTLEDGE— A YOUNG LADY MAKING IT IN THE WORLD

In early fall, Linda Rutledge, America's Junior Miss 1973, was sworn in as a midshipman in the United States Navy.

"I am a midshipman, not a midshipwoman," laughs Miss Rutledge, a pert young lady from Fort Leavenworth, Kans., who will relinquish her crown to the new titleholder on "America's Junior Miss Pageant," to be presented live from Mobile, Ala., Monday, May 6 (7:00- 8:00 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Miss Rutledge, who as last year's Junior Miss won more than $10,000 in college scholarships, received one of 14 naval ROTC scholarships awarded to women throughout the United States. Upon her graduation from Penn State University, where she is currently enrolled, she will be commissioned as an ensign.

"I hope to work in computer science with the space agency some day," she explains. "I feel a military background will be the best step towards NASA."

The daughter of a career Marine Corps officer, Miss Rutledge stresses that she should not be called a "beauty queen."

"The pageant is concerned with inner beauty, not outer beauty," she says. "But, of course, if you recognize your own inner beauty, the outer beauty will come through."

May 7: Carol's boyfriend is an overnight guest, and Maude is insisting on separate sleeping arrangements.

May 14: Maude and Walter are at it again over Walter's will, which won't allow Maude to make decisions about the estate without an executor's approval.

May 21: Maude is getting Vivian dates with every loser in town, and finally has to call in Arthur to console her.

May 28: The Arthur- Vivian love affair is on the rocks because of Arthur's constant eulogizing of his late wife.

NBC DOUBLE FEATURE NIGHT AT THE MOVIES:

"Lucas Tanner" and "In Tandem"– David Hartman stars as a small- town high school teacher whose progressive methods threaten his job and position in the community in "Lucas Tanner"; "In Tandem" stars Claude Akins and Frank Converse in an action- packed drama about the trucking business.

David Hartman stars in the title role of "Lucas Tanner," a drama about a free- thinking former sports figure whose classroom innovations in his new job on a high school faculty antagonize fellow workers and townspeople alike, and Claude Akins and Frank Converse costar in "In Tandem," a fast- paced action drama about a free- lance trucking contractor's fight against big business interests. The two World Premiere program development projects will be colorcast on "NBC Double Feature Night at the Movies" Wednesday, May 8 (7- 10 p.m. CDT) on the NBC Television Network.

In "Lucas Tanner" (7- 8:30 p.m. CDT), Hartman portrays a former sports writer and onetime promising pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals who returns to the St. Louis area as a member of the faculty of a small-town high school.

Despite the sympathetic support of school principal Margaret Blumenthal (Rosemary Murphy), Tanner's progressive instructional methods alienate some fellow teachers and parents in the community.

NBC- TV sportscaster Joe Garagiola guest- stars as himself in his television dramatic debut. Also in the cast are Ramon Bieri, Robbin Rist, Nancy Malone and Michael Baselon.

Jerry McNeely wrote and produced "Lucas Tanner," which was directed by Richard Donner. Executive producer is David Victor.

In "In Tandem" (8:30- 10 p.m. CDT), starring Claude Akins and Frank Converse, Sonny Pruett (Akins), a middle- aged free- lance trucking contractor, teams up with Will Chandler (Converse), a Harvard Law School graduate, to help Joseph DiAngelo (Richard Angarola), who is fighting to save his land.

DiAngelo is the last holdout against selling his orange farm to a large development corporation which plans to build an amusement park. The other growers are offered a cash bonus if the entire valley sells out and they stop at nothing to keep the trucks from delivering DiAngelo's crop to market.

Pruett's mongrel companion, "Dog," accompanies the two "gypsy" truckers whose social ideals differ, but who share a mutual bond of respect.

10:30 ABC— WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT— "One Deadly Owner", starring Donna Mills and Jeremy Brett. A photographer's model is inexplicably drawn to the purchase of an expensive automobile which is to take her, against her will, to the scene of a murder

10:30 CBS— MOVIE— "Maracaibo" Starring Cornel Wilde, Jean Wallace. An off-shore oil- well fire erupts in Maracaibo, Venezuela, and help is sought from an ace fire fighter who is deeply involved in romantic problems. He decides to put the oil tragedy ahead of solving his own personal affairs.

ARTISTRY IN THE MAIL ROOM

Television sometimes draws its talent from surprising sources. For example, "Cannon" has discovered a valuable addition to its set decorating ensemble in the cluttered mail room of the Goldwyn Studios, where the television series is filmed.

Cheryl Polakow, age 22, who sorts and delivers mail and operates a duplicating machine at the studio, has painted oil portraits and provided decorative background drawings for three episodes of "Cannon," starring William Conrad (Wednesdays, 8:00- 9:00 p.m. CDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Miss Polakow, a recent art graduate of the University of California, Santa Barbara, admits it requires "positive thinking" to work full days at one job and then turn out a portrait of actor Robert Douglas in three nights of intensive effort. That she did, when assigned by set decorator Rick Lentz, for the "Cannon" episode "Triangle of Terror."

Previously, her oil of actress Pamela Franklin was used in "Where's Jennifer?", and her African mask drawings were backgrounds in "Death of a Hunter" on "Cannon."

A contest winner in the drawing and prints division among UCSB art students in 1973, Miss Polakow hopes to utilize those skills soon in a full- time art career.

It would appear the "Cannon" discovery is well on her way.

WDXR— "Blood of Dracula" starring Sandra Harrison

10:30 ABC— WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT— "Geraldo Rivera: Good- night, America" Add Arlo Guthrie to the previously announced guests Grace Slick and B. J. Thomas

10:30 CBS— MOVIE— "Machine Gun McCain" Starring John Cassavetes, Peter Falk. Action- filled story of an attempt to thwart the operation of a modern crime syndicate.

On a desolate Scottish moor, soldiers being trained in the use of a geiger counter are interrupted by an explosion which leaves a fissure in the earth. The following night, two boys view an unknown phenomenon from the fissure and suffer from radiation burns. Radiation, in increasing doses, is the power that motivates the phenomenon, which strikes at all sources with growing force to kill.

10:30 ABC— WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT— "Play it Again, Bogie" A tribute to Humphrey Bogart hosted by Peter Lawford with guests George Raft and Joan Blondell

BOBBY TROUP
Dr. Joe Early
in 'Emergency!'
Saturdays' NBC
Television Network

Bobby Troup wrote his first smash hit song, "Daddy," even before he was graduated from college but his talent has a wider horizon. He's an accomplished lyricist, composer, singer, musician, actor, painter, swimmer and golfer.

In the first four categories, three of the 150 songs which Bobby has written and played have become standards: "Daddy," "Route 66" and "Girl Talk." As a painter, he is considered one of the finest in Hollywood. As a golfer, he plays one of the better games and frequently goes 18 holes with his friend, professional Bob Rosburg.

When Jack Webb gave him an opportunity to play the co- starring role of Dr. Joe Early, a neurosurgeon, in the NBC Television Network's "Emergency!" series, he jumped at the chance. An added attraction was the opportunity to appear opposite his wife, Julie London, another of the series' stars.

Christened Robert William Troup Jr., Bobby was born Oct. 18, 1918, in Harrisburg, Pa. His grandfather owned the J. H. Troup music house and his father later opened a music house in Lancaster.

Troup worte "Daddy" while at the university. Cynthia Hare, Philadelphia's Debutante of the Year, was appearing with a band. The song was played every night. Sammy Kaye heard it, borrowed the arrangement and played it for nine weeks on his network show. Within a month it was on "The Hit Parade," where it stayed for 17 weeks.

After he received his Bachelor of Science degree in economics, Bobby enlisted in the Marine Corps. He spent five years as a captain, much of it overseas. He and Cynthia married and had two daughters, Cynthia and Ronne. They came to California in 1946.

Driving over Route 66, Bobby scribbled most of a song on a road map. Two weeks after arriving in Hollywood he met Nat "King" Cole, and played snatches of the yet unfinished tune for Nat. Two weeks later the song was completed and Cole recorded it. It sold over a million copies and Troup was on his way.

After his divorce he met Julie London, who had dropped into Hollywood's Celebrity Room to watch the exciting musician- composer- singer she'd heard about.

Bobby, Julie, their daughter Kelly, 11, and twin sons Jody and Reese, 10, live in Encino, Calif.

12:00 ABC—MOVIE— "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" starring Vivian Leigh & Warren Beatty

Bob Hope once told an aspiring young performer that he thought success in show business might be just around the corner since the newcomer had one big asset in common with Hope, himself, "people remember your face."

Since 1924 that easily and happily identifiable face (with accent on the ski-jump profile) has turned its facile expressions of mirth, mischief and merriment to vaudeville audiences, motion picture audiences and later to television audiences (the radio run, equally successful, provided only the crisp voice and the superb timing of a master comedian with the listeners free to provide their own idea of Hope's face). Since his equipment for being a comedian included such assets as fine-honed timing and the grace of an athlete, Hope was able to succeed equally in all fields.

Born Leslie Townes Hope in England, he arrived with his family in Cleveland, Ohio, when he was four years old. His vaudeville career, beginning in 1924, expanded to Broadway and network radio success in the 1930's, to motion pictures in the late 1930's and to television in 1950.

Today, in addition to being the nation's most widely viewed comedian on nationwide television, Hope is noted equally for his extensive philanthropies and the expenditure of his time for charitable causes for which he does innumerable benefits (at least one or more a week, every month of the year). He is the recipient of 22 honorary degrees from colleges and universities and has been awarded nearly 2,000 citations for his humanitarian and professional efforts, including the Medal of Freedom from President Johnson, the Congressional Gold Medal from President Kennedy, a special Oscar and Jean Hersholt Award, the Criss Award, the Pacem in Terris Award and numerous others.

RICHARD C. WALD
President, NBC News

Richard C. Wald, appointed President of NBC News in January, 1973, has an outstanding record of achievement in both print and broadcast journalism.

He joined the National Broadcasting Company as Vice President, NBC News, in April, 1968. In that capacity, he was in charge of the entire NBC News "hard news" operation, including its world- wide news gathering facilities and all regularly scheduled news programming. In June, 1972, he was named Executive Vice President of NBC News, with all principal executives of the division reporting to him.

Mr. Wald was long associated with the New York Herald Tribune and was its last managing editor. He joined that newspaper in 1951 as Columbia College correspondent. Later he served, variously, as religion editor, political reporter and, from 1959 to 1963, as a foreign correspondent. His overseas assignments were with the London and Bonn bureaus.

Mr. Wald was born in New York City. He is a graduate of the city's Stuyvesant High School and of Columbia College (B. A. 1952). As the first Harry J. Carman Fellow at Columbia University, he majored in comparative literature, wrote a thesis on Franz Kafka, and was awarded an M. A. in 1953. He was a Kellett Fellow at Clare College, Cambridge, England, where he majored in English literature and history. He was awarded an A. B. from Clare College in 1955.

Mr. Wald lives in Larchmont, N. Y., with his wife, the former Edith Leslie of New York, and their three children: Matthew, Elizabeth and Jonathan.
